Tioga County Celebrates 10th Annual Farm City Day

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WELLSBORO (Tioga Co.) — It was a day of awards and celebration as Tioga County observed its 10th annual Farm City Day July 8 at Sunset Mountains Farm located in the rolling hills not far from the Pennsylvania Grand Canyon.

It was an anniversary of another sort for the Lawton family, who hosted the event.

Former Secretary of Agriculture Boyd Wolfe, current Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes, State Sen. Roger Madigan and State Rep. Matt Baker joined the festivities and had the opportunity to honor the host family by presenting their Century Farm sign, marking the family's 114-year ownership of the farm.

The plaque was accepted by Doug and Jenny Lawton, who operate Sunset Mountains Farm with their son, Scott, and Doug's parents, Warren and Ella Lawton.

During his presentation, Secretary Hayes also presented a mock check to the farmers of Tioga County, representing their share of disaster payments from the drought of 1999. The $1,086,099 check represented the total monies received by Tioga County farmers for the Pennsylvania Livestock Assistance program, the Pennsylvania Crop Loss Assistance Program, and the Pennsylvania Crop In-

Haymakers, New Book In Foraging Around

This issue of Lancaster Farming includes the summer issue of Foraging Around, the newsletter of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council (PFGC). The issue includes haymaking techniques, the announcement of a special PFGC 40th anniversary book, pasture walk schedules, and other information for the grower and grazier.

Pa. Herds TB-Free

EVERETT NEWSWANGER

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — An event with wide-ranging implications for both livestock producers and the entire public was conducted Tuesday here at the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA).

The USDA presented certification that Pennsylvania has now received bovine tuberculosis (TB) "Accredited Free State" status.

Dr. Enrique E. Figueroa, deputy under secretary, marketing and regulatory programs, made the official certificate presentation to Samuel Hayes Jr., Pennsylvania's ag secretary. This climaxed an extensive effort in testing and meeting innumerable regulatory hurtles by local, state, and national public officials and private individuals to obtain a necessary TB-clean recognition.

Slightly less than 10 years ago, an outbreak of TB in the state caused Pennsylvania to loose certification and go from a SHIPPENSBURG (Franklin Co.) — A joint venture of educational activities, tours, workshops, and exhibitions was conducted this week at the Shippensburg High School.

The Pennsylvania Association of Agricultural Educators (PAAE) and the Pennsylvania Young Farmers Association (PYFA) came together for their summer institute and conference and the event really worked well, according to planning committee officials.

A special group of hands-on educational tours were taken to dairy, veal, and horse farms. In addition, orchards, woodlands, and agribusinesses were visited. The women also had a full program of events.

Workshops included environmental law, shop equipment service, judging, nutrition, welding, and other management practices.

The ag teachers elected a new slate of officers that include LeRoy Dreibelbis, Jr., president; Wayne Irish, president elect; Thomas Richey, treasurer; Stephen Kline, assistant treasurer; Gerald Reichard, executive secretary; and Merril Brofee, past president.

At the awards banquet Wednesday night, a tableful of plaques and certificates was given. The PAAE's candidates for NAAE Region VI were pre-

Northeast Broiler/ Fryer Parts — Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
JULY 13, 2000
Report Supplied By USDA

NORTHEAST BROILER/FRYER PARTS - PART I FEDERAL-STATE

Trucklot buying interest was slow and disappointing. Seller efforts to move product by offering out at steep discounts was meeting little success. Wings and tenders continued to receive the best inquiries and were about adequate. All other items were more than adequate to ample. Boneless, skinless and bone-in breasts remained in the longest positions. Retail and distributive movement was light to about moderate. The market tone was steady to fully steady on wings and tenders. Breast items continued weak. The balance of items was steady at best.

ATLANTA, GA.
Report Supplied By USDA

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light to no better than fair and mostly unaggressive. Seller offerings varied but were fully sufficient and competitively priced for the limited buyer interest. Live supplies were at least moderate; weights ranged light to heavy, mostly desirable to heavy. Processing schedules were moderately heavy. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 53 to 65 cents. Trade sentiment was about steady. In the parts complex, wings and tenders were in close balance and clearing. Breast items were weak. All other items were more than sufficient for the light and cautious buyer interest

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Weather has been the market maker for the past month, rains and lower prices. Bearish USDA Report in the headlines today. Boards made lower adjustments but posted a strong late rally, especially soybeans. Wheat 1 to 3 cents lower, except Portland 6 cents lower. Corn steady to 1 cent higher Sorghum uneven, 4 cents lower to 3 cents higher. Soybeans 5 to 12 cents higher.

USDA estimated all wheat production down 3 percent but the big surprise was hard red winter wheat down 6 percent but soft red winter wheat up 4 percent. Bottom line projected price unchanged at 2.50.

U.S. corn production estimated for this year increased and on top of 10 million bushel. Projected usage increase but carryout took a big jump. Lots of corn in supply channels and pipelines expected to remain full. Harvest 2 to 3 months down the road but already concerns about storage space. Bottom line average price guess down 10 cents at 1 70.

Soybeans strong point was a sharp reduction in carryins. However, production numbers were increased. The bottom line average price guesses dropped 25 cents to 4.40. Nice soybean export announcement today.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

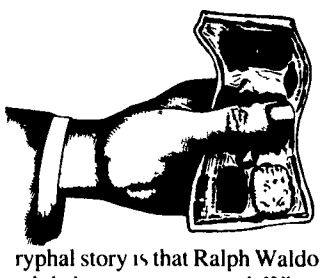
ST. MARY MAGDALENE, JULY 22.

TAXED TO VOTE

July 23, 1846, was when Henry David Thoreau was arrested for refusing to pay the poll tax Many of us learned it as a lesson in civil disobedience, or standing up for one's beliefs Many of us never heard the rest of the story, however. Truth is, his aunt came and paid the one-dollar tax for him the next morning When he was released and heard what had happened, Thoreau objected so violently that the constable—his friend, who had arrested him in the first place—had to threaten him with force to get him to leave A more familiar, apocryphal story is that Ralph Waldo Emerson visited Thoreau while he was imprisoned When Emerson asked him why he was there, Thoreau reportedly answered, "Waldo, why are you NOT here?"



I went to the woods because I wished to live deliberately . . . -H D Thoreau

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ For picnics, be sure any egg or mayonnaise dishes remain refrigerated except when being served.

CURRIED RICE-AND-ORANGE SALAD

3 cups cooked brown or wild rice
1/2 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
1 teaspoon chopped onion
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1/4 cup chopped celery
3 oranges, peeled and separated into sections balsamic vinaigrette (optional)

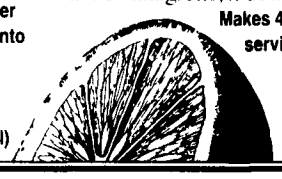
Toss rice with all ingredients except the orange sections Serve mixture in mounds, garnished with the oranges Drizzle with balsamic vinaigrette, if desired

Makes 4 to 6 servings.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

At St. Vincent (July 19), the rain ceases and the wind comes.

Clear on St. Jacob's Day (July 20), plenty of fruit.

The roses are said to fade on July 22.

As July, so the next January.

7th Annual Farm Field Day at Cedar Meadow Farm

July 26, 2000

10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. (Rain or Shine)

HOLTWOOD, PA, LANCASTER COUNTY

"More Mouths, Less Land, Great Expectations: A Balanced Approach"

The Farm Field Day will focus on the latest, most innovative farming techniques that are proven to conserve soil while increasing productivity and sustainability. A host of national experts will be on hand to speak about and demonstrate these groundbreaking techniques.

Dr. Brian Baldwin, Fiber Crop Specialist, Mississippi State University
Mike Hubbs, Agronomist, NRCS Soil Quality Institute, Auburn, AL
Paul O'Connell, Resource Development, World Bank, Washington DC
Dr. Fred Magdoff, Northeast Regional SARE Coordinator
Dr. Andrew Sharply, National Phosphorous Study, ARS
Dr. Robert Steele, Dean of Agriculture for Penn State University
Dr. Ray Wiel, Soil Scientist, University of Maryland and many others.

LEARNING STATIONS

- 4 foot deep soil pit, demonstrating what happens underground, to observe earth worm channels and plant roots
- USDA, Agricultural Research Service will operate their rainfall simulator to determine if phosphorus leaves fields during heavy rainfalls
- The Lancaster County Geographic Information Systems (GIS) department will be on hand to demonstrate its color infrared imagery (CIR), and will explain how this technology is used by farmers, researchers and the government.

NEW THIS YEAR!

- Backhoe excavations immediately following deep tillage passages.
- A primary field trial of fiber and cover crops of kenaf, roselle & sunn hemp
- Sustainable Agriculture Around the World, people from other countries sharing their experiences

EQUIPMENT & DEMONSTRATIONS

Buffalo Rolling Stalk Chopper
Homemade Roller for small scale farms
Worlds Smallest No-Till Planter
GPS equipped ATV
GPS Precision Manure Spreader
Infrared Imagery
Planting
Deep Tillage
New No-Till Vegetable Transplanter designed by Steve Groff and RJ Equipment

Over 40 Business Exhibitors will be present representing a diverse agri-industry.

FOOD!
There will be plenty of food available for purchase. And fresh produce to buy.

FOR THE KIDS
Children won't want to miss an educational adventure with local naturalist Chotty Sprenkle, as she takes them on a stream exploration Kids can also crawl through an earthworm tunnel and assemble soil tubes to create a soil profile

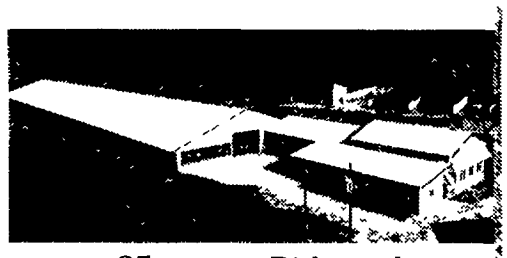
The Building you want. The Lease you need.



Telmark has been leasing equipment for over 35 years. Did you know that we've been leasing new buildings for that long too? Consider:

- Tax deductibility and accelerated deductions: Lease payments are income tax deductible over the term of the lease compared to 20-year depreciation of farm buildings and 39-year depreciation of commercial buildings. Could reduce tax liability this year.
- Low upfront costs: Beginning costs as little as one monthly lease payment.
- Flexible lease term: Building lease terms start aggressively at five years but may be as long as ten, twelve, or fifteen years.
- Customized payment schedules: Lease payment schedules are specially designed to match your cash flow.

First: Talk with a qualified builder to determine your needs and building cost.
Then: Call your Telmark representative for your financing.

OPINION

Ethanol Answer

"Rather than being part of the problem, ethanol is, in fact, a solution to today's skyrocketing gas prices," Plainfield, Ill., corn grower Floyd Schultz told members of Congress today at a hearing held in Chicago to examine the factors contributing to the recent rise in gasoline prices. Schultz testified on behalf of the National Corn Growers Association and the Illinois Corn Growers Association.

While Chicago and Milwaukee are at the center of the controversy right now, consumers nationwide are paying inexplicably high gas prices. In recent days, the American Petroleum Institute has shamelessly attempted to blame ethanol and the costs of complying with federal clean fuel guidelines, particularly in areas like Chicago and Milwaukee where ethanol is used to make cleaner-burning reformulated gasoline (RFG).

"However, let me stress that blending ethanol into gasoline reduces the cost of the gasoline," Schultz stated. "If we were not using ethanol in Chicago RFG, gasoline prices could be even higher than they are today."

A gallon of ethanol delivered to the Chicago and Milwaukee markets, including state and national taxes, is selling for $1.28 to $1.32 per gallon — well below the current price of gasoline. And ethanol is plentiful and readily available.

"It is clear that gasoline supplies are tight in the Midwest market. However, there is no shortage of ethanol. The ethanol industry currently has about 300 million gallons of idle production capacity. If that much ethanol — about one percent of the total gasoline pool in the Midwest — were added to the market, there would be lower prices," Schultz explained.

"Ethanol is both abundant and affordable. It cleans up the air without polluting the water. It boosts farm prices and stimulates rural economies. And it's a renewable fuel source that can help reduce our dependence on petroleum," he said. "When you add it all up, ethanol is not the problem. It's the answer. And that's the secret the oil companies don't want America to know."

To Look At Antibiotic Use

A recent survey by the Animal Health Institute on antibiotic use in animals found that 64 percent of antibiotics are used in human medicine and 30 percent are used by veterinarians and animal owners for therapeutics and prevention of disease in animals.

Only 6 percent of the antibiotic use was for growth promotion.

Naturally, in the few cases where antibiotics are used for growth promotion, it may also be indicated as a joint use in disease prevention.

Anti-animal agriculture activists have claimed the vast majority of antibiotics are used in food animals, especially to promote growth. This survey shows that a little more than one-third of antibiotic use in the U.S. is for animals, including both food animals and companion animals with a very small amount used for growth promotion.

To Look At Organic Standards

USDA recently released a proposed rule to establish a National Organic Program (NOP) under the direction of the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS).

These national standards would include rules for the production and handling of organically produced products, including a national list of substances (approved and prohibited) for use in organic production and handling.

The proposal establishes a national level accreditation program to be administrated by AMS for state officials and private persons who want to be accredited as certifying agents. The proposal also establishes the requirements for labeling products as organic and containing organic ingredients.

The rule also provides for importation of organic agricultural products produced under equivalent requirements.

Under the proposal, to be organic, animals must be raised organically from birth, or in the case of poultry, after the second day of life. Animal feed must be 100 percent organic and use of hormones and antibiotics is prohibited.

All organically raised animals must have access to the outdoors. Processors, manufacturers, and repackers of organic food are covered by the NOP handling standards. Irradiation and some contact between organic and non-organic food is prohibited.

To Look At Size Of Organic Farming

Organic food sales in the U.S. have risen dramatically from just $78 million in 1980 to an estimated $6 billion this year.

There is a projected annual growth of 20 percent per year.

There are 12,000 organic farms in the U.S. The number of farms is increasing by 12 percent per year.

The increasing demand for organically produced foods of all kinds and the premium prices that organic foods can command have attracted many mainstream companies to enter this sector.

When the National Organic Program takes effect and organic food finally comes under USDA national standards, the stage will be set for even faster growth in this market niche.

GROW UP!

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 4:1-16.
Devotional Reading:
Ephesians 3:14-21.

The writer of Ephesians desires that the Ephesians — and us — "may no longer be children." He is speaking not of our chronological age, but our degree of spiritual maturity.

Physically, socially, and mentally we look and sound like adults. Spiritually, however, we may still be children.

When we first became Christians it was understandable that we begin in the faith as children. Spiritually speaking, we must first learn to crawl before we walk, and walk before we run. In 1 Cor. 3:1,2, Paul confesses that he "could not address you as spiritual men, but as babes in Christ. I fed you with milk, not solid food; for you were not ready for it; and even yet you are not ready". Beginning our life in Christ it is anticipated that our faith will be like that of little children, but we are expected to grow in our spiritual faith.

Unfortunately for many of us, it is not that we begin as spiritual children and are not yet ready for solid spiritual food, but that we may fail to ever be ready. Are we to spend all of our lives as spiritual toddlers? We need someone to challenge us in our infantile complacency to grow up!

Tossed To & Fro

One evidence of spiritual immaturity is the state of being "tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine" (Eph. 4:14). Some of us never outgrow this immature level of discipleship. Perhaps we assume that being a Christian means finding and defending what we consider to be true Christian doctrine. But doctrine is of value only to the extent that it inspires and enables us to live as disciples of Jesus Christ.

In the early church there were some who identified themselves as Christian gnostics. Gnosis is a Greek word meaning "to know" and they believed the essence of Christianity was to discover and know the truth about God in Christ — a truth revealed to them, they believed, but not others.

Gnosticism was eventually branded a heresy because it was determined that doing, not knowing the truth, is the foundation of Christian discipleship. Early Christianity spread, not on the basis of the truth that the apostles knew, but upon the truth to which they witnessed in their lives.

A mark of Christian maturity is a life lived in "lowliness and meekness, with patience, forbearing one another in love, eager to maintain the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace." If that is Christian maturity, is there enough of it going around? Is that the dominant and persevering image of Christianity we see in the world?

"Lowliness and meekness," instead of pride and arrogance. "Patience and forbearing one another in love" instead of impatience and condemnation. "Eager to maintain the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace" instead of self-righteous divisiveness and bitter contention.

The Olive Branch

Maybe your personal experience of Christianity is different — and I truly hope it is — but I have observed all too often that for many Christians the essence of following Christ is to do battle with those who believe differently than we do.

Unfortunately, the "sword of truth" (read "our truth") is more popular than the olive branch of peace. Christ calls us, not to do battle for him, but to bear crosses and witness to him.

There is yet another evidence of spiritual childishness — the witness to our separateness rather than our oneness in Christ. Our witness to the world is too often to that of a dysfunctional and alienated family. That is not mature Christian discipleship, for Ephesians tells us: "There is one body and one Spirit, just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to you all, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of us all, who is above all and through all and in all" (4:4-6.)

The mature, grown-up Christian will build up the body of Christ rather than seeing how many pieces into which it can be divided. That's what "mature manhood" and Christian womanhood mean — growing "to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ" (4:14).

We may enter Christian discipleship as children, but we are meant to "grow up in every way unto him who is the head, into Christ" (4:15). Having challenged us to "Follow me!", Christ also calls us to "Grow up!", so that we may no longer be children.

❖ Farm Forum ❖

Editor:

On behalf of the membership of the Progressive Agriculture Organization (Pro Ag), I want to thank Governor Tom Ridge, Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes and the Pennsylvania Legislators for making disaster funds available for agriculture producers all across the Commonwealth. While many farmers could have used additional funds to help defray the tremendous losses they experienced last year; these same farmers will acknowledge that without the disaster payments many more of our Pennsylvania farmers would have been forced out of business.

Actually, in recent years, Pennsylvania has been supporting their farmers very well. When you consider the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board has established premiums on fluid milk that stays in Pennsylvania for many years, and the Pennsylvania legislators did give their approval to the North East Dairy Compact, and now disaster funds have been made available to farmers.

It's time for our legislators in Washington (including those from Pa.) to wake up and follow what Pennsylvania is doing for their agriculture producers.

If agriculture producers were receiving a fair price for their products, than these producers could handle adverse weather conditions.

Its high time for the people in Washington to wake up and recognize the importance of our producers receiving a fair price.

The producers will not receive a fair price as long as our bureaucrats continue to take us down the path of free trade instead of fair trade.

Its time producers receive a price based on production cost at the farm instead of what a manipulated market will yield.

Cheese Prices Falter

- Block and barrel cheese prices fall at the CME
- June federal order prices announced
- Santorum introduces legislation to help dairy farmers
- New compact study released

Cheese prices faltered this week on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange No doubt this had something to do with USDA's new estimates for May dairy product production That report

To The Agricultural Community

In almost a century of service to our community, Blue Ball National Bank has believed strongly in working with our agricultural customers regardless of circumstances. We take great pride in working one-on-one with our customer, learning about their unique situation and standing by them in good times and challenging ones. We continue to pledge our commitment to the agricultural community as we move into the new century.

Over the past few years farming has had its share of struggles. In the face of some hard times, you were able to prevail through the struggles by your hard work, common sense, and commitment to your profession. We were pleased to be of service to our customers in those times and we offer the same commitment to you.

The strength and well-being of the agricultural community is a fundamental strength of the general welfare of the whole community. Working with you, Blue Ball National Bank expresses its commitment to the whole community. Together, we continue to build an even stronger and greener community by assisting you in your business and helping you adopt new and proven farming practices.

We are thankful for our agricultural business and I hope you will always feel free to call on us at (717) 354-3513 if we can be of further service to you.

captive supplies to hold off cattle feeders, and there has not been significant trading of cash cattle since late last month. This week there was minimal trading steady to 1.00 lower from 66.00-67.50 live and 106.00-107.00 dressed. Local Holstein steers ended the week .50 lower. The slaughter cow market finally weakened, after trading at a very high level for weeks. Prices closed 1.00-2.00 lower. Slaughter bulls also backed up and finished steady to 1.00 lower. Supply included 47 pct slaughter steers, 5 pct slaughter heifers, 35 pct slaughter cows, 4 pct slaughter bulls, with the balance mostly feeders.

Control In Alfalfa, Start With Progeny To Achieve Potato Leafhopper

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANDISVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Female potato leafhoppers can certainly do a lot of alfalfa damage.

But the true worry, according to an entomologist, is the female progeny.

The offspring produced by the female leafhoppers, especially the last two weeks before harvest, are "really going to cause you trouble," noted Art Hower.

Hower, along with Marvin Hall, Penn State forage specialist, spoke Thursday morning to about 70 crop advisers, field managers, agriproducts representatives, and other agri-industry representatives.

The representatives attended the Penn State- sponsored Field Crop Pest Management Field Day at the Landisville Research Center.

On a 35- to 42-day harvest alfalfa stand, the last two weeks are critical damage times. Leafhopper nymphs, developing females, and late instar nymphs can create the most damage. The third or fourth instar is when damage "really turns on you," said Hower.

Hower and Hall spoke about the new breed resistance factors to the leafhoppers developed by several companies.

Greatest resistance is about 50 percent on today's varieties on the market. Next spring, according to Hall, varieties with 75-80 percent resistance will be available.

With the new varieties, there is no downside on yield, Hall noted. There is no difference in palatability between non-resistant and leafhopper resistant varieties.

The leafhopper is a tiny green insect which jumps when disturbed. Alfalfa plants "yellow"

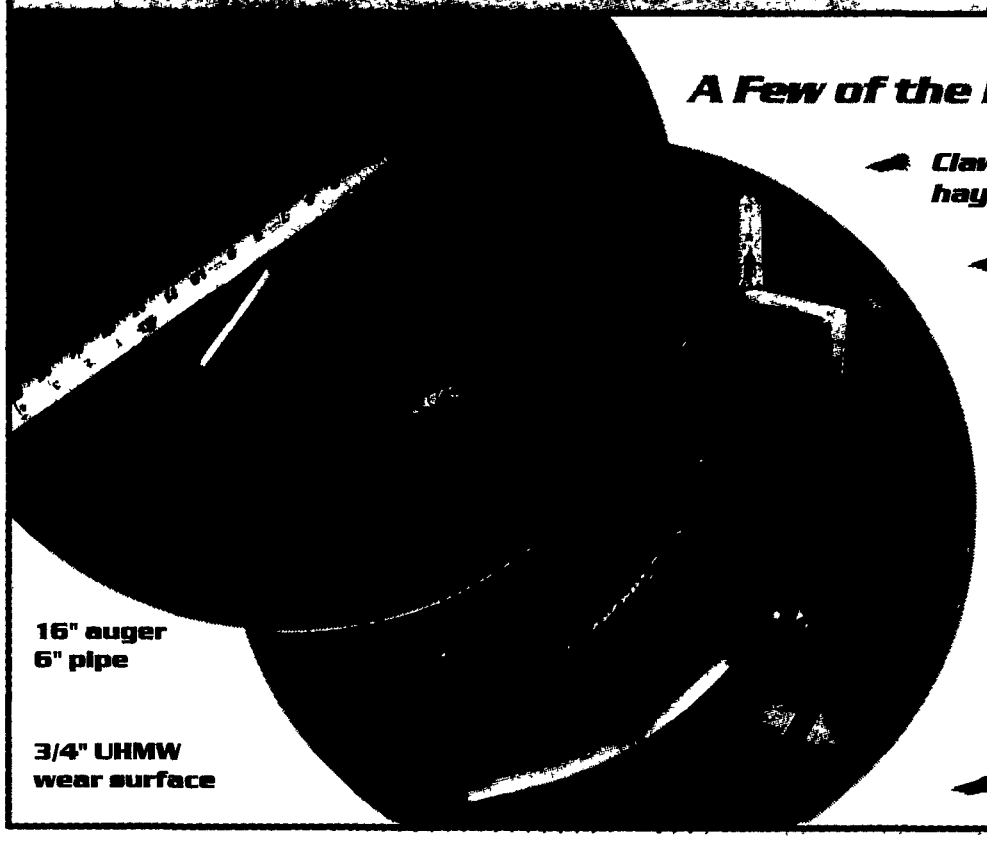
David Wagner, Penn State precision ag specialist, at tank, spoke about spray liabilities at the field day Thursday.

Marvin Hall, Penn State forage crop specialist, provided a model of the potato leafhopper and spoke about leafhopper damage to alfalfa.

We're mixing in a whole new field

With the next generation TMR mixer from I. H. Rissler Mfg.



A Few of the New Features —

- Claws on paddles for mixing hay with ease
- Larger auger virtually eliminates wrapping
- Heavier chain for years of maintenance free mixing
- All grease zerks are accessible from outside the machine
- UHMW chain slides require no maintenance
- 30% less moving parts

as a sign of damage. The nymph or immature stage is light yellow and walks sideways.

According to a Penn State handout, feeding by the insects causes severe stunting of the plants and yellowing or reddening of the foliage. Leafhopper damage starts in wedge-shaped areas at the tip of the leaf.

The first cutting of alfalfa is not usually affected, but subsequent cuttings can be severely injured.

Typically the adults migrate up from the Gulf Coast on storm fronts, according to Hower. But some can overwinter — possibly even as far north as Maryland.

Hall noted that leafhopper damage can result in losses totalling 500 pounds per acre per cutting, in addition to reduced protein yield.

New biological control methods make use of glandular hairs on the alfalfa which prevent the leafhopper from feeding.

Hower spoke about the mortality and entrapment of potato leafhopper nymphs, comparisons of leafhopper nymphs on resistant and susceptible alfalfa (with trichomes intact or removed), and eggs laid by the leafhopper in resistant and susceptible alfalfa with trichomes intact and removed.

Breeding for these traits is difficult, noted Hall. And producers should remember that even with 70 percent resistance, 30 percent have no resistance trait.

Hower said, "Could we achieve 100 percent resistance? I don't know if we can do that, if we'll ever see that."

But if the producer doesn't want to spray, having resistant varieties are worth it, said Hower.

John Ayers, Penn State crop pathology specialist, said that conditions could be just right for stalk rot on corn.

Stalk rot, a major stress disease, is caused by early season sunshine and lots of moisture. But a sudden dry spell, a slight moisture deficit, after these conditions can set it off.

The nutrients travel to the kernels and weaken the plant.

Already Ayers has seen anthracnose stalk rot, corn rust, and northern corn leaf blight in fields.

David Wagner, Penn State precision ag specialist, spoke about the importance of learning spray calibration.

Spray drift liability is "becoming a big cost factor in your bottom line," he said.

Wagner said it could be too expensive, as a result of lawsuits and insurance coverage, to not place spray applications properly.

How Much is PLH Resistance Worth to You?

(assuming four production years after establishment year)

1. Will you spray for PLH if scouting indicates it is justified or if damage is visible?

   Yes - continue to question #2
   No - PLH resistance is worth additional costs

2. Do you determine when to spray based on scouting or when you see yellowing?

   Yellowing - proceed to question #3
   Scouting - proceed to question #4

3. How often do you see yellowing or does scouting indicate spraying is necessary?

Frequency	Value
2 per 1 yr -	240
1 per 1 yr -	120
1 per 2 yr -	60
1 per 3 yr -	40
1 per 4 yr -	30
1 per 5 yr -	20
Never -	0

(Alfalfa valued @ $120/ton)

4. Based on either scouting or yellowing, how often do you spray to control PLH?

Based on Scouting		Based on Yellowing
Frequency	Value*	Frequency	Value*
2 per 1 yr -	130	2 per 1 yr -	100
1 per 1 yr -	80	1 per 1 yr -	50

Following certain procedures and keeping careful records can help spray operators build up a "defense," Wagner said, against spray liability issues.

Del Voight, regional agronomy extension agent, provided a rainfall history of the year and looked at emerging pest problems.

He noted the emergence of slugs in fields.

"I had not seen that many slugs before in my life, until this year," Voight said.

Slugs leave ragged holes in leaves beginning with lower leaves. Leaves may appear shredded. Silvery slime trails are telltale signs of slugs.

There is no economic threshold for slugs. If leaves are significantly defoliated, field has a grayish cast, and stand is threatened, control may be needed.

There are no highly effective compounds available to control the slugs. Commercial bait material can provide some control.

Dennis Calvin, crop entomology specialist, spoke about European corn borer and hybrid management at the field day.

More information from the field day is scheduled for the next issue of Corn Talk, set to appear in Lancaster Farming Oct. 14.

Guernsey Youth Association To Conduct Fundraiser At Fair

TIMONIUM, Md. — Junior members of the Maryland Guernsey Youth Association will teach fairgoers how to milk cows by hand during Guernsey Milk Clinic fundraiser, Friday, Aug. 25, Saturday, Aug. 26 and Monday, Aug. 28, from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. in the Maryland State Fair's Cow Palace.

The Guernsey Milk Clinic will provide educational information about Maryland's dairy industry and this special breed of dairy cows. And, for a small fee, interested fairgoers can take a lesson and try their hand at milking a cow. All participants will learn a new skill and be treated to a free carton of ice-cold milk.

"Through this event, we hope to bring urban people closer to agriculture and introduce them to our favorite breed of cow — the Guernsey," said Maryland Guernsey Youth Committee member Debra Summerall. "There are very few people who have ever hand-milked a cow.

The 119th Maryland State Fair, which will offer a variety of livestock and horse shows, midway rides, thoroughbred horse racing, arts and crafts and home arts exhibits, runs from Friday, Aug. 25 through Monday, Sept. 4 at the Timonium Fairgrounds in Baltimore County. Early risers are welcome to attend livestock and horse shows at 9 a.m. Exhibit halls are open from 10 a.m.-10 p.m. The Midway opens at 10 a.m. on weekends and noon on weekdays.

Admission is $4 for adults and children under 12 are admitted free. Rides are individually priced.

Thoroughbred horse racing begins Saturday, Aug. 26 and runs through Labor Day. Post time is 1 p.m. Admission to the race track is included in the admission price of the fair. Parking on the fairgrounds for a minimal fee and free parking at the park and ride location on Deereco Road are available on a first-come, first-serve basis.

For information, call 410-252-0200, ext. 227 or visit the Maryland State Fair web page at www.marylandstatefair.com.

Tour Shows Potential For Ohio Berry Production

PIKETON, Ohio - Farmers looking for an alternative, high-value crop or berry growers hoping to improve profits should attend the Summer Berry Tour, said Sandy Kuhn, berry coordinator at the Ohio State University Centers at Piketon.

"With the farm economy the way it is, Ohio farmers are looking for crops that could be high-dollar alternatives to corn, soybeans or wheat, and berries are one possibility," Kuhn said.

According to Ohio State University agricultural economists, black raspberries in Ohio generate an average annual return of $1,575 per acre from pick-your-own operations and $1,063 per acre from prepicked retail sales. Strawberries earn $495 per acre from pick-your-own and $150 from prepicked operations. In comparison, no-till corn generates only $13 per acre of annual profit and no-till soybeans $16 per acre. Corn and soybeans grown conventionally generate only $1 of net profit per acre per year.

This year's Summer Berry Tour is July 27-28 and will visit five farms and farm markets in central Ohio. Two stops on the "drive yourself" tour are scheduled Thursday, July 27 and three on Friday, July 28, Kuhn said.

"Current producers will have a chance to look at other farms and get new ideas in areas such as marketing, production practices, diversification of crops, and irrigation," she said.

Growing strawberry plants on raised beds through plastic, called plasticulture, is one new production practice displayed at two of the stops. The plastic holds in heat and warms soils, allowing strawberries to grow and be picked two weeks earlier than normal, Kuhn said. The plastic adds additional costs and may not fit every farm but gives the farm the ability to be 'first on the market" with their product.

"Prospective growers can talk with current producers and get information on how to get started," she said.

New growers need to decide what berries to plant, what equipment to buy, where to sell berries, and how to provide the long hours of labor needed to properly manage a berry patch.

Growing berries is initially a high investment - as much as $6,000 per acre for a 2- to 5-acre operation - and requires labor for planting, pruning, irrigating and picking, so potential growers should get as much information as possible before committing, Kuhn said.

Other topics discussed during the Berry Tour will include selling at farmers' markets, entertainment farming, disease issues, pick-your-own operations, labor, the American Berry Cooperative and family businesses.

The tour begins at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday at Rhoads Farm Market, on Rt. 56 east of Circleville. Rhoads is a diversified farm market that grows blackberries, raspberries, strawberries and other fruits and vegetables.

The second stop is west of Grove City on London-Groveport Road at Circle S Farm. Circle S Farm features more than 10 acres of strawberries, more than six acres of black and red raspberries, and a bakery and gourmet food business. An optional dinner on Thursday evening at Circle S Farm will include discussions with Ohio State University berry researchers Dick Funt, state small fruit specialist, and Mike Ellis, plant pathologist.

Friday's tour begins at 9 a.m. at the Schacht Farm Market on Shannon Road in Canal Winchester. Schacht's grows strawberries, blackberries and a variety of other produce. Stop two on Friday is at Doran's Farm Market on Babbitt Road outside of New Albany. Doran's has raspberries, strawberries and other specialty crops. The final Friday stop is at Jacquemin Farms on Hyland-Croy Road near Plain City, featuring strawberries and raspberries, among other crops.

Recent health studies that show berries can reduce the risk of cancer and heart disease have increased their demand, and there are many new types of berries available with better flavor, shipping qualities, and other improvements that make marketing easier, Kuhn said. So now is a good time to start growing berries.

"The tour offers examples of good operations with all types of berries represented," she said. "We've chosen some of the more progressive operations in Ohio, and some that have had berries around for quite a while."

The Summer Berry Tour is $15 per person for those eating dinner at Circle S Farm or $5 per person otherwise. Advance registration is required.

For more information on the tour or a registration form, call the Ohio State University Centers at Piketon at (800) 297-2072 and ask for Kuhn or Melissa Fitzpatrick. Kuhn can also be reached by e-mail (kuhn.37@osu.edu).

Gov. Ridge Signs Bill For Additional Crop-Loss Payment

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Tom Ridge recently signed S.B. 1417 to allow the Department of Agriculture to make final crop-loss payments to producers who qualified under Act 57, the drought disaster relief law signed into law last year.

"Our farmers exemplify the best of Pennsylvania," Gov. Ridge said. "They work hard, and they don't ask for much in return. I was proud last year to sign legislation offering our farmers the largest state drought-aid package in the nation. And today I'm proud to help them again — as they continue to recover from last year's devastating drought.

"With this new law, our Department of Agriculture will be able to complete the job. We will send a final payment to qualified applicants, in an amount that will be nearly equal to what they already have received."

Gov. Ridge thanked Sen. Noah W. Wenger (R-Lancaster) and Rep. Raymond Bunt Jr. (R-Montgomery) for supporting this bill.

Last year, Pennsylvania provided more drought assistance for Pennsylvania farmers ($5 million for hay assistance, $5.6 million for crop insurance, and $60 million in crop-loss payments for a total of $70.6 million in state funds) than in any other Mid-Atlantic or Northeastern state.

These final payments reflect the balance of the $60 million portion of the existing disaster relief package.

The $5.6 million portion of the package designated for crop insurance assistance will be administered directly through insurance underwriters and the federal Risk Management Agency. The Department of Agriculture has arranged to have the producers' crop insurance billing statement reflect the state assistance, eliminating the need for producers to be reimbursed.

"I am very proud of our producers for managing through a very difficult crop year," Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. said. "Likewise, I thank Gov. Ridge and Pennsylvania lawmakers for quickly responding with $70.6 million in state assistance. This financial assistance has made a difference to our farm families. It has helped them to protect the viability of Pennsylvania's agricultural community and its capacity to produce food and fiber."

S.B. 1417, sponsored by Sen. William L. Slocum (R-Warren), passed the House 189 to 1, and the Senate unanimously. It takes effect immediately.

Dean Foods And Land O'Lakes Begin Joint Venture

FRANKLIN PARK, Ill. — Dean Foods Company (NYSE:DF) and Land O'Lakes, Inc., announced recently that Dean Foods has completed the purchase of Land O'Lakes Upper Midwest fluid milk operations.

The two organizations have also formed a joint venture to nationally market and license certain value-added fluid and cultured dairy products to further expand the Land O'Lakes® brand.

Both agreements include long-term licensing arrangements for use of the Land O'Lakes brand name.

"In this transaction, Dean Foods is acquiring a strong and successful fluid dairy business that commands the leading position in its regional market," said Howard Dean, chairman and chief executive officer of Dean Foods. "In addition, this acquisition offers Dean a unique opportunity to go to market with one of the best known brands in the dairy industry and to extend the Land O'Lakes brand name into new, value-added fluid and cultured dairy products and into new geographical markets."

"Land O'Lakes sees this joint venture as an opportunity to further leverage the strength of our brand and reputation for quality, and extend the geographic reach of our most innovative fluid dairy products," said Chris Policinski, executive vice president and chief operation officer for Land O'Lakes Dairy Foods

Joe Lindecamp Retires After 50 Years

Joe Lindecamp, his wife Judy and their children Mary, David and Jane.

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — What can one say to a faithful employee after 50 continuous years of excellent service to dairymen? In an effort to show their appreciation to Joe Lindecamp, Lancaster DHIA hosted a dinner party at the Fulton Grange in Nottingham.

A roast beef dinner was served by members of the Grange, followed by a short program and time of entertainment. Jay Mylin, manager of Lancaster DHIA, served as moderator. He recalled some of his own personal experiences with Lindecamp and then reviewed the past 50 years by asking Lindecamp questions regarding his years in the dairy industry and ways in which it has changed. A display table filled with items used to test milk in the days before laboratory equipment proved to be of great interest to all.

There was also sharing of memories by several generations of people at whose farms Lindecamp tested for many years. His wife Judy was included in some of those memories, as she helped him for the majority of those years.

Lindecamp's willingness to go beyond the call of duty and his attention to detail were repeated throughout the day. His meticulous record keeping practice was also mentioned numerous times, with the calf books on display for proof.

Lindecamp was presented with a plaque, scrapbook, and a monetary gift of $500. His wife Judy was given a framed picture of cows out to pasture and an arrangement of roses.

Both farmers and Lancaster DHIA employees will miss Lindecamp, who retired at the end of June.

Land O'Lakes Hosts Open House

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — As part of the 250th Anniversary Celebration of Cumberland County, Land O'Lakes, Inc., will host an open house at the Carlisle plant in Mt. Holly Springs on August 25 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

At 10 a.m., local dignitaries will dedicate the newly-expanded evaporating and drying facilities at the plant. The multimillion dollar expansion has generated more than 15 new jobs in the Carlisle area. The new facilities will move an additional 25,000 pounds of butter through the plant per hour, doubling the plant's capacity.

During the open house, governmental officials, community members, business leaders, and dairy farmers will be invited to tour the butter plant, which produces 25 percent of Land O'Lakes national butter supply.

Both local and national celebrities have been invited to appear at the event. Free product samples will be available for everyone who attends. Informational exhibits about Land O'Lakes, its programs, and community involvement will also be on display. Look for a schedule of activities in August.

For more information about Land O'Lakes, the Carlisle plant, or the Open House, contact Land O'Lakes Eastern Division at 717-486-7000.

Joint Venture

Value-Added Group. "In addition, the proceeds from the sale of our regional fluid dairy business will enable us to further invest in and strengthen our core businesses on behalf of our members."

The asset purchase encompasses all the operating assets of Land O'Lakes Fluid Dairy Division, including four fluid dairy plants located in Woodbury (Twin Cities area) and Thief River Falls, Minn., Bismarck, N.D. and Sioux Falls, S.D., as well as a new extended-shelf-life (ESL) dairy and cultured plant located in Richland Center, Wis.

The acquired dairy division generates annual sales of approximately $310 million and markets a full line of fluid milk, yogurt, creams, sour cream and cottage cheese, 85 percent of which is sold under the Land O'Lakes brand name. Land O'Lakes will be the long-term agent for supplying the raw milk requirements of the plants acquired by Dean Foods.

Under the separate joint venture agreement, Land O'Lakes and Dean Foods each hold a 50 percent interest in an independent entity having the U.S. rights to market and license Land O'Lakes brand cream, half and half, sour cream and extended-shelf-life products, including the successful Grip'n Go™ single-serve milk and to develop new consumer-friendly, value-added dairy products.

Showing Cattle Takes Year-Long Preparation For Savage Family

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

KNOXVILLE, Md. — What started as a 4-H project for Wayne Savage more than 30 years ago is now a year-round venture for the Savage family of Frederick County.

Wayne and Cindee Savage continued showing cattle after they were married in 1973. And, once each of their four children reached five years old and was big enough to handle their own animals, they encouraged them to begin showing.

Today 25-year-old Chip, 23-year-old Kelli, 20-year-old Jami, and 17-year-old Ryan are responsible for the show string, which is kept separately from the other cows the majority of the year to assure proper weight maintenance and provide specialized care.

The Savages own Savage-Leigh Farm, a 200-acre dairy farm, where they milk 230 cows and have about 200 replacement animals. In addition to the home farm, they rent about 500 acres. Jami's two Brown Swiss and Kelli and Ryan's four Jerseys add some color to the milking herd of primarily 100 percent registered Holsteins.

The Savage-Leigh herd boasts a rolling herd average of 27,000 pounds of milk, more than 1,100 pounds fat, and more than 900 pounds protein. Well known for both its outstanding milk production and high quality genetics, the herd is on the highest rating of the Holstein Association's Tri-Star program. For two years in a row, it was named the Top Tri-Star Herd in Maryland.

All four children work on the farm. Chip, who attended Virginia Polytechnical Institute (VPI) for one year, is responsible for the show cows and takes care of the merchandising and embryo transfer programs.

Kelli is the farm's herdsperson. A VPI graduate in Dairy Science, she milks two times a day and handles calf registration, herd checks, and record keeping for the herd.

Studying early childhood development at Frederick Community College, Jami takes care of the calves and younger heifers. Part of her job includes caring for the show heifers separately from the other replacements.

Ryan, who will attend VPI this fall, takes care of the crops and equipment.

Wayne and Cindee oversee the operation with Wayne helping Kelli with the milkings and Cindee keeping the financial records.

In addition to the family, Dave Michalak, a VPI graduate, is the only other employee on the farm. He takes care of nutrition work and feeding the herd.

"Our children began working on the farm at a very young age," said Cindee. "When they were small, showing was their reward for working so hard on the farm. Since we never had time to go on family vacations, it was like a vacation for them."

Even though showing has always been something that the Savages enjoy doing, it also takes a lot of work. In February, the Savages make their final selections on what calves they will show in the summer yearling and senior calf classes that fall. Winter calves are selected in March.

Once the calves are selected as part of the show string, they are moved into a separate area where Jami can get them used to being tied up and kept on a halter.

The area is bedded up like show stalls, and Jami leaves them tied during the day, feeds them in a tub, and waters them with a bucket. In the evening, the animals are let loose to get exercise. She also begins washing them early in the spring to keep their hair clean.

"If you wash the animals when they still have their winter coats on, the hair underneath the winter coats will be extra clean once you clip them," said Jami.

"You should never clip an animal dirty," she said. "We usually clip the winter coats in March to assure plenty of time for the new hair to grow in before the spring show."

The show heifers are also kept separately from the other animals to prevent them from becoming overconditioned and to get them used to being around each other. While the other animals are fed a total mixed ration, the show animals are fed hay and a high protein diet, including 40 percent protein pellets.

The show cows are kept in separate box stalls from the rest of the herd. They are hand fed three times a day and kept on a diet consisting of beet pulp, grain, and hay.

"They keep their conditioning better on this diet," said Cindee. "They have more dairyness and depth of rib."

The Savages take their show string to county, state, national, and international shows. In the spring, they travel to the state spring show.

The major showing season starts in July with the district show. In August is the Maryland State Fair. The All-American Dairy Show comes in September. And then they travel to Madison, Wi., in October for the World Dairy Expo. They finish up in November with the Mid-Eastern National Dairy Show in Louisville, Ky. The Savages have even showed a couple times at the Canadian Royale in Toronto, Canada.

"We don't drag our cows to all of the local and county shows," said Cindee. "The cows need their exercise, and too many shows can tire them out. Unless you're really trying to promote an animal, it's not necessary to take them to every show around."

The Savages have always encouraged their children to do everything on their own. "We told our children that if they didn't work with the animals at home and didn't take care of them, then they didn't get to show them," said Wayne and Cindee. "It was their responsibility to make the animal look as good as they possibly could."

Although the Savages taught their children the basics in showing, the kids fine-tuned their showing skills while watching expert showmen and fitters at the various shows.

"When Chip was little, he used to stand and watch people like Billy Jo Heath and Chris Hill fit the animals," said Cindee. "Douglas and Mary King of Kingstead Farm, along with George Edgerton, really worked with Chip and taught him showing techniques like holding the head at the right angle and setting up the feet properly."

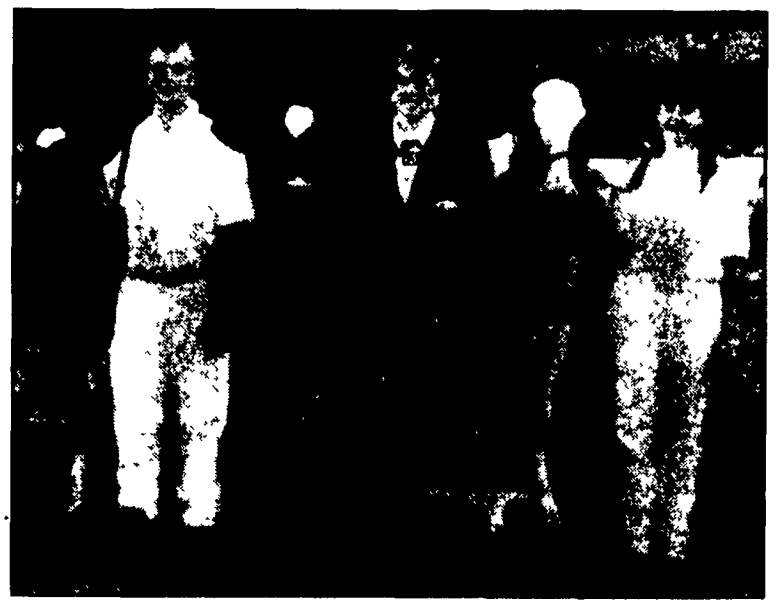
The Savages have learned a lot from going to shows and visiting with dairy people from all over the continent.

"We've gotten to interact with some of the top breeders in the industry and made a lot of friends through showing," said Cindee. "When you're at the shows, you can talk to people from different areas and they'll tell you about their operation. You can take their ideas and try to adapt them to your own farm."

When the children were young, Cindee used to video tape them so they could critique their showing skills after the show.

"Parents often put too much stress on their children by expecting them to win," said Cindee. "I always let my kids decide how to handle their animals. I always encouraged them to never make excuses why they didn't win, but to look for ways they could improve so they could win next time."

Wayne and Cindee have worked hard to instill good sportsmanship in their children. "There's been times when we've been disappointed with a placing at one show and then have that animal win at the next show," said Cindee. "No matter what happens, we want them to congratulate the winner."



The Savages have won many premier breeder and exhibitor awards at the various shows. Here are Chip, Cindee, and Kelli accepting the premier breeder award for the 1997 Mid-East National Holstein Show in Louisville, KY.

Savage-Leigh Bellwood Linda, EX 92, owned by Ryan is well-known in the Holstein industry. She was named reserve grand champion at the Maryland Spring Show in both 1999 and 2000. Linda, along with the other show cows, is kept in a separate area from the milking herd to receive extra care.

Cindee always reminds her 4-H kids that at each show it is only that one judge's opinion on that particular day.

"The worst thing you can do is be a bad sport and intimidate the judge," she said. "You don't want to burn bridges that you have to cross again in the future."

Although show ring ethics has received some negative publicity, the Savages only have positive things to say about the professional fitters and show crew who help them prepare their animals for the shows.

"Working with professional fitters and showmen has had a very positive impact on our children," said Wayne. "If we are going to spend the money to show, we want our animals to look good."

"All breeders and show people need to work together and compliment each other," said Cindy. "Negative comments about other breeders only make you look bad."

The Savages also work hard to create a positive image of the dairy industry when they show. "The appearance of the showman is important," said Cindee. "Their job is to show off the animal and be almost invisible. However they should look neat."

Keeping the stall area clean is also a priority for the Savages. "When you're at the shows, you want people to see a neat and organized display," said Cindee. "People don't want to see a cluttered aisle or cots scattered around."

According to the Savages, showing has helped them build recognition for their herd, from which they have sold embryos worldwide. "The animals you take to the shows can show people the type of animal you can breed at home."

To Cindee, breeding cattle has always seemed like an art. "You have to really study families and know genetics," she said. "I love watching the shows at Madison because there are so many outstanding cows there. It amazes me to see the different type traits that are carried through in the different families."

Although both Wayne and Cindee enjoy going to the shows, they now let their children handle the show string.

"All of our children are very independent and quite capable of taking care of the animals themselves," said Wayne and Cindee. "Now we only have to go on show day."

Both Ryan and Jami have enjoyed tremendous success in the show ring. Jami is at the halter of her Brown Swiss, GS FLJ Tippy-ET, EX 91, who has been named both junior champion and reserve junior champion at the World Dairy Expo. She is also a two-time unanimous All-American winner. Ryan's Jersey, Triple-S-Imperial Minuet, EX 91, was supreme champion of the 4-H show at the 1999 Maryland State Fair.

Pennsylvania Farm Bureau National Legislative Report

Camp Hill (Cumberland Co.) "Farm Bureau has been involved in a lot of legislative activity in Congress in recent months aimed at helping to save costs and improve net income, both long term and short term, for farmers," said Guy Donaldson, President of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. "Here's a report on some of the major issues, Farm Bureau has been working on."

Crop Insurance/ Farm Assistance

President Clinton signed legislation (H.R. 2559) passed by Congress to spend $15.2 billion for crop insurance reform and farm assistance. The legislation provides $8.1 billion for increased premium subsidies, and expansion of crop insurance programs, including revenue insurance for livestock.

Another $7.1 billion is included for market assistance payments with $5.5 billion going to Agricultural Marketing Transition Assistance (AMTA) and $1.64 billion in payments for minor crops. The legislation provides $5.1 million for loss of income to fruit producers whose orchards must be destroyed because of Plum Pox Virus infection.

Permanent Normal Trade Relations For China Passes House

The U.S. House of Representatives passed legislation granting Permanent Normal Trade Relations (PNTR) for China by a larger margin than expected.

The U.S. Senate agreed to consider the legislation and act on its passage without amendments. This action will avoid the need for the legislation to go to conference, and will allow it to go directly to the President upon U.S. Senate passage.

However, Senate Majority Leader Trent Lott (R. - Miss.) is withholding Senate action on PNTR for China. The speculation is that the Senate Majority Leader is holding the PNTR vote as a bargaining chip to gain more cooperation with the administration in passing appropriation bills.

The Senate is expected to pass the legislation by a wide margin. Sen. Rick Santorum (R. - PA) favors PNTR for China, while Sen. Arlen Specter (R. - PA) opposes it.

Estate Tax Eliminated

The House passed The Death Tax Elimination Act (H.R. 8) with a near veto-proof vote (279-136). The House-approved legislation repeals death taxes by the year 2010. The legislation retains assets (up to $5.6 million) on a stepped up basis when the tax is repealed in 2010. The stepped-up amount would be indexed to increase automatically with the inflation rate. All estate sizes would retain stepped-up basis assets of $1.3 million.

If an estate were larger than $1.3 million, the heirs could choose which assets retain the stepped-up basis. There would be an additional $3 million of assets eligible for stepped-up basis on estates transfers between spouses, bringing the total value of stepped-up basis assets in such transfers up to $4.3 million.

The legislation also reduces all estate tax rates by about 15 percent over 10 years and lowers the bottom effective rate from 37 percent to 18 percent. The top rate is cut from 55 percent to 53 percent in 2001 and to 50 percent in 2002. All rates are reduced by one percent in 2003-06, by 1.5 percent in 2007 and by two percent in 2008-09. The unified credit is changed to an exemption in 2001 which lowers the bottom estate tax rate from 37 percent to 18 percent.

Pennsylvania's Congressional Delegation vote on the legislation split along party lines with Republicans favoring and Democrats opposing the legislation.

Most Democrats are supportive of alternative legislation that would address elimination of estate taxes for family-owned businesses. The Senate is expected to act on estate tax elimination after the July 4th recess. Passage is questionable, and the Senate legislation is expected to mirror the House version. Sen. Santorum supports estate tax elimination, while Sen. Specter is undecided. President Clinton has threatened to veto the House passed measure.

Agriculture Appropriations

U.S. Representative George R. Nethercutt, Jr. (R. - WA) has proposed an amendment that would lift sanctions on agricultural and medical exports to Iran, Libya, North Korea, Sudan and Cuba. However, the amendment would allow the President to reimpose the sanction with both the House and Senate approval.

Lacking sufficient support to defeat the sanction's amendment in the House agricultural appropriations bill (H.R. 4461), House leadership delayed voting on the measure. A similar sanction amendment passed the Senate Appropriations Committee and was included in the Senate agricultural appropriations bill (S. 2536). Sen. Lott will not allow the Senate to act on the agricultural appropriations bill until the House acts.

The estimated value of agricultural imports by these five currently sanctioned countries is $7 billion. If sanctions are lifted, U.S. agricultural exports are expected to increase for rice, wheat, corn, soybeans, feed grains, milk powder, animal products, fruits and vegetables.

Additional Issues

The Veterans Administration Housing and Urban Development (VA HUD) appropriations bill contains language to delay the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) from implementing its proposed Total Maximum Daily Load (TMDL) changes for a year.

The language prohibits EPA from spending funds to finalize or implement the TMDL rule. The House has passed (256-169) the VA HUD and Independent Agencies Appropriations bill (H.R. 4635). The proposed TMDL changes would mean more regulatory compliance costs for farmers and owners of forest lands.

The Health and Human Services (HHS) appropriations bill stops the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) from implementing ergonomics regulations. The Senate passed the bill on a party-line vote with Democrats, joined by Sen. Specter, opposing it. The ergonomics proposal could affect many agricultural workplaces.

Lebanon Co. Holstein Field Night

REISTVILLE (Lebanon Co.) — This year's Holstein Field night will be hosted by Kirby and Sheryl Horst (949-2331) and family on Friday, July 21, 2000. Once again this year, we will be having a buffet style meal from 6:30 till 8:30. During that time, we will be judging three classes of animals. Door prizes and our guest speaker, Tim Abott, from ABS is also on the agenda. Come out and enjoy some food, fun and fellowship.

Dauphin Holstein Twilight Meeting

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — The Dauphin Co. Holstein Club will hold a twilight meeting at the Jay Melvin Brandt farm located south of Hershey, east of 743 on Schoolhouse Road, on July 27 at 7:30 p.m. There will be a judging contest. Ray Seidel will be the official judge and speaker. Refreshments will be served.

All dairymen and families are invited.

Veal Farm Visited

One of the tour stops included Jeff and Kathy Rohrer's new veal calf production facility.

Jeff had been a relief milker for dairy farmers and wanted to have his own farming enterprise. In March of 1998 the first calves were placed in the new 220-foot by 65-foot barn with capacity to house 400 head in four divisions. Each division is filled at different times to extend the opportunities to purchase and market the calves in various times of the year.

Feed is mixed in 2,200-pound capacity tanks and fed according to the nutritional needs of each calf. Jeff is certified under the veal quality assurance program and therefore is qualified to administer medication and maintain production practices that insure the best possible handling of the calves and production of veal.

Calves are taken in at 80 to 100 pounds and raised to 275 to 280 pounds. About 1,000 calves are finished each year for Marcho Farms Select Veal in Harleysville.

Laura Kwisnek, veal programs director and Holly Marshall, industry relations and compliance director for the Pennsylvania Beef Council, joined the editor for this farm visit.

FUTURES MARKETS

showed strong gains in cheese production.

Prices for 40-pound block cheese fell from $1.2750 per pound on Monday, July 3, to $1.25 by Friday, July 7. Barrel cheese fell more sharply, from $1.28 per pound on Monday to $1.21 per pound by Friday.

It's too early to determine whether this is a trend or not. There was a short work week at many plants due to the July 4th holiday, so there must have been some extra milk in the system. Milk receipts at plants are generally trending down and will result in less cheese production.

American-type cheese production in May totaled 323.2 million pounds, 3.4 percent above May 1999 and 3.4 percent above April 2000. Total cheese output (excluding cottage cheese) was 729.0 million pounds, 8.0 percent above May 1999 and 5.1 percent above April 2000. Cumulative total cheese output through May 2000 was up 5.6 percent over the same period a year ago.

USDA announced class prices for June 2000 as follows: Class II price is $13.08 per cwt, Class III price is $9.46 per cwt, and Class IV price is $12.38 per cwt. The advanced Class I mover for July 2000 is $12.46 per cwt. The Class I differential must still be added to this figure to arrive at the Class I price. The differential for Boston, for example, is $3.25 per cwt. Thus overall, class prices are above what they would have been under the old system. Only the Class III price is lower than the old BFP formula and is at record low prices.

U.S. Senator Rick Santorum (R-PA) introduced legislation last month to assist dairy farmers across the country by creating a safety net when milk prices are low. Santorum, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, introduced the legislation along with Senator Herb Kohl (D-WI).

The bill is called "The National Dairy Farmers Fairness Act of 2000." It creates a sliding scale of assistance that will be triggered when the Class III milk price is low. All producers payments would be limited to the first 26,000 hundredweight of milk. So, given milk output of 18,000 pounds per cow, this program would be limited to a maximum of 144 cows. In addition, an incentive payment can also be earned if a farmer does not increase total milk production from the previous year.

This bill represents a coalition between two regions of the country that have the most in common: the Upper Midwest and the Northeast. Both regions have lots of small family farmers and small processors. It provides price protection to the most vulnerable members of the dairy community-small family farmers. The program would pay more when milk prices are lowest. And, a big plus, the program would not alter existing pricing programs. It does not fix class prices, require supply management, or lump program benefits onto Class I sales. Thus, it passes the Washington reality test.

Finally, I just completed a study on the Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact. The results may be found on my website. They show that the milk supply in the six New England states did not increase above the U.S. average after the compact was introduced. Fluid milk consumption did not appear to change appreciably. The program increased farm pay prices by about $0.48 per cwt. And, the cost of the compact to processors, about $0.10 per gallon, was fully passed on to consumers in the form of a 14-cent-per-gallon increase in retail milk prices. Overall, consumers paid about $0.24 per gallon more for milk after the compact was introduced, but $0.10 per gallon of this increase was related to other factors. None of these results can be related to what would occur if Pennsylvania and New York were to join the Northeast Compact.

York 4-H Center Hosts Regional 4-H Livestock Contest

Top senior individuals. From left, Travis Adam, first in sheep; Ann Leed, first in reasons and overall first place individual; and Emilie Miller, first place in beef.

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

BAIR (York Co.) — Fifty-five 4-H'ers from seven counties participated in the Southeast Regional 4-H Livestock Judging Contest last week here at the York 4-H Center.

A prelude to the State 4- H Days at Penn State, for the first time the regional livestock judging contest was opened to other counties.

At last week's event, Perry and Susquehanna counties, in addition to teams from several counties in southeast Pennsylvania, participated.

Some counties "don't have the facilities or resources to do something like this," said Linda Spahr, contest coordinator and York County extension agent.

Top senior individual at the contest was Ann Leed, 18, daughter of Robert and Nancy Leed, Myerstown. Ann's total score was 501 with a reason's total of 135.

Ann, who will study animal science and preveterinary medicine at Iowa State in the fall, has been a 4-H member for nine years.

A 2000 Eastern Lebanon County High School graduate, Ann said her strength in the regional contest was reasons. "I struggled with the sheep judging," she said. "Normally I do really well with that."

Ann said that the regional contest first place team from Lebanon County, consisting of Tim Schaeffer, herself, and Travis Adam, recently placed first in the national Cattail Classic in Woodbine, Md. The classic hosts teams from Pennsylvania, Maryland, North Carolina, and other states.

"It's a big contest," she said.

Ann is a member of the Lebanon County 4-H Sheep and Beef Club. She is sheep club news reporter and beef club secretary.

Ann noted that she won at the regional livestock competition three or four years ago. She served as president of the Elco FFA and lives on her family's sheep and beef farm.

Brandy Bankert, 13, daughter of Sue and Wayne Bankert and Red Lion High School ninth grader, won top junior individual.

Brandy, with a total score of 343, is a member of the York 4-H Lamb and Wool Club.

A six-year 4-H member, Brandy won the contest for the first time.

Her strength, Brandy noted, was judging sheep. The Bankerts raise Southdown sheep on their farm. The York County team placed third at the regional contest.

Brandy says she plans to enroll in Red Lion FFA.

Senior championship team went to Lebanon County, consisting of Travis Adam, Ann Leed, and Tim Schaeffer. Junior champion team went to Lancaster County, which consisted of Joelynn Donough, Adam Zurin, and Johanna Rohrer.

Judges for the event were Bob Mikesell, associate swine specialist at Penn State, beef judge; Dave Greene, retired Carroll County, Maryland extension agent, sheep judge; and Kent Strock, Mechanicsburg, swine judge.

In the contest, participants judged two classes of market hogs, Simmental heifers, crossbred market steers, Southdown yearling ewes, and a class of market lambs. There was a total of eight animals for each species.

Each year the contest sponsors rotate the location. Next year the intent is to place the contest in Chester County, noted Spahr.

State 4-H Achievement Days are scheduled Aug. 1-3 in State College.

The regional contest was conducted at the new 4-H center, granted an occupancy permit in early 1999, noted Spahr.

free to a modified accredited status. Now, for more than five years, there have been no TB cases in the state, but it took this long to meet all the national requirements for USDA certification.

Hayes said that to achieve this certification is a big win in the realm of animal health, since having TB accredited-free status is critical from an economic standpoint and reaffirms Pennsylvania as a foreign and domestic leader in agriculture. Hayes commended the efforts of the PDA and USDA and said the partnership has been very gratifying. He also recognized accredited veterinarians and cattle producers who had to deal with all the extra time, effort, and expense associated with a problem of this nature.

Since TB was discovered in Pennsylvania, cattle that were shipped from or through the state had to undergo additional veterinary lab testing before transportation and sale could be considered complete. Immediately, the cattle industry began to work diligently to eliminate this troublesome disease. Cleanup of infected herds, additional traceback testing, and closely monitored follow-up was required to gain the new certification.

"We have had a clean state for some time now," Hayes said. "But we had to go through the protocol necessary to gain the 'accredited' status. One of the first things I asked when I became ag secretary was about our animal health program. And it was not what we wanted it to be. Now this new status brings us to where consumers, the dairy and livestock producers, and all America are positively affected. We needed to be able to say we were a TB-free state so the confidence in our agriculture industry was maintained both at home and in our foreign exports."

Figueroa said Pennsylvania's new status is a large step forward in the eradication of the disease across the nation. Pennsylvania becomes the 47th state, along with Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, to have achieved the certification.

Ag Horizons Registration Still Open

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Registrations are still being accepted for the Eleventh Ag Horizons Conference being held on Tuesday, July 25 at The Holiday Inn — Harrisburg/Hershey in Grantville.

The Retail Face Of Agriculture is the focus for the conference. Attendees will be informed about e-commerce, entertainment farming, niche marketing, and direct marketing presented by agribusiness experts and prominent educators. Ag educators, instructors of vocational agriculture, business, and science along with cooperative extension agents would find this conference extremely helpful.

Contributing agricultural cooperatives and Penn State University under the auspices of the PA Council of Cooperatives sponsors the conference series.

The program will begin with a continental breakfast at 8:30 a.m., includes lunch, and is anticipated to conclude at 3:30 p.m. There is a $10 charge with pre-registration or a $15 charge at the door. For registration information, call Dick Poorbaugh at Penn State (814) 863-0644. For additional information on the conference, call Carol Duncan (610) 693-5601.

NEHCA Hosts National Bull Test Sale

William Lipsey
Drover Hill Farm
Earlville, N.Y.

The Northeast Highland Cattle Association played host to a record setting day for the Highland breed. The first ever AHCA Performance Tested Bull Sale was held in conjunction with our annual meeting, and it was a rousing success. Highland breeders from throughout the Northeast and around the country watched and bid as 19 bulls averaged $2,194. Four bulls sold for over $4,000 and two set a new breed record of $7,000.

All the bulls in the sale had "passed" the first AHCA Central Bull Test. Twenty-five bulls were feed tested for 140 days. They were weighed each month and their average daily gain and weight per day of age was calculated. At the end of the test each bull was measured for carcass quality by ultrasound, for scrotal circumference, height and semen tested. The top 75% were eligible for the sale.

Question: Bulk tank SCC has increased for the past two years in our herd, yet we are not seeing any more signs of mastitis. Can this be from differences in SCC testing?

DHIA testing of SCC has not changed significantly in recent years. Bulk tank SCC or weighted SCC as it is sometimes referred to is the raw count of cells per volume of milk multiplied by the total volume of milk. DHIA then reports the calculated SCC of the total milk produced by the herd. This should be similar to the SCC measurement of a representative sample of milk taken from the bulk tank.

Let us first look at some of the recorded DHIA information for the herd. Actually I want to look at some very specific parts of the herd to see why it is not apparent that the WSCC is going to be higher. The following will look at the past two years of cows and their SCC as they are tested for the first time following calving.

The left side of the chart is the information about fresh cow infection for the period two years ago and we see that the summer months are the most troublesome. June new infections were double the average for the year. If we then look at the right side of the chart we see that the summer months were again the start of a lot of new infections. The difference now is that the problem is persistent through late summer and fall months.

The other thing to note about the changing trend in this herd is that the fresh cows are the ones that are infected at a higher rate and of course make more milk than cows in later lactation. In this case we may actually treat less cows for mastitis in the herd and still the WSCC will go up due to the larger impact of the higher producing cows that are infected.

DHIA statistics prove their value in cases like this because even the best observers can be fooled by the severity of a SCC problem when we use head counts to evaluate mastitis controls We should also take the time to find out what part of the herd is affected the greatest. This will lead to better plans of attack and may avoid a step backward for every one forward.

Eastern Beef Producers Get Extra Bonus From Choice Cattle

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Premiums for Choice beef carcasses have almost doubled nationwide because fewer cattle are grading Choice in the Great Plains, said Brian Roe, Ohio State University Extension livestock economics specialist.

Premiums for Choice carcasses have hit $10.50 to $11 above Select - well above the $5 to $7 per hundred pounds average premium of the past three years. While this has not had a large effect on the price consumers pay for beef, it is good news for the East and eastern Corn Belt, where beef operations are typically smaller and focus more on quality as a market advantage, Roe said.

"With 1,200- to 1,300-pound animals taken to market, producers could earn $60 to $70 more per animal this year than previous years, if they get it to Choice," he said. "For Ohio and other Eastern states, that's an additional marketing opportunity that's typically not there. So while it usually takes a little more time and money to get an animal to grade Choice, this year it probably pays to take those extra steps."

Typical beef prices for Select cattle are in the mid-$60 to $70 range per hundred pounds, so adding the $10.50 to $11 premium for Choice would increase a producer's earnings by about 15 percent, Roe said.

Over the past three years, about 61 percent of beef carcasses in the East and eastern Corn Belt have gotten a Choice quality grade. In the northern Great Plains, 55 percent of carcasses have graded Choice, and in Texas and Oklahoma only about 45 percent usually grade Choice.

But from the beginning of April through mid-June of this year, 3.3 percent fewer cattle have been grading Choice in the Great Plains, where most of the nation's beef is produced. A late spring heat wave in the Great Plains likely made it very difficult for animals in that area to reach Choice status. This is a classic case where a regional weather disturbance in one part of the country benefits another region, Roe said.

While the East and Southeast, including Ohio, have actually delivered 2.3 percent more Choice carcasses than the three-year average from April through mid-June this year, U.S. totals were still down about 2 percent, or about 21,000 carcasses, for the 10-week period.

"The region with Kansas is so big, it dominates the national statistics," Roe said. "In terms of beef production, as that region goes, so go the national averages."

In addition to fewer supplies, an increased demand for higher quality cuts of meat from restaurants and other retail food outlets also is contributing to the increased Choice premiums, he said.

"If consumer demand continues to be focused on higher quality cuts, and premiums continue to remain high, one wonders how long it will be before producers in the Plains become highly quality conscious and try to compete with the East on quality," Roe said. "If they do successfully implement quality improvements, it may remove one of the East's competitive advantages."

New Chesapeake Bay Agreement Signed

FRIENDSHIP/ROSE HAVEN, Md. — The Chesapeake Executive Council recently signed a new agreement that will guide the next decade of restoration in the Chesapeake Bay watershed. The agreement contains commitments that will improve water quality and protect living resources in the Bay and its tributaries. It will also remove the Bay from the federal list of impaired waters by 2010.

This action by the Executive Council — Maryland Governor Parris N. Glendening; Pennsylvania Governor Thomas J. Ridge; Virginia Governor James S. Gilmore, Ill.; District of Columbia Mayor Anthony A. Williams; U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Carol M. Browner; and Chesapeake Bay Commission Chair Bill Bolling — culminates two years of work to develop the new agreement. The jurisdictions and governmental bodies represented in the Executive Council lead the cooperative Chesapeake Bay Program.

Council members also selected Mayor Williams to serve as chair of the Executive Council for the next year. Gov. Glendening has served as chair since 1997.

Chesapeake 2000: A Watershed Partnership is the most comprehensive and far-reaching agreement in the Bay Program's history. The primary goal of the new agreement is to improve water quality sufficiently to sustain the living resources of the Chesapeake Bay and its tidal tributaries and to maintain that water quality into the future. This will mean setting increased nutrient reduction goals and for the first time setting sediment reduction goals Baywide.

Meeting these water quality standards by 2010 will preclude the need for regulatory measures slated to begin in 2011. EPA has placed the Bay and its tidal waters on the impaired waters list for an over abundance of the nutrients nitrogen and phosphorus.

The agreement has five sections containing commitments to protect and restore living resources, vital habitats, and water quality through sound land use by promoting stewardship and engaging communities throughout the 64,000 square mile watershed. The agreement is designed to build on past restoration actions and will continue all Bay Program commitments outlined in previous agreements or Executive Council directives. Specific restoration commitments include increasing the number of native oysters tenfold by 2010, restoring blue crabs by establishing harvest targets and implementing complementary state management plans Baywide, and new wetlands restoration and protection goals. Other commitments are reducing the loss rate of farm and forest land to harmful sprawl development in the watershed by 30 percent by 2012, permanently preserving from development 20 percent of the lands in the watershed by 2010, and striving for zero release of chemical contaminants from point sources by 2010. The agreement also stresses providing a meaningful outdoor Bay or stream experience for every school student in the watershed before graduation from high school, beginning with the Class of 2005, and expanding public access by 30 percent by 2010, and add 500 miles of water trails by 2005.

Chesapeake 2000 becomes the third Bay Agreement written to guide the actions of the multi-jurisdictional Chesapeake Bay Program. The first agreement, creating the Bay Program, was signed in 1983. A second was signed in 1987 and amended in 1992. Scientists, local government officials and conservation leaders all played a role in developing the new agreement. The process also included considerable public input and review.

Most commitments in the new agreement are scheduled completion within ten years. It is already being used to guide the use of Bay Program partner resources.

surance Assistance Program.

"I want everyone to know that in the Mid-Atlantic states and New England, where we had this disastrous drought, no state legislature or governor has dedicated more assistance dollars to agriculture than has been the case here in Pennsylvania," said Hayes.

The secretary also brought greetings from Gov. Ridge as he read a prepared statement.

"Agriculture is the commonwealth's leading industry, providing jobs for about 20 percent of our state's residents and making the link between our rural and urban dwellers vital to the success of our state's economy. Partnerships must be forged between rural and urban residents to ensure a better quality of life for generations. Because without our farms and farm families, city and urban families lose their valuable supply of local food sources, and without our cities and towns, farmers lose both market centers and processing facilities for their products."

The theme of farm families and urban dwellers working together was reiterated by event chair Sherri Butters, who made it her goal to talk to as many visitors as possible. With more than 2,500 people milling about the farm and taking advantage of the scheduled activities, that job kept her busy for most of the day.

"I tried to stop people as they were walking along and I had lots of good comments. I spoke to one couple from Corning, New York who had two kids. She said this is the kind of event she had been looking for for her kids. She said she felt so safe!" said Butters.

Wagon tours of the farm fields were packed throughout the day. On the tour, families learned about the history of the farm and formed a captive audience for Natural Resources Conservation Service worker Howard Rutledge, who talked about conservation practices and strip cropping.

People were also on hand to explain the uses for many old-time tools that were displayed at the event. Kids and adults even got to try their hand at shelling corn the old-fashioned way, with an old corn sheller. Although he admitted that this method is much slower than the machines of today, Art Shumway was quick to point out that this contraption was a lot faster than shelling it by hand.

Children's activities were the highlight of the day for many visitors. One hundred twenty-six youngsters participated in a pedal tractor pulling contest and many others tried their hand at an ice cream eating contest. Many more children thought that a maze constructed with bales of hay was nothing but fun.

One of the most popular spots for kids and parents alike was the petting zoo, sponsored by the Mountaineers 4-H Club, where emus, bunnies, chicks, ducks, pigs, goats, and other animals got plenty of attention.

The day will be recorded as another successful Farm City Day event in the annals of Tioga County, according to Butters. Part of the emphasis this year was to better the relationships with the civic organizations.

"We hosted the auction with the Wellsboro Rotary. We said that we would provide the place and the advertisements if they would solicit the items for the auction. We ended up making $3,600 at the auction, which will be divided between the Farm City Day Committee and the Rotary Club," she said.

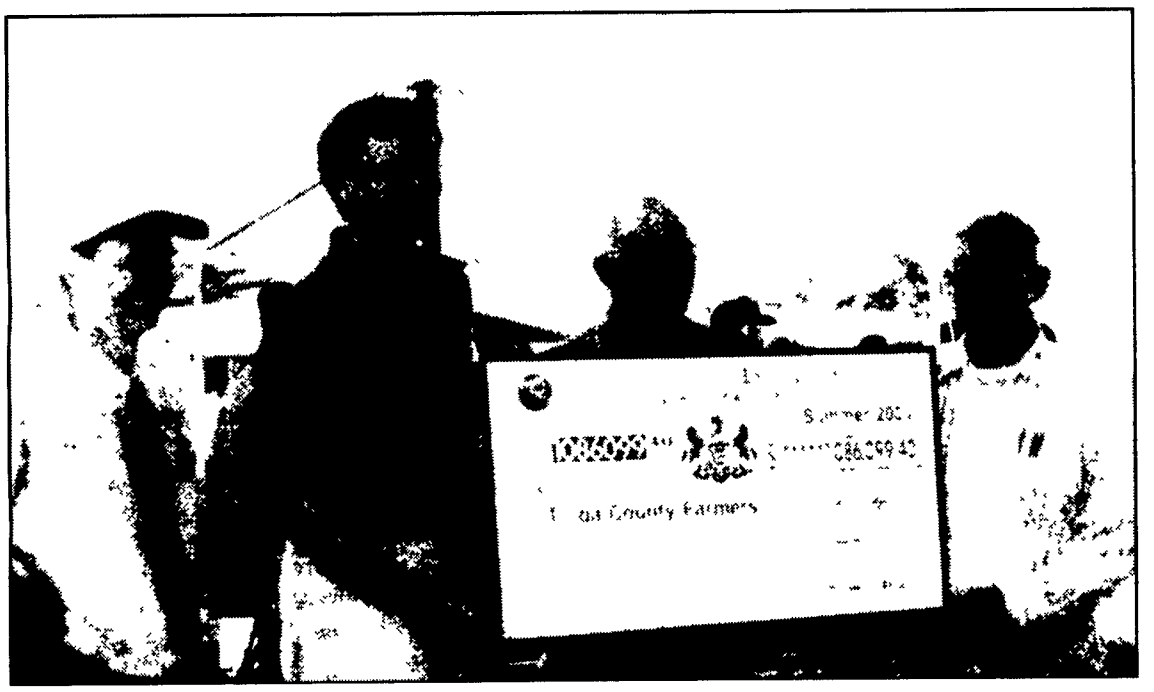
The Farm City Day portion of the money will be used to cover necessary items such as insurance, tent rental, and other expenses. This helps ensure that families can enjoy the day's activities free of charge. This year the committee also sold T-shirts to help raise money for the event.

Besides enjoying the day's featured activities, those who attended this year's event had the opportunity to register for free ice cream for a year, donated by Schwan's Sales and $520 worth of Exxon gasoline from Acorn Markets. Jill Marple, Covington, was the lucky ice cream certificate winner, and Megan Zuchowski, Wellsboro, took home the free gasoline certificates.

Even Mother Nature cooperated to make the day's events run smoothly.

"Overall the weather was one of the nicest days we had," said Butters. "It was a good family fun day!"

Tyler Wood, Pottstown, makes his way through the hay maze that was constructed in a corner of a field.



Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes, Rep. Matt Baker, and Sen. Roger Madigan present a mock check to Tioga County Farmers, represented by Carl Kroeck, to show that Tioga County farmers received more than $1 million in disaster assistance for 1999.

DEVOUR ALFALFA

Mark Goodson
Penn State
Cooperative Extension
Capitol Region
Extension Agronomy Team

Here in Pennsylvania we have adopted a system of dairy production that relies heavily on producing high quality alfalfa haylage and hay. Our climate and soils are suited very well to alfalfa. And alfalfa has the potential to make the dairy producer a lot of money by providing relatively cheap homegrown protein for the herd.

Good management is required to produce high quality alfalfa. In my book, good management means having a plan then doing the right thing at the right time. Without the plan, one never knows what to do when the time comes. In fact, without a plan, we miss the boat. This article is to encourage you to get an integrated pest management plan for alfalfa, then follow it.

Potato leafhoppers migrate into Pennsylvania every spring and are a major pest to alfalfa. Entomologists and agronomists have studied leafhopper movement and pattern of damage. This is a predictable pest and integrated pest management (IPM) threshold data is readily available.

We know how to scout for it and we know how to control it. (See "A Pest Management Program for Alfalfa in Pennsylvania" Special Circular 284 from Penn State Cooperative Extension). It is often a damaging pest in second cutting and almost always in third cutting alfalfa.

Leafhoppers damage alfalfa in four ways, according to M. Curtis Wilson, professor of entomology at Purdue University:

1. Stunting of plants. Growth is greatly reduced, sometimes more than half that of a normal plant.

2. Loss of quality. Protein is reduced. Leafhopper feeding injects a toxin into plants that reduces protein production. Data indicates that protein loss occurs very quickly with relatively low insect populations. Five percent loss in protein occurred at a population level commonly attained when leafhoffers have not been controlled.

3. Loss in yield. Yesterday, I measured seven-inches more in height where leafhoppers had been controlled vs. no control in the same field.

4. Loss in plant vigor. Leafhoppers drain alfalfa of its vigor, resulting in serious carryover effects in later cuttings. These effects are reflected in:

(Turn to Page A37)

a. Slow recovery of regrowth following harvest.

b. Winterkill, causing stand loss due to plants entering dormancy in a weakened condition.

c. Loss in yield the following season. The results of Perdue University research demonstrated not only greater vigor, but a production increase of ½ ton hay per acre on the first cutting where leafhoppers had been controlled the previous year.

With a pest at hand that can inflict such devastating damage to such an important crop, why is it that so many farmers don't take care of business and control this pest, especially in second cutting?

This year is a buggy year. Alfalfa weevils were more damaging this year than any year since the 1970s. That was a wake-up call.

We've been hearing all spring that the growing season is "ahead" this year. So why didn't more farmers get around to spraying alfalfa fields for leafhoppers when they reached the economic threshold?

Why are so many second-cutting alfalfa stands "hopper burned" and yellow? I think it's because farmers didn't bother to check their fields to see if leafhoppers were there in damaging numbers. I'm not talking about taking off your cap and running it through the alfalfa once or twice and looking to see if you got one. I'm talking about using a net and applying integrated pest management.

An insect sweep net is an essential leafhopper management tool for every grower trying to maximize yields and quality and to apply good management. How many of you have one and know how to use it? If you don't have one, why not? By the time you see the yellow "hopper burn," the damaging losses are already occurring. If you look at yellowing alfalfa and tell yourself "we'll see once what happens," you are losing forage quality in all the ways listed above.

Buy a sweep net or make one. Instructions on how to make an insect sweep net are in the special circular referenced above. You can buy a sweep net from any popular farm supply catalog.

A 12-year-old can learn how to use it. If you don't want to do it yourself, then pay a consultant to check them for you — it will be worth it.

If you don't have time to spray the fields yourself, it will pay your operation to hire a custom operator. The economic thresholds are in the special circular referenced above.

Your alfalfa is a cornerstone of your dairy operation. You cannot afford to ignore the damage that leafhoppers are doing to it.

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MECHANICSBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Sewing is an art, a skill that has been developed with patience and encouragement.

About 70 4-H'ers who took gold ribbons at county levels competed July 6 at the Capitol Region 4-H Fashion Revue. These included participants from Adams, Cumberland, Dauphin, Franklin, Lancaster, Lebanon, and York counties.

Time, effort, and hard work paid off for eight senior gold ribbon winners selected to advance to state competition to be held at Penn State 4-H Achievement Days, Aug. 1-3.

Although only eight are eligible to advance to state competition, Mary Ann Oyler, Franklin County family living agent, told participants, "You are all winners. You have gained skills to help you in the future."

They also have the outfits they made. From shorts and tops to evening gowns, the outfits demonstrated the individual styles and talents of the one who made them.

Winning that gold ribbon is the crowning achievement for years of practice. Jenny Hoover, Denver, is one of those. She started sewing at six years of age.

"My grandma made draperies and wedding gowns for others. She paid me a penny for every pocket I made to hold the weights at the bottom of the draperies."

At six years of age, that was an incentive to sew and she also learned to make doll clothes. Jenny's mother (Lois Hoover) and grandmother (Nancy Good) are volunteer 4-H sewing leaders.

Jenny joined 4-H and has won gold ribbons for the past six years. For this, her final year in competition, Jenny envisioned a simple but elegant dress.

Much to her mother's and grandmother's chagrin, Jenny waited until six days before competition to buy the fabric and sew her semi-fitted black polyester ankle-length dress.

"I'm a last-minute person. I work best under pressure," Jenny said. Her fully-lined dress with the bottom embroidered etched in a silver design and a back slit is evidence of her ability.

"It's really a simple design, and I thought I might not win this year," Jenny said.

Nonetheless the polyester jersey matte required careful attention to sewing machine tension so that the fabric lies flat. Jenny used three patterns and needed to adjust the shoulders and sleeves to fit her.

After state competition, Jenny will work on her most challenging and favorite project — her wedding gown. She is getting married in December.

Matthew Reichard, Franklin County, is another consistent winner. He tailored a herringbone-patterned wool jacket and a coordinating pair of corduroy slacks and a button-front shirt. The welt pockets were a bit difficult, but Matthew proved he could compete with the best seamstresses. Matthew, 14, was selected as one of the top 10 seamstresses in the state last year.

He said, "One of the reasons I participate in this (Fashion Revue) is because it's lots of fun and you get to meet tons of people. Last year I was the only boy among 57 girls (contestants) at state. You can't beat that!"

Matt credits his mom, Tonja Reichard, who is his 4-H leader, for giving him lots of good basic instruction in his beginning years that has enabled him to sew independently. The biggest problem Matt faces is claiming the use of the sewing machine. He has two sisters who also have 4-H sewing projects. He was the last one in the family to finish his project, which he estimates took 30-40 hours to complete.

Other senior gold ribbon winners include the following:

• Valerie Bomgardner, Lebanon, modeled a leopard print dress in a cotton and polyester blend featuring an empire waistline with gathered neckline. Valerie is a recent graduate of Annville-Cleona High School and the Lebanon County Career and Technology Center, where she was enrolled in culinary arts.

• Rachael Krall, Lebanon, sewed polyester pants topped with a tensile camisole, and sheer polyester crepe print top for those cool ocean breezes.

Since this was her last year of competition, Rachael said that wanted to create an outfit that was both fashionable and functional. The fitted camisole with spaghetti straps and the ruffled sleeves on the sheer top were a challenge.

• Lindsey Fackler, Dauphin, stitched a sundress with princess seams in a lightweight twill fabric that twinkled with metallic silver faux. Lindsey added a double row of top stitching around the neckline and hem by using silver metallic thread.

• Elizabeth Criswell, Lancaster, stitched tan capri pants in a stretch denim and a cotton moss green shirt with three-quarter length sleeves. She stitched a shoulder bag in a coordinating fabric.

• Cara Hershey, Lancaster, stitched a three-piece outfit, which included a semi-fitted, zippered-front, fleece jacket over a cotton knit shirt. Her wide-legged pants featured front and side pockets. Difficult project required matching uneven plaids, fitting pants, inserting a fly zipper, and making a shirt without a pattern.

• Gwen Umbreit, Franklin County, president of the 4-H Thimble Gang, made a three-piece wool suit and cotton blouse. The fully-lined jacket with a shaped hem topped loose-

Bridget is her name.

She moseys down the alley twice every day, hops swaying with each step she takes. Her eyes rake the terrain, checking for that unexpected opportunity.

Then, finding the borderline unprotected for just a moment, she casually steps over the delin-eating marker and sidles off into forbidden territory.

I hope the rope tied between the two end stalls and do a twenty-yard dash down the middle of the barn, hook a right turn through an empty spot and — in the best terms of the Old West — "cut her off at the pass."

You can almost hear Bridget muttering under her cud as I give her a friendly swat on the rump, head her back out of the feed trough and into her favorite end stall for milking. Chain snapped into place for the brief hour or two she'll be in the barn during milking, Bridget settles down to munching silage while we get down to the business at hand.

As I begin to prep her for milking, she turns around and licks me in the face.

You haven't lived until you've been kissed by a cow.

Today is National Cow Appreciation Day.

Cows have the miraculous ability to take stuff you and I won't eat and convert it into one of our most valuable food sources for calcium and assorted other minerals and vitamins. Dry corn, barley, soybeans, chopped cornstalks, fermented chopped hay and slices of dry alfalfa stems and leaves just wouldn't cut it on most of our tables. But when the Bossies of the world have altered it into the source of stuff like cheese, ice cream, butter, or milkshakes, it goes down a lot easier in the human diet.

Here in our dairy barn, of course, every day is Cow Appreciation Day. Some cows we just appreciate more than others.

A favorite cow in our herd right now is Butter, a big, mostly-black bovine with the gentle temperament of a beloved old dog. Butter was a friendly pet from the day she was born and, even as a heifer, would greet visitors to the pasture. Butter has one speed — slow — and can't be chased or hurried. If visiting children want to touch a cow or try their hand at milking one, Butter's placid friendliness makes her a usual candidate for demonstration purposes.

Near the top of the friendly-cow-scale are a few others which immediately come to mind: Patty, an old cow from our extensive and heifer-prone "P" family or Jandy, whose calm disposition is slightly warped with her "busybody" nature.

While cows have a reputation for being contented grazers, usually pictured lounging around some green pasture, most of them have a streak of curiosity they never outgrow. Whoever coined the "curiosity got the cat" phrase could just as well substituted "cow" for cat in their cliche development.

Bongo comes to mind. Bongo is known around here as "the electrician." Confined to a boxstall for treatment for a sore foot after calving, Bongo promptly took to turning off a big fan set up on hot days for extra barn ventilation. Cows are highly susceptible to stray voltage and electrocution, so Bongo has been banned from being anywhere near the fan.

One recent morning, I recycled some calf feed bags by tossing them into a heifer bedding pack. The layered paper bags include a liner of thin plastic bag for moisture protection; I ripped the layers apart to remove the plastic, then tossed what remained of the bags into the pen. Before I'd gotten to the third bag, at least a dozen big heifers had abandoned their fresh, leafy alfalfa hay to cluster in a group to nose, shove, stomp, rip and nibble at the dry sections of tasteless paper. Go figure.

Cows will pull out, push in, rip up, run down, take apart, stomp flat, chew on and ultimately splatter with manure anything and everything they get close to. Having been behind one of the "girls" while milking one recent evening when she coughed at the same time she "lifted her tail," I can personally attest to that.

At that moment, I had second thoughts about celebrating Cow Appreciation Day.

Warren County Fair Open Aug. 8-12

PITTSFIELD (Warren Co.) — The 70th Warren County Fair is being held on the grounds in Pittsfield from Aug. 8-12.

Tickets at the gate are $7. "Farmer for a Day," a new interactive display, will be on the grounds for the first time. Although it is billed as an attraction for the young, the young at heart will not be disappointed. This educational display will teach without reading or writing. Participants learn as they try their skill with the props provided.

The Motor Sports Arena is presenting a pre-show on Monday evening to whet your appetite for the thrills and chills that motor sports events add. Stadium Truck Racing starts at 7:30 p.m. There will be a small charge for this new event.

Brad Paisley and Chad Brock, the Brad and Chad Show, open the week's musical performances. WKNB is once again on board helping to present this show. Reserved seats are required. Brad and Chad present two shows on Tuesday, Aug. 8. The early show begins at 6:30 p.m. with the second show following at 9 p.m. Call (814) 563-3565 for ticket information.

Midway rides, food, and animals, abound. Children can pet animals and watch the animals be put through their paces during judging. There is no charge for any animal event. There are horse shows nearly every day.

Lee Germain and Judi, comedy illusionists, are featured on stage near the fair office.

Three performances by the Wild West Follies will be given daily.

WHUG and the Warren County Fair present the Fox Brothers on Wednesday evening. Lynn, Randy, and Roy are blood brothers from Middle Tennessee who started singing together as children.

Mark Lowry, premier Christian comedian, will present one concert on Thursday, Aug. 10. Reserved seats are required. Call the ticket office for more information.

Pick up a brochure to find out about all of the great entertainment opportunities or visit our web site — www.penn.com/warrencofair. For more information e-mail us at warrenfair@penn.com.

Rules For Parents, Children To Live By

Karen Bracey
Wyoming County
Family Living/4-H Agent

Living together as mature adults is achieved by practicing certain basic skills. At the outset, keep handy some basic reminders to yourself. They should include the following:

- Recognize that a joint household requires effort by each person to make it work. The lives of each member will continue to change, so be prepared to change expectations and responsibilities accordingly.
- Be open about discussing what bothers you. Air grievances promptly and in a thoughtful way. Negotiate differences so there is something positive in the outcome for both generations.
- Don't fear occasional flare-ups. They are part of life and may clear the air. Don't let the situation fester.
- Treat each other as a good friend. This includes courtesy and respect for individual tastes and opinions.
- Use humor to brighten your life and relieve tension. It always helps to be able to laugh at yourself.
- Avoid prying about girlfriends, boyfriends, or other personal business. Sharing information about such matters should be voluntary.
- Make requests of parents, sons, and daughters — not demands. Demands threaten good feelings about yourself and others.
- Communicate calmly about work you think needs to be done. Try not to be a nag. Discuss expectations about the quality of the work.
- Be as flexible as possible, without giving up your own rights and values. Avoid making issues out of minor irritations.
- Show appreciation for help given by others. It may be what you agreed on, but everyone likes to be appreciated.
- Be businesslike in dealings associated with your joint living arrangement. If you let some things slide now, there may be double trouble down the line.

fitting, tapered pants accented in front and back with eight darts. Gwen had to adjust the pattern to lengthen the pants. Matching plaids required patience and skill. To complete the ensemble, Gwen's cotton blouse featured gathered sleeves and sporty French cuffs.

While the gold winners advance to state competition, the blue ribbon winners serve as alternates. These include Lindsey Fackler, Dauphin; Rebecca Light, Lebanon; Kristen Sanderson, Cumberland; Lindsay Shirk, Lebanon; Emily Walker, Franklin; and Barbara Reichard, Franklin.

Junior division contestants are 13 years of age and younger and are not eligible to advance to competition. The Junior Gold Ribbon winners include the following: Sara Oyler, Adams; Kamarin Minnich, Dauphin; Katie McGinnis, Daupnin; Kailey Troutman, Dauphin; Lora Wenger, Franklin; and Denise Hoke, York.

The Junior Blue Ribbon winners are Emily Ziegler, Lebanon; Deborah Sweigart, Lancaster; Nikki Lolly, Lancaster; Monica Snyder, Dauphin; Sarah Myers, York; and Rachael Siegel, Lebanon.

Holly Hoover loves sewing and competition. She also said that she works well under pressure, evidence by her latest escapade in waiting six days before competition to select her fabric, combine three patterns, and stitch a perfect fitting dress that captured another gold ribbon for her.

Senior judges for the event included Janell Berte, Ellen Gardner, and Linda Rand. Junior judges were Nancy Class, Mary Rebeccah Irvin, and Chris Kinney. Former Lebanon County 4-H'er Jessica Watson, Miss Lehigh County, taught modeling and poise.

Classes during the daylong Fashion Revue included "Who Can Sew Like a Millionaire?" by Michelle McGinnis and Nancy Cartwight, Dauphin County and "Smart Shopping," by Robert Thee.

Melinda Wolfe Of Northumberland Crowned SUN Area Dairy Princess

MILTON (Northumberland Co.) — Melinda Wolfe, daughter of Dean and Rinda Wolfe from Milton was crowned the 2000 SUN Area Dairy Princess by 1999 SUN Area Dairy Princess Jennifer McWilliams.

Sara Erdley, daughter of Mike and Faith Erdley from Lewisburg, and Selena Hollenbach, daughter of Scott and Sandy Hollenbach from Middleburg, were named the SUN Area dairy princess alternates.

The pageant was held Saturday evening June 24 at the Susquehanna Valley Mall in Hummels Wharf. "SUN" Area includes Snyder, Union, Northumberland, and Montour counties. The Boscov store in the Susquehanna Valley Mall sponsored Ag Dairy Days, with the help of the SUN Area Dairy Princess Promotion Committee and local businesses.

The pageant began with Dawn Marie of Big Country Radio and Jane Hawn, public relations manager with Boscov's serving as the Mistresses of Ceremonies. This year 11 dairy maids: Victoria Adams, Janelle Ewing, Brittany Fry, Raquel Hauck, Valerie Hoover, Jessica Kessler, Brittany Rice, Tara Rice, Amanda Shaffer, Laci Shirey, and Corinda Varner participated. The 16 dairy miss participants included Tiffany Adams, Danielle Ewing, Kasee Ewing, Marissa Ewing, Amanda Hauck, Elizabeth Heckert, Lindsay Heckert, Dawn Heimbach, Katy Heimbach, Crissa Johnson, Cheryl Pfleegor, Tanya Rice, Hailey Shirey, Makenzie Walters, Emily Weller, and Jonelle Wetzel. Junia Isiminger, public relations/special promotions from the PDPPS Board, and Wanda Yoder, Central District coordinator with PDPPS, joined in Saturday evening's event.

All of the young ladies participated in a fashion review, with commentary by Jane Hawn, public relations manager at Boscov's. Lexanne Berich, from Milroy, provided musical entertainment. Robert Hockenbroch, chairman of District 16 presented this year's Dairy of Distinction Award. The award went to Sid and Sue Hoffman of Mt. Pleasant Mills, and Diane Walton Neyhard, Milton.

The 26th Annual Ag Dairy Days was filled with fun and excitement for all ages. On June 22, there was an Agriculture Business Appreciation Ceremony sponsored by Boscov's. Local businesses that support the dairy industry were honored. Sunnyside 4-H Dairy Club sold milkshakes to the public. Samples of different flavors of cheese were also served to the public. Cheese was donated by U.S. Food Service, Fetter's Meat Market, Green Ridge Country Market, Fairview Country, Ard's Farm Market, Byerly Brothers Meats, and Reinharts.

On June 23, a seven-foot tall giant ice cream sundae was built in the Boscov's Court. Turkey Hill Dairies of Conestoga furnished 135 gallons of premium vanilla ice cream, 10 gallons of chocolate sauce, 25 pounds of pecans, and five gallons of strawberries. SYSCO provided the paper products for the evening event. Contestants, FFA members from Middleburg, Mifflinburg, Selinsgrove, and West Snyder High Schools, dairy maids, dairy misses, and the SUN Area Dairy Princess Committee dipped and served the public free ice cream sundaes. Approximately 1,500 sundaes were served.

On June 24, the public got the opportunity to have their picture taken with a calf. This event was sponsored by the North-Mont 4-H Club. A "Celebrity cow milking contest" was held with volunteer cow milkers from local businesses. The Pennsylvania Holstein Association gave out samples of milk punch. Keystone Financial and Schneider Valley Farms donated the products to make the milk punch. A tractor pedal pull contest was held for children outside Boscov's store. Children who pulled the tractor the furtherest won a trophy. Swineford Bank sponsored an all-you-can-eat Scooper Bowl. The public paid one price and could eat ice cream all day long.

Sun Area Dairy Princess Jennifer McWilliams and Linda Fisher, chairperson of the area's dairy princess promotion committee present a basket of dairy products to the first baby born in the area on June 1. Baby Alex Russell Lee Wagner is the son of Kathy and Darrell Wagner, Penns Creek.

Cool Fruity Recipes

Eating is never better than in the summertime.

Luscious peaches, cool watermelons, plums, apricots, nectarines, and berries offer variety for the most finicky eater.

Fruit can be eaten fresh or combined with a variety of other foods and baked, cooked, or churned into smooth, creamy flavors of ice cream.

Cool off with these fruity recipes.

SUMMERY SWEET PEACH SAUCE

Jazz up ordinary bread pudding with a summery sweet peach sauce. Puree six medium peeled and pitted peaches and combine with a tablespoon honey in a medium saucepan. Dissolve a tablespoon cornstarch in ¼ cup water and then stir into the puree.

Bring the peach mixture to a boil over medium heat and cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Remove from heat and stir in ½ teaspoon lemon extract. Chill the sauce and ladle over the bread pudding when ready to serve.

JUST PEACHY SHAKE

1 pint frozen vanilla yogurt
1 medium fresh peach, peeled, pitted, and cut up, or ½ cup peach slices
1 tablespoon honey
1 tablespoon creamy peanut butter
Chopped fresh peach (optional)
Finely chopped peanuts (optional)

In a blender container, combine frozen yogurt, cut-up fresh or frozen peach, honey, and peanut butter. Cover and blend until smooth. Pour into two glasses. If desired, garnish each serving with chopped peach and finely chopped peanuts. (Makes two 6-ounce servings).

CANTALOUPE BOATS

¼ cup sliced almonds
¼ cup honey
1 ripe medium cantaloupe, cut into quarters, with seeds removed
1 pint vanilla frozen yogurt
½ pint raspberries

In a small non-stick skillet, toast almonds over medium heat just until golden, stirring frequently. Remove skillet from heat and stir in honey; set aside.

To serve, place cantaloupe quarters on four dessert plates. Top with frozen yogurt, raspberries, and warm almond mixture. Makes 4 servings.

CHILLED FRUIT CUPS

12-ounce can frozen pineapple juice concentrate, thawed
6-ounce can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1 cup water
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 medium firm bananas, sliced
16-ounce package frozen unsweetened strawberries
15-ounce can mandarin oranges, drained
8-ounce can crushed pineapple
18 clear plastic cups (9 ounces)

In a large bowl, prepare pineapple juice concentrate according to package directions. Add orange juice concentrate, water, sugar, lemon juice, and fruit. Spoon ¼ cupful into each plastic cup. Place cups in a pan and freeze. Remove from the freezer 40-50 minutes before serving. Yield: 18 servings.

DEEP DISH PEACH PIE

8-10 peaches
½ cup sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon almond extract
2 tablespoons butter

Crust:

¼ cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup quick rolled oats
5 tablespoons butter
2-3 tablespoons cold water

Prepare peaches and cut into quarters. Place in a greased casserole. Combine sugar, salt, and flour, sprinkle over peaches. Sprinkle lemon juice and almond extract over top. Dot with pieces of butter. Sift together flour and salt. Mix in rolled oats. Blend butter into dry ingredients as for pie crust. Add enough water to hold together. Roll out dough to ⅛-inch thickness. Cover peaches with crust. Bake 10 minutes at 450 degrees, reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake 40 more minutes.

BLUE CHEESE STUFFED PLUMS, APRICOTS

3 fresh plums
3 fresh apricots, halved and seeds removed 1½ cups blue cheese, crumbled
1 tablespoon honey
1½ tablespoons chopped toasted hazelnuts

Top each piece of fruit with crumbled blue cheese, drizzle with honey sprinkle with hazelnuts. Serve immediately. Serves 12.

BLUEBERRY GRAPE SAUCE

Bring the elegance of French cuisine to your table in a dessert crepe filled with blueberry grape sauce.

In a saucepan, mix together 1½ cups blueberries and ½ cup red grape juice. Dissolve 2 teaspoons cornstarch in ½ cup water and add to blueberries. Stir in a tablespoon honey and cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until the mixture bubbles and thickens. Remove the sauce from heat and spoon into the crepe. Top with a dollop of low-fat whipped topping.

RASPBERRY SAUCE

A raspberry sauce add richness and texture to a feather-light angel food cake. Drain and reserve the juice from a cup of thawed, unsweetened frozen raspberries. Place the berries in a small sauce pan. In a jar with a tight-fitting lid, shake together the reserved raspberry juice and 2 teaspoons cornstarch. Add enough water to make ½ cup. Stir the juice into the raspberries and bring to a boil, stirring constantly until thickened. Cool before spooning over the cake.

PEACHES AND CREAM MILKSHAKE

1 cup sliced fresh peaches
1 cup cold milk
1 pint peach ice cream
Sugar

Place peaches and ¼ cup milk in blender. Cover and blend until smooth, about 10 seconds. Spoon in ice cream, cover, and blend until softened. Add remaining milk; mix until blended. Sweeten if desired. Pour into tall glasses and garnish with fresh peach slices. Yields 4 cups.

LUCIOUS LEMON ICE CREAM

2½ cups sugar
6 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoons salt
5 cups milk
2 cans sweetened condensed milk
6 pasteurized processed eggs
2 cups whipping cream
2 cups light cream
1½ cups fresh lemon juice
2 packages unflavored gelatin

In a heavy saucepan, heat milk until it scalds. Mix eggs, cornstarch, sugar, and salt. Stir into milk until it forms into a soft custard. Soften unflavored gelatin in the lemon juice. Stir this into custard mix and add sweetened condensed milk. Let custard mixture cool, add whipping cream and light cream. Stir and pour into freezer. Makes 4 quarts.

FRUIT LEATHER

Wash fruit; cut away blemished areas; peel, if necessary; remove pits or seeds. Puree fruit in a blender until smooth. If too thick, thin with a little water or fruit juice. Add 1 tablespoon honey or corn syrup if fruit is too tart, if desired. Spices or flavorings may be added at this time. Fruits that oxidize (apples, nectarines, peaches, and pears) should be heated to 190 degrees and allowed to cool before proceeding. Cover drying trays with heavy, food grade plastic wrap or use specifically designed sheets that come with most dehydrators. Spread puree evenly, about ⅛-inch thick in the center ¼-inch thick at the edges or dehydrator trays. Dry at 135 degrees until fruit puree feels pliable and leather-like. Check center to be sure there are no sticky spots. Roll, jelly-roll style, while still warm; cut into pieces and seal securely in plastic wrap. Store fruit leather in home canning jars for long-term storage.

Ball Book

Featured Recipe

Ice cream never tastes better than in hot summer weather. Churn a batch using seasonal fruit, and you'll enjoy it even more.

Here are two recipes just in time for using in-season fruit. Jim Bob's Cherry Vanilla Ice Cream was a winner at Ag Progress several years ago. It's still a winner with those who try it.

Happy churning.

PEACH ICE CREAM

1 pint crushed peaches
1 egg
½ cup sugar
1½ cups milk
1½ cups whipping cream
¼ teaspoon almond extract
⅛ teaspoon salt

Sweeten peaches to taste. Beat egg until foamy in a large mixing bowl. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add milk, almond extract and salt. Blend in peaches. Chill. Churn-freeze. Yields approximately 2 quarts.

JIM BOB'S CHERRY VANILLA

1½ pints heavy cream
2 cups sugar
2 cans evaporated milk
10 pasteurized processed eggs
1½ quarts milk
2 teaspoons vanilla
1½ cups dark cherries

In ice cream can, mix together first six ingredients very well with wire whisk, then begin to freeze according to ice cream churn manufacturer's instructions. About two minutes before the ice cream is done, add the cherries and freeze until done. Makes 6 quarts.

'Beef Made Easy' Recipes

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) Last week you may have read about the new meat case setup which is based on cooking method. Each section of the case includes color-coded labels for steaks for grilling, marinating, sauteing, braising, stewing, and stir frying, besides pot roasts, oven roasts, and ground beef. Corresponding rail strips, case dividers, and color-coded pictures help to separate the cuts.

Research indicates that consumers do not think about cuts of meat when they shop, but rather meal solutions... in other words, answering the question, What s for dinner?!

The program is meant to help to build the category of convenience beef, said Carrie Bomgardner, Pa. Beef Council director of promotions. Bomgardner has introduced the program to 260 grocery store meat cases across Pennsylvania and Maryland, beginning in June 1999. Weis, Giant, and 30 independent stores now have the program.

Currently, Pennsylvania retailers are working on having labels customized for a particular store. The labels include a peel-off A.1. Steak Sauce recipe that corresponds with the cut, as A.1. is partnering in the program.

Consumers will find extensive information on the labels. The peel-off label includes instructions for cooking, provides a time chart for cooking time, and features an easy, minimal-ingredient recipe. If you ve been wondering what to do with a few of the cuts in your freezer, here are a few ideas from the labels to get you started.

Your favorite beef recipe may be a winner. The Pennsylvania Beef Council and Lancaster Farming are co-sponsoring a beef recipe contest. Look in next week's issue for contest rules and prizes which will be awarded.

Steak House T-Bone

• Use for: Ribeyes, Tip Sirloin, Tenderloin, T-bone or Porterhouse

2 (1 lb.) beef T-Bone steaks, 1 inch thick
2 cups sliced fresh mushrooms
1 tablespoon olive oil
¼ cup A.1. Steak Sauce

Cook and stir mushrooms in oil in skillet until tender. Stir in steak sauce; heat through. Grill uncovered over medium heat 14 to 15 minutes until medium rare to medium doneness, turning occasionally. Or, broil 3-4 inch from heat for 15-20 minutes for medium rare to medium doneness, turning once. Serve with mushroom mixture.

Zesty Italian Steak

• Use for: Chuck, Flank, Top Round

1 (1 ½ lb.) top round steak
1 (6 oz) package zesty Italian salad dressing mix
½ cup A.1. Steak Sauce

Sprinkle salad dressing mix onto both sides of steak, pressing firmly into steak. Place steak in nonmetal dish or plastic bag; add steak sauce, turning to coat both sides. Cover, refrigerate for 6-8 hours (or overnight if desired). Remove steak from marinade, discard marinade. Grill uncovered over medium heat 8-9 minutes until medium rare, turning occasionally. Or broil 2-3 inches from heat, 12-13 minutes for medium rare doneness, turning once.

Braised Beef and Onions

• Use for: Chuck Pot Roast, Brisket

1 (2 ½lb) roast or brisket
2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 cup A.1. Steak Sauce
2 large sweet onions, sliced ¼ inch thick

Slowly brown beef in hot oil in 8-quart pot or heavy pan, drain. Add steak sauce and water to pot, heat to a boil. Add onion. Cover tightly and reduce heat. Simmer gently over low heat on stovetop or in 325-degree oven 2-3 hours or until fork-tender.

Case dividers, pictures, rail strips and color-coordinated pictures lend color besides convenience to the meat case. These features help consumers such as Mick Chronister and his son, of Carlisle.

Quick Beef and Vegetable Stir-Fry

1 pound beef round tip steaks, cut ⅛ to ¼ inch thick
½ cup A.1. Steak Sauce
2 cup soy sauce
1 ½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon vegetable oil
1 (16 oz) bag frozen mixed vegetables
¼ cup beef broth

Stack beef steaks, cut lengthwise in half, then crosswise into 1 inch strips. Mix beef, steak sauce, soy sauce and cornstarch until well coated. Drain beef, reserving steak sauce mixture. Stir-fry beef strips (½ at a time) 1-2 minutes or until outside surface is no longer pink. Remove from skillet. Add vegetables, reserved steak sauce mixture and beef broth, heat to a boil Reduce heat, simmer 1 minute Return beef to skillet; heat through.

Summer Heat, Humidity Provide Bacteria-Friendly Conditions That Backyard Grillers Should Know

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Summer is the season for backyard grilling, but the same heat and humidity that drives you from the kitchen and out to the patio grill can promote food-borne illness, said a food safety expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

"Illnesses from undercooked foods and improper food handling skyrocket during the summer months," said Dana McElroy, food safety specialist in the department of food science.

McElroy cites recent research by the Food Safety and Inspection Service, which tracked reported incidences of food-borne illness from 1996 to 1998 because of seven pathogens: Campylobacter, E. coli 0157:H7, Listeria monocytogenes, Salmonella, Shigella, Vibrio and Yersinia. The report noted outbreaks of E. coli, Campylobacter and Salmonella increase from June through August.

"Bacteria, including those responsible for food-borne illness, are present throughout the environment in air, soil, water and the bodies of animals and humans," McElroy said. "These bacteria grow faster in warm summer months."

McElroy says food-borne pathogens grow fastest in temperatures between 90 and 110 degrees Fahrenheit. Bacteria also need moisture to flourish — a requirement supplied by the humid weather of summer.

"Another reason for the increase is that the safety controls a kitchen provides are not available when you move outdoors," she said. "Thermostat-controlled cooking, refrigeration and washing faculties are missing from most campgrounds, picnic areas, and backyards."

Symptoms from food-borne illnesses may include stomach pain, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, headaches, and fever. Healthy adults often weather the sickness in a day or two. However, young children, senior citizens, pregnant women, and people with impaired immune systems can become very sick or even die from these illnesses.

McElroy suggests a few simple guidelines to make sure your cook-out doesn't include a trip to the emergency room.

• Wash hands and surfaces with hot, soapy water before handling food and after using the bathroom.

• Pack disposable washcloths and paper towels for cleaning hands and surfaces.

• Wrap raw meats securely and separate them from ready-to-eat foods within a cooler.

• Wash plates, utensils, and cutting boards that have contacted raw meat before using again for cooked food.

• Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. "Leave meats and other foods in the refrigerator or cooler until you are ready to grill them," said Catherine Cutter, assistant professor of food science and an expert on meat products.

• Check the internal temperature of meats with a thermometer. "Meat and poultry cooked on a grill can brown very quickly on the outside," Cutter said. "But foods are cooked properly only when heated long enough at a temperature high enough to kill harmful pathogens."

• Ground beef should reach at least 160 degrees Fahrenheit. Whole steaks and roasts should reach 145 degrees F for medium-rare. Other roasts should be cooked to 160 degrees F for medium and 170 degrees F for well-done. Whole poultry should reach 180 degrees F for safety and quality.

• Do not let partially cooked meat sit on the counter. Precooking meat in the microwave or range is a time-saver, but make sure the meat goes directly from the oven or microwave onto the grill. "Partial cooking ahead of time allows bacteria to survive and multiply to the point where additional cooking may not destroy them." Cutter said.

• Marinate raw fish, meat, or poultry in a glass dish in the refrigerator. Do not use the marinade as a basting sauce or dip if raw meat has been placed in it.

• Throw away any leftover food, hot or cold, that has been left out for more than an hour. "When in doubt, throw it out," McElroy said.

• Charcoal should burn for 30 minutes before cooking. The coals should have a light ash coating for best results.

Are You A Chocoholic?

Some studies reveal that chocolate cravings may occur if the body's magnesium levels are low.

Stress, which can cause the body to get rid of magnesium through urine, may contribute to chocolate cravings. This may be one of the reasons women crave chocolate prior to their menstrual cycle. The problem with this theory is the fact that nuts contain high levels of magnesium and women experiencing premenstrual syndrome (PMS) generally don't crave nuts.

Several studies have shown people with negative moods have a greater tendency to be cravers and "emotional" eaters. This lends support to the idea that eating chocolate may be a way to regulate chemicals in brain and bodies to regulate appetite, hunger, mood, and addictive behaviors.

Hormones may influence chocolate cravings. Prior to the menstrual cycle, there is an increased blood level of progesterone, a hormone that reduces fat levels in the blood. This decreased blood fat may trigger the body to crave high-fat foods. Again, chocolate fits the bill.

If you are looking for a recipe but can't find it, send your recipe request to Lou Ann Good, Cook's Question Corner, in care of Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. There's no need to send an SASE. If we receive an answer to your question, we will publish it as soon as possible. Check your recipe to make sure you copy the right amounts and complete instructions for making the recipe. Sometimes we receive numerous answers to the same request, but cannot print each one.

QUESTION — Judy Ulrich, York, wants the recipe for Honey Pecan Crunch, a pie that she heard was a winner in state Farm Show competition. The pie was shown on television, and she remembers the pecans were lined up beautifully across the top of the pie.

QUESTION — Shirley Miller, Nazareth, would like to find a recipe or booklet about potato flour.

QUESTION — Herman Bean, Easton, writes that he is 78 years old. He remembers his grandmother made molasses cookies when he was a small boy. His mother still made them at 95 years of age but died 10 years ago and took the recipe with her. The dough was cut with flower or boy and girl-shaped cookie cutters. When baked, the cookies were about an inch thick, 4-inches high, and 2- or 3-inches wide. They were sort of a grayish color, soft, and had to be put into a can for a couple of days before eating. Bean said, he believes the cookies are a "Dutch favorite."

QUESTION — Steven Skramko, Richfield Springs, N.Y., would like a recipe to make Shoe Top cookies, which look like leather used for repairing shoes. He writes the recipe is from 60 years ago.

ANSWER — Dawn Black, Chambersburg, wanted a recipe for homemade butter pecan ice cream. She had clipped one from this column several years ago but misplaced it. I'm not sure if this is the same recipe, but here is one from Misty Claypoole, Armstrong County dairy princess, who reminds us that July is National Ice Cream Month.

Pecan Ice Cream

¾ cup chopped pecans
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt

Ice Cream:

½ cup packed brown sugar
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
2 eggs, beaten
⅓ cup maple-flavored syrup
2½ cups milk
1 cup whipping cream
2 teaspoons vanilla extract

On a baking sheet, combine pecans, butter, sugar, and salt; spread into a single layer. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Cool. For ice cream, combine sugars, cornstarch, eggs, and syrup in a double boiler. Gradually add milk. Cook over boiling water until mixture thickens. Remove from heat; chill several hours or overnight. Stir in nuts, cream, and vanilla. Place in ice cream freezer and freeze according to manufacturer's instructions. Allow to ripen in ice cream freezer or firm up in refrigerator freezer 2-4 hours before serving. Makes about 2 quarts.

ANSWER — Here are some recipes suitable for covered dish meals from Sharon Bielmyer, Holtwood.

Barbecued Green Beans

4 slices bacon
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup ketchup
¼ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cans French cut green beans, drained

Brown bacon and onion. Add remaining ingredients except beans. Simmer two minutes. Place beans in a 9x9-inch dish. Pour sauce over top of beans. Do not stir. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Sharon also sent this recipe, which was included in a recipe box Sharon's aunt gave her for a bridal shower. The recipe box gift is one of the most used gifts Sharon has ever received. That's a great gift idea for all you accomplished cooks to give to younger, inexperienced cooks.

Barbecue Sauce

1 cup ketchup
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup vinegar
Pinch red pepper
Pinch allspice

Mix together and simmer five minutes. Add cooked ham or pork. Serve on bun with relish if desired.

I usually make a big batch of this and freeze it in meal-size portions. When I want to use it, I thaw it and heat in the crockpot.

ANSWER — Here are two main meal recipes that can be made ahead and frozen. The ham casserole can be cooked before freezing. Or it can be made and frozen before cooked, but don't put on biscuits until just before baking. It goes together really quick and has all the food groups in it so you don't need anything else with it.

Hearty Ham Casserole

2 cups chopped, cooked ham
16-ounces French cut green beans, drained
¼ cup sour cream
¼ cup chopped onion
3 tablespoons chopped pimento

Combine above ingredients in saucepan. Heat well. Separate one can biscuit. Cut each biscuit into four pieces. Spoon mixture into 1½-quart casserole. Top with biscuit pieces. Bake 16-20 minutes or until golden brown. 4-6 servings (adjust amounts to serve more people).

Ham And Broccoli Quiche

15-ounce package refrigerated pie crusts
1½ cups cooked ham, cubed
1½ cups shredded Swiss cheese
1 cup frozen broccoli florets, thawed, drained thoroughly on paper towel
4 eggs
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon pepper

Heat oven to 375 degrees. Prepare pie crust as directed on package for one-crust filled pie using 9-inch glass pie pan. Refrigerate remaining crust for later use.

Layer ham, cheese, and broccoli in crust. In medium bowl, combine remaining ingredients, beat well. Pour over broccoli.

Bake at 375 degrees for 35-45 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Let stand 5-10 minutes before serving. 8 servings.

Serve immediately or cool and freeze for later use.

I got this recipe from my sister Lisa Wolf, Denver. The recipe goes together quickly and is great for potluck suppers.

Mexican Dip

2 avocados
1 can refried beans
8-ounces sour cream
1 package taco seasoning
1 jar salsa
1½ cups shredded taco or cheddar cheese

Crush and spread avocados over bottom of 9x13-inch pan. Spread refried beans over avocados. Mix sour cream and taco seasoning together. Spread over beans. Spread salsa over top. Sprinkle with cheese. Serve with tortilla chips.

Jell-O Pinwheels

1 small package Jell-O any flavor
½ cup warm water

Danville FFA

The Danville FFA Chapter recently traveled to Penn State to "Unlock Their Potential."

As 13 members of the FFA Chapter packed their talents, skills, and bedrooms into just a few bags, they were off to a new experience. They were meeting new people, making friends, and bonding with those who they already knew.

The Danville FFA Chapter was headed to the Pennsylvania State FFA Summer Convention at Penn State University.

The chapter competed in six different career development events (CDEs) filled with people from FFA chapters all across Pennsylvania, from CDEs of 11 to CDEs with 114 contestants. The Danville Chapter still came home with winners.

Joshua Jones represented the Danville FFA in the agriculture mechanics CDE. Michael Woodruff competed in dairy judging.

Danville did very well in dairy cattle showmanship. The Wolfe sisters, Alicia and Melissa, both competed successfully. Melissa Wolfe placed sixth out of 16 as a freshman. Alicia Wolfe placed third as a sophomore.

She is not just stopping at this convention. Alicia has earned the spot to travel to Springfield, Mass., in September to attend and compete in the eastern states exposition ("Big E").

Megan Lazure, Beth Wisnoskie, and Jennifer Gotshall made up the Danville team of contestants in the floriculture CDE. Five members — Gretchen Brady, Becky Fritz, Amanda Hack, Eric Rubenstein, and Jamie Wemple — competed in horse judging.

Last, but not least, was the state public speaking CDE. Melissa Wolfe advanced from the area contest to regionals, and then earned her way to the Pennsylvania State Summer Convention to compete in the state competition. The creed contest involves memorizing five paragraphs that tell you what agriculture holds for today as well as in the future. The creed is also judged as the speech is being given. Melissa placed second in the state.

Learn Skills

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Delaware Township 4-H Club seeks new members in grades 4 through 8 who are interested in art, crafts, food and nutrition, photography, and horticulture.

The club participates in most county events such as public presentations, window display contests, holiday workshops, record books, and many other county workshops offered throughout the year.

4-H members' project work is displayed at the Hunterdon County 4-H and Agricultural Fair during the Labor Day weekend.

The club meets in Delaware Township on the first Friday of the month between 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and the third Saturday of the month between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Great Time For Five A Day

The Produce For Better Health Foundation and the National Cancer Institute have formed a partnership to encourage us to eat five servings of fruits and vegetables daily. At this time of the year when fruits and vegetables are fresh from the garden we should be able to meet this quota easily.

Five servings a day may not sound difficult to achieve, but a recent survey showed that only 50% of us know the need to eat 5 A Day, and only a few Americans meet this goal on a daily basis.

All varieties of fruits and vegetables — fresh, frozen, canned, dried, and juice — count toward 5 A Day. One can easily meet that goal if they follow the serving size standards. One serving can be derived from the following sources:

- a medium piece of fruit
- ½ cup of cooked, canned, or cut-up vegetables or fruit
- 1 cup chopped lettuce and other raw leafy vegetable
- ¼ cup (6 oz.) of 100 percent fruit or vegetable juice
- ½ cup of canned legumes (beans and peas)
- ¼ cup dried fruit

Fruits and vegetables are essential in the diet because they provide vitamins, minerals, fiber, antioxidants and photochemicals which are not contained in other foods. These nutrients help us fight everyday infections, like colds and coughs. The nutrients also help reduce our risk of getting cancer and heart disease.

When selecting your 5 A Day, remember to include the following:

- at least one Vitamin C selection of oranges, tomatoes, watermelon
- one vitamin A selection - carrots, squash, spinach, sweet potato; and
- one high-fiber selection - apple, black beans, peas.

At least twice a week try to include a cruciferous vegetable such as cabbage, cauliflower, or kohlrabi.

There are lots of tasty ways to enjoy fruits and vegetables. For breakfast, put strawberries, blueberries or bananas on a bowl of cold cereal; dice an apple onto oatmeal; top French toast or pancakes with warm peaches; or sprinkle berries on yogurt.

For snacks, pack dried fruit, like raisins, in your trail mix; fill celery sticks with peanut butter; dip carrots into ranch dressing; or refresh yourself with a glass of juice.

For lunch. top off a sandwich with lettuce or tomatoes; serve a side of baked beans with your sandwich; eat from the local salad bar; carry an apple, pear, or grapes for dessert.

For dinner, stir-fry veggies with lean meat; add broccoli to a casserole; top off pizza with peppers or pineapple or enjoy a bean burrito with salsa.

During the busy summer season parents may not be with their children for every meal, but they can help them eat right throughout the day. Keep some sliced vegetable strips in the refrigerator

For pre-dinner snacking or daytime munching, put a bowl of dried fruit on the table. Wash some fresh fruits, chill in the fridge and have it readily available for anytime during the week. For a quick cool down, offer a cold glass of juice or juice frozen into popscicles.

When buying take-out or eating out, you can still get 5 A Day. If doing Chinese, include some stir-fried vegetables. Mexican eating offers you the opportunity to try a veggie burrito with plenty of tomatoes, lettuce, bell peppers and salsa. Look on the menus for vegetables that are steamed or roasted. Many restaurants offer fresh fruit salads during the summer season. Supplement your take-out with fruit or vegetables from home or a large glass of juice.

Fresh, frozen or canned fruits and vegetables are readily available year round in supermarkets, but this time of the year the best supplier for fresh produce is your local farmer's market. Fresh blackberries, blueberries, cherries, peaches, plums and melons are all readily available during the summer season. In many areas, the following items are already on the market: corn, green beans, broccoli, summer squash, lettuce, beets, cabbage, peppers, and tomatoes.

For your next picnic, try a cool, fresh salad or a fruit or vegetable tray served with one's favorite dip.

Include some grilled vegetables at your next cook-out. Grilling vegetables is easy and fast, and sometimes people find that vegetables they don't normally like may be acceptable to them if grilled. Okra is probably the best example of a vegetable that appeals more to consumers when grilled. Some tips for grilling vegetables include the following:

- Make sure the grill is hot when you put the vegetables on the surface.
- Use a secondary grill or vegetable basket that has smaller holes to prevent vegetables from slipping into the fire. The shallow basket or vegetable holder is very effective, because you can flip all the vegetables over at once. Vegetables shouldn't stick to the grill.
- It's the proteins in meat and seafood that cause stickiness during grilling.
- Use the fresh produce your farmer's market has to offer and take control of your health.

It's a great season for "5 A Day".

Why every fisherman needs these maps

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Professor Higbee's Stream Maps are the first and only highly detailed maps of their kind... showing virtually all of the streams, rivers and lakes in each state.

Professor Higbee's® STREAMS

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Cone Caravan Caper

BALLY (Berks Co.) — The first-ever Ice Cream Cone Scooping and Building Relay Race was held recently at St. Francis Academy, in Bally.

The race pitted students against teachers and was part of the school's annual Dairy Day celebration. Each team built, one scoop at a time, five ice cream cones five scoops high using Turkey Hill ice cream on Dairy Queen cones. Each participant dashed 50-feet from start to scoop and back the same 50-feet to pass the cone to the next teammate.

The day began with a presentation by Cindy Bray, the newly crowned Berks County Dairy Princess. Portraying lunch box inspector Trooper Bray, she reviewed several lunches noting the healthy ones and the not so healthy ones with chips and sodas. "Dairy Day is an excellent way for students and adults to learn about the values of dairy products while having fun," she said after the event.

Event judges included Robin Melcher, sr. vice president of National Penn Bank, Donna Holstein of Holstein Transport Co., Bob Hilbert of Bob Hilbert Co., Bob Morrone of Pennsburg Dairy Queen, Walter Guasp-Santos, and Dairy Princess Cindy Bray.

Event sponsors included Turkey Hill Dairy, Pennsburg Dairy Queen, Bob Hilbert Co., Holstein Transport, and National Penn Bank.

First-grade students from St. Francis Academy enjoy a cone of Turkey Hill ice cream following the school's annual Dairy Day celebration.

Children's Day At Indian Steps Museum

YORK (York Co.) — On July 16, the Conservation Society of York County will sponsor its third annual Children's Day, from noon to 4 p.m. on the grounds of Indian Steps Museum along the Susquehanna River.

There will be craft making for children (25¢ per craft), a fairy hunt, story telling, flute playing, and probably more surprises. The York Area Pet Bird Club will also be on hand to talk to the public and show the proper handling and training of pet birds.

Food and refreshments will be sold and all proceeds from the event will benefit the museum. There is no admission for the event or to the museum, although donations are greatly appreciated.

Directions to Indian Steps Museum: Take Route 74 south to Airville, go north on Route 425 to the river, turn right and the museum is approximately one mile.

For additional information call chairperson Ealora Holland at (717) 755-3777.

Feeding Livestock: Don't Take Job Lightly

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Feeding livestock is not a job that should be taken lightly, particularly for children, said a farm safety expert in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences.

Farmers can assign appropriate farm tasks to their children using the newly developed North American Guidelines to Children's Agricultural Tasks (NAGCAT), said Dennis Murphy, professor of agricultural engineering.

"Distributing feed to animals may seem like one of the easier farm chores, but in reality, there are several serious safety issues," Murphy said.

Hay feed often is stored above the livestock area, which may require children to climb on unprotected or rickety ladders. In addition, square bales of hay weigh between 40 and 60 pounds and can be unwieldy to lift for children as well as adults, causing missteps and poor footing.

"The bale should weigh no more than 15 percent of a child's body weight," Murphy said. "The child should have to carry the bale no more than 10 or 15 yards during the job. If the distance is greater or the bale weighs more, an adult should carry the bale or cut it into smaller sections."

Hay bales also are held together by twine or, occasionally, wire. Children should wear leather gloves and receive training in using wire cutters and safety glasses. "Wire can spring up and inflict an eye injury," Murphy said. "Wire can cut hands, and twine can give you painful rope burns if gloves are not used."

When feeding cows, children should be wary of any sudden movement on the part of the animals. Around horses, Murphy said children should be cautious of kicks, bites, or unpredictable movements. "Children never should be required to enter enclosed pens to feed young horses, stallions or pregnant or lactating mares," he said.

Feeds such as corn or silage produce dust and silo gases when stored in a silo. Murphy said children should be fitted for a respirator and wear it during feeding. "Never let a child enter a silo," Murphy said.

When feeding cattle, children always should keep a barrier — preferably a metal stall or stanchion — between the animal and themselves. If the child is using a feed cart or wheelbarrow, he or she should be able to safely push and effectively steer a fully loaded cart.

"When cleaning up, make sure the broom or shovel is the right size for a child," Murphy said. "Large grain shovels can pick up more weight than some children can safely handle."

During feeding chores, children should wear non-skid shoes and make sure to wash their hands before and after the job. "Always demonstrate how to feed livestock four or five times before allowing children to work by themselves," Murphy said. "Always check back on them every 15 to 30 minutes."

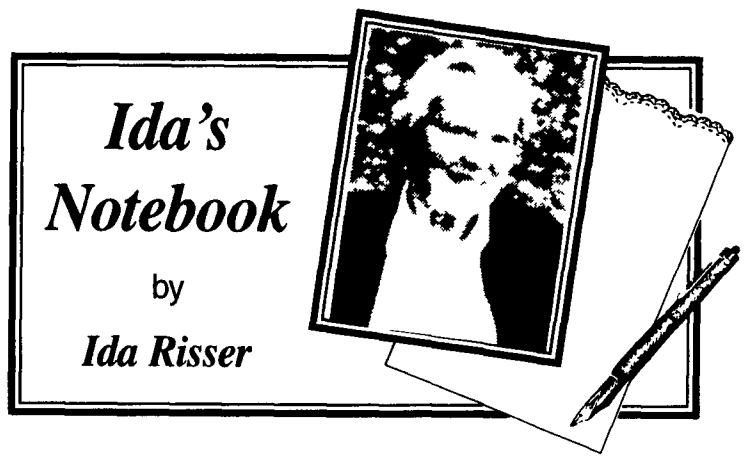
What is biotechnology?
Today's farmers are able to raise crops that grow faster, healthier and more efficiently than they used to. Many of these plant varieties are resistant to insects and disease. How? That's easy—biotechnology.
Biotechnology is the use of organisms, systems or processes to make or modify products. Scientists transfer DNA or genes from plants or organisms to other plants and organisms.
This process provides the genetically modified organism with good qualities that benefit farmers, consumers and the environment.
About half of U.S. soybeans and a third of U.S. corn is a product of plant biotechnology. Through a genetic process—called gene transfer, corn, soybeans and other crops can be made pest- and disease-resistant and tolerant of cold weather, drought conditions and flooding.
Genetically modified plants can also make pharmaceuticals and vaccines.
Sound complicated? It's really not. Scientists can use biotechnology to improve all sorts of things. By combining the good things from one plant or animal with another, we can make improvements!
It's like a s'more. Graham crackers, chocolate and marshmallows are good to eat alone, but when we put them together, they're super-delicious!
Scientifically yours, Twig

KIDS GULP MORE MILK



We've had lots of rain recently. Three inches fell in a few hours and a nearby community had six inches. All of the weeds and grass around our house took advantage of the moisture and grew rapidly.

I've spent hours bending over flower beds pulling weeds. The grass that I hoe out of the garden seems to grow fast again so I raked it off between the rows. The pea fences have been taken down and the ground rototilled for a long row of sweet potatoes.

The cucumbers are blooming and this year I should have a bumper crop compared to last year when it was so very dry. The cabbage plants that my husband started in the basement have enormous leaves. They remind me of the giant ones that we saw in Alaska a few years ago.

I've planted so many kinds of squash and pumpkins that I really do not know what is what until they bear. The three grandchildren helped to push seeds into the hills that I made for them. So far this year, the soybeans and peanuts have been left alone by the groundhog.

The deer that lives in our meadow reaches across the rail fence and nibbles off leaves from a young tree. We do enjoy watching him cross from one wood lot to another each evening. Just so he stays out of my garden.

We recently put an electric fence around our sweet corn patch to protect it from raccoons. Now we must prepare our strawberry rows for next year's harvest. And, there are still ornamental bushes to be trimmed. No lack of work.

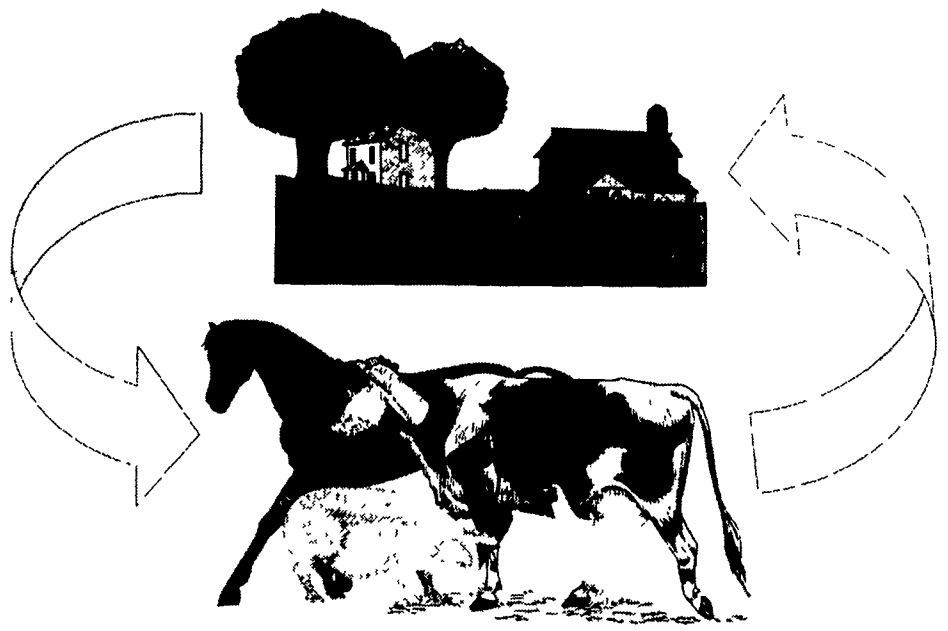
Nutrient Management Reference Guide



A reference guide for farmers and nutrient management planners on the new revised regulations as authorized by the Pennsylvania Conservation Commission in cooperation with the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection, Penn State University, county cooperative extension, and county soil conservation districts.

This 80+ page, 8 ½ x 11-inch book will include introduction of recent changes in the nutrient management laws, a checklist to develop a Nutrient Management Plan, and descriptions of CAFOs and AFOs along with help to determine your farm's status. In addition, a list of the county conservation districts and commercial nutrient management specialists will be given with contact resources.

Not only will this guide be inserted into the Aug. 19, 2000 issue of Lancaster Farming, the books will be made available at Empire Days, Ag Progress Days, All American Dairy Show, Keystone International Livestock Exposition, Keystone Farm Show 2001 and Pennsylvania Farm Show 2001.

Savings Benefits

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Several cardboard "slide rule" type calculators are available that, despite their apparent simplicity, provide a large amount of detailed information about the growth of savings over time.

The principle behind them is that, even small amounts of money, especially if placed in tax-deferred savings vehicles (e.g., 401(k)s and IRAs), will grow to significant sums over time.

The large New York pension firm TIAA-CREF (800-842-2733) developed a slide rule, called "Tax Savings Calculator." The calculator shows the monthly tax savings available for various amounts contributed monthly to tax-deferred plans (e.g., 401(k)s). The tax savings is calculated by multiplying the amount saved by a person's marginal tax bracket.

On the flip side of the TIAA-CREF slide rule is another set of tables called "Compound Interest Calculator." This calculator shows how much an investor can accumulate by making various monthly contributions that earn various rates of interest over specified periods of time. Obviously, the longer one saves, and the more they earn on their money, the more they'll accumulate.

Another helpful slide rule is the "401(k) Booster Calculator" from Advantage Publications (800-323-6809). This calculator shows what investing just one percent more of your pay will grow to in a tax-deferred savings plan. For example, one percent of a $30,000 salary is $300. For a 40-year old, an extra $300 contributed each year to a 401(k) plan would grow to $33,835.

PEACH PIE FILLING

6 pounds peaches
2¼ cups sugar
½ cup flour
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
2 teaspoons lemon peel
¼ cup lemon juice

Peel, pit, and slice peaches. Treat to prevent darkening. Combine sugar, flour, and spices. Rinse and drain peaches; stir into sugar mixture. Let stand until juices begin to flow, about 30 minutes. Stir in lemon peel and lemon juice. Cook over medium heat until mixture begins to thicken. Ladle pie filling into can or freeze jars or plastic freezer boxes, leaving ½-inch headspace. Cool at room temperature, not to exceed two hours. Seal, label and freeze. Yield: about 4 pints.

PEACH PIE

¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
Dash salt
1 cup water
1 small package peach Jell-O
Peaches

Mix together sugar, cornstarch, and salt. Add ¼ cup water. Pour into first mixture. Cool 5-10 minutes. Pour over sliced peaches in graham cracker crust or baked pie shell. Can be covered with whipped topping if desired.

STRAWBERRY GLACE PIE

9-inch baked pie shell
6 cups strawberries
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons corn starch
½ cup water
3-ounce package cream cheese, softened

Mash enough strawberries to measure one cup. Mix sugar and cornstarch in 2-quart saucepan. Stir in water and mashed strawberries gradually. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture thickens and boils. Boil and stir one minute; cool.

Beat cream cheese until smooth, spread on bottom of pie shell. Fill shell with whole strawberries; pour cooked strawberry mixture over top. Refrigerate until set, at least 3 hours.

Raspberry Glace Pie: Substitute raspberries for the strawberries.

Peach Glace Pie: Substitute 5 cups sliced peaches (7 medium) for the strawberries. To prevent discoloration, use an ascorbic acid mixture as directed on package.

Promoting the dairy industry in Armstrong County are Dairy Princess Misty Claypoole, Alternate Stephanie Biesinger, Dairy Maids Maggie Thomas and Nicole Bussard, and Dairy Misses Julie Miller, Ashley Mattilio, and Alexandra Kough.

Armstrong County Selects Dairy Royalty

MT. LEBANON (Armstrong Co.) — Eager to promote the dairy industry in Armstrong County are Dairy Princess Misty Claypoole, Alternate Stephanie Biesinger, Dairy Maids Maggie Thomas and Nicole Bussard, and Dairy Misses Julie Miller, Ashley Mattilio, and Alexandra Kough.

The promotional team was selected recently during the pageant held at Bonello's Restaurant.

Misty, 16, lives on a 400-acre dairy farm with her two sisters and parents. They milk 125 cows. In school she is involved in varsity soccer, marching and concert band, Science Olympiad, FFA, and ARIN UP chemistry mentorship.

In the community, Misty is secretary of Country Kids 4-H Club, a member of Teen Council, a hospital volunteer, and a member of the livestock judging team. Misty figure skates and holds memberships in the Professional Skating Association, Mt. Lebanon United States Figure Skating Association, and the Belmont Blaze.

Misty presented a speech on the importance of drinking milk where she outlined the nutritional benefits of milk. Her skit presented the different kinds of feed and grasses that cows eat.

Stephanie, 17, lives on a farm with her parents and seven siblings. She is homeschooled in 11th grade, serving as dairy ambassador last year. Her activities include secretary of the Armstrong County Dairy 4-H Club, a member of the livestock judging team, and variety club.

Stephanie presented a speech on the changes within the dairy industry.

The dairy maids and dairy misses will assist with milk promotions within the county.

1½ cups miniature marshmallows or 12 large marshmallows

Spray an 8 or 9-inch square pan with no-stick cooking spray. Spread on bottom and sides of pan with a paper towel.

Mix gelatin and water in 1½ to 2-quart microwaveable bowl. Microwave on high 1½ minutes; stir to dissolve completely. Measure or count marshmallows, add to gelatin. Microwave 1 minute or until marshmallows are puffed and almost melted. Stir mixture slowly until marshmallows are completely melted and mixture is smooth. Creamy layer will float to the top. Pour into prepared pan. Refrigerate 45 minutes or until firm. Loosen edges with knife for easy rolling. Starting at one edge roll up tightly. Using sharp knife place roll seam-side down and cut into ½ inch slices. Serve immediately or refrigerate until ready to serve.

Tip: For easier cutting, dip knife in warm water.

Facilitators Training Set

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Rutgers Cooperative Extension will host a True Colors Facilitators Training for teachers and youth workers July 31-August 2 on the Cook College Campus in New Brunswick.

True Colors® is a simple personality assessment system that is appropriate for youth as well as adults. It is simple to administer and builds understanding of self and others.

It is a very effective diversity training tool as well as a tool for improving the ability of individuals and groups to work effectively with others. The cost for teachers and youth workers for the three-day training is $450.

Participants will be certified to conduct True Colors® workshops within their schools or organizations as well as use the model to improve their own ability to understand and work more effectively with others.

For more information or registration materials, contact the 4-H department of Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Hunterdon County at 908-788-1340. Registration deadline is July 3.

Wyoming/Lackawanna Counties Crowns Dairy Princess

TUNKHANNOCK (Wyoming Co.) — At the annual dairy princess pageant held at the United Methodist Church in Tunkhannock, Traci Anderson was selected to represent the dairy industry as the 2000-2001 dairy princess. Chosen to aid her in promotion was Bobbie Sue Adams. The judges for the competition were Chris Swilley, from Mehoopany and a former dairy princess, and Karen Kosner, a personnel manager at the Tunkhannock Walmart store. Emcee was Victor Cappucci Jr.

The new princess is the daughter of George Anderson and Laura Seidel. Traci lives in Tunkhannock and is a student at the Tunkhannock Area School where she will be a senior this fall. Traci is in both FFA and 4-H and has shown dairy and sheep at local shows and fairs. She is also in the band and chorus at school. She works at McDonald's.

Bobbie Sue, 17, is the daughter of Bob and Rose Adams, and will begin her junior year at Wyalusing High School this fall. She is a member of SADD, and is in the 4-H Dairy Club. She has shown both Holstein and Jersey breed animal projects at local shows and fairs. During the past year, she served as dairy maid, and participated in many appearances and functions promoting the dairy industry.

Serving as dairy ambassador for the upcoming year will be Stephen Henning Jr., the son of Steve and Tina Henning, Mehoopany. Stephen has been a member of FFA, the 4-H Dairy Club and was one of the founding members of the Wyoming County 4-H Beef Club. He has been vice president of all of these clubs. He has been in 4-H for five years. He enjoys talking to kids about the dairy industry and one of his favorite promotions was opening ceremonies at the Viewmont Mall for 4-H week. He recently graduated from the Dale Carnegie Course, and at 16, is completing the 10th grade in Tunkhannock High School. At the annual 4-H Leaders banquet he was named Outstanding Senior Boy.

Denise Hardisky will be dairy maid. Her parents are Michael and Beverly Hardisky of Nicholson. She loves to read, and has been a cheerleader at Lackawanna Trail School. Denise owns 100 ewes, and is now beginning to branch off into a swine project. She is a member of the 4-H swine club, the lamb club, the sewing club, and has held many offices in the Baconeers and Shining Shepherd clubs. She has shown her lambs at various fairs, and shows promise as a writer.

Autumn Henning continues as dairy miss, serving with her brother, Stephen, the dairy ambassador. She is going into fourth grade this fall, in the Mehoopany Elementary School. She is in the 4-H Dairy Club in the county and has served as the social chairman for this year. She has shown her dairy project animal at the county, district and state levels of competition. She has both Holstein and Guernsey cows. At the annual 4-H Leaders banquet, she was named Outstanding Junior Girl. Her other activities include membership in Girl Scouts, where she helps in food and clothing drives for the homeless. Her most memorable promotion during the past year was at the Wyoming County Fair, where she was able to promote the dairy industry along with the Fair Queen.

Some of the past courts promotion efforts were acknowledged by Emcee Cappucci. Included were 34 school promotions and 11 special events. It was estimated that the court traveled approximately 2,000 miles and contacted more than 33,000 people. While the two contestants prepared for their skits, Cappucci talked of what has become of past county princess and three were in attendance and were able to give a personal account of how the Dairy Princess Program has helped them. Charlene Shupp, daughter of Dale and Judy Shupp Tunkhannock, who served as pageant chairperson, and now works in Luzerne County for the Chesapeake Bay Program; Becky Garrison; Chris (Adams) Swilley of Mehoopany and was filling one of the judging positions.

Promoting the dairy industry in Wyoming and Lackawanna counties, from back left are Dairy Maid Denise Hardisky and Ambassador Stephen Henning. In front are Dairy Miss Autumn Henning, Alternate Bobbie Sue Adams, Dairy Princess Traci Anderson, and Dairy Princess Angela Adams.

Other members of the Dairy Royalty Committee are Laura Anderson, Tina Henning, and Judy Shupp. Charlene presented the two candidates to perform their skits. Traci presented the "Dairy Fairy," who was really the Dairy Princess. In the skit, the value of milk was described, as well as the Real Seal, which identifies the genuine dairy content of foods. Then, she described the steps in the production of milk, from the cow all the way through to the consumer. This presentation is effective for young school students.

Bobbie Sue Adams had a spin-off of Goldilocks. She appeared at the house of the three bears as a dairy inspector and showed how samples the bears' breakfast compared with foods made with oil, margarine, and butter. Naturally, the butter was the winner. She also showed how milk is important in helping to build better bones, skin, eyesight and other body components and functions. The inspector reminded everyone to be sure to look for "Real" products.

Teams Earn Blue Ribbons At 4-H Skillathon

WEST LAMPETER (Lancaster Co.) — Seventy-eight 4-H'ers participated in the 4-H Livestock Skillathon Tuesday, June 20, here at the West Lampeter Fair Grounds.

4-H'ers from the beef, dairy beef, goat, sheep, and swine clubs of Lancaster County were invited to compete in this event."

The event was organized and ran by Tia Crider, this year's animal science summer assistant of the Lancaster County Extension Office, along with Chet Hughes, Lancaster County's livestock extension agent, and Lori Little, Lancaster County 4-H animal science extension agent. Tia is a student of Penn State University, studying for a bachelor in dairy and animal science and a minor in extension education.

There were nine stations that 4-H'ers had to complete in that tested their knowledge of all five species. The stations included a general 4-H quiz, identification of animal breeds, equipment ID, feed ID, a product-to-body-part match, identification of parts of animals, a quality assurance test, and a general livestock quiz.

The 4-H'ers also had to judge a supreme champion class. They were presented with a group of five animals, which they had to put in order according to which was the most ideal representative of the species. The animals were supplied by local 4-H'ers of each club for the contest.

John Hess supplied a steer. Debbie and Missy Anspach brought a dairy beef. The Ream Family supplied a goat. A lamb was brought by Gary and Tiffany Dean. Kevin Pfautz supplied a swine.

There were two divisions in the contest. The junior division consisted of 14 teams of eight-13-year-olds. There were also 12 senior teams that were 14-18 years of age.

"Team 5, 6, 7," consisting of Katrina Frey of Quarryville, Stephanie Kauffman of Mount Joy, and Johanna Rohrer of Manheim, won the junior division.

The winners of the senior division called themselves the "Hick and the Chicks." This team consisted of Radell Peters of Elizabethtown, Sarah Zurin of Mount Joy, and Monica George of Mount Joy. It was an exciting event and a tough competition.

The night ended with an ice cream social and an awards ceremony.

4-H Friends

The 4-H Friends met at Iona Methodist Church June 3. They discussed a community service project for the ECC home. The club decided that Sept. 9 they will serve ice cream and help with bingo.

Other discussions were about the club's trip to the Baltimore Aquarium. Five members put on a skit to help the other members get excited. Members in the skit were Elizabeth Garrett, Diana Zackey, Meredith Zackey, and Carrie Yiengst. Skit organizer was Rachel Siegel.

The trip will take place Aug. 16 and the bus will leave from the fairgrounds. Club members must sign up by July 15.

To thank the church for letting them use the building, the members and parents pulled weeds in the flowerbeds.

4-H Scholarship Winner

The Monroe County 4-H Program Advisory Committee has announced that Robert Slutter, a 2000 graduate of Pocono Mountain High School and member of 4-H for nine years, has been selected as the recipient of the Monroe County 4-H Scholarship.

Robert is the son of Steve and Barbara Slutter of Blakeslee. Among his 4-H accomplishments, Robert has been president, vice president, and secretary of the Pocono Dairy Club, and president of Monroe County Teen Council.

Robert has represented Monroe County at many local and state events, including county, regional, and state dairy shows.

Robert has been accepted at Delaware Valley College and plans to major in dairy science.

For more information on the Monroe County 4-H Program, contact Sherri L. Abbruzzi at (570) 421-6430.

Lebanon 4-H

The Lebanon County Fair is July 29-Aug. 5. The North Mountain 4-H Club's 32-foot tunnel will be underneath a huge tent.

Barbecue tickets for the fair were sold at the June meeting. If you didn't get any tickets, and would like some, please see Mrs. Bushong before July 15.

The next petting zoo will be Aug. 8 and 15 from 7 p.m.-9 p.m. at Camp Can-Do at Gretna Glen — the camp for kids with cancer.

North Mountain's Roundup Family Fun-Day is Aug. 26 at the Bushong farm. Games will be from 1 p.m.-5 p.m.

Members were advised to bring all their articles and photos for scrapbook to Fun Day. Bring your soda tabs for the Ronald McDonald house to August Roundup Fun Day.

Projects that are still in progress are entomology, old tractor restoration, and outdoor gardening.

The last meeting was conducted at the Bushong's farm. On the inside of the tunnel, kids put their handprint in paint. At the June meeting, people filled out their fair entries and signed up to help at the fair, either in the kitchen or watching the big 32-foot tunnel.

The club's next meeting is Aug. 26 at Mrs. Bushong's house for 4-H roundup.

Have Model Horses? Come Show Them!

Join the Delaware County 4-H Horse and Pony Club for a Model Horse Show open to all youth eight-18 at Ridley Creek State Park July 29 beginning at 10 a.m.

There will be 23 classes divided into three divisions. Winners will receive ribbons for places 1-10 of each class, and each division champion and reserve champion will receive rosettes.

Entry fee is $10 in advance (by July 21) or $15 on the day of the show space permitting. The entry fee includes half of a table for participant display area. Snack bar will be available staffed by the Horse and Pony Club.

Model horse shows are organized much like live horse shows with halter and performance classes, as well as special "other" classes which include mare and foal, dioramas, and customized models.

4-H Summer Assistant

Julia Krout, Blooming Glen, is the Bucks County 4-H summer assistant for Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Julia is a recent graduate of Pennridge High School and will be attending Wilkes University, Wilken-Barre, to study biology.

This summer, Julia will be focusing her time on assisting in the planning of the 4-H Resident Camp and Day Camp, the Public Library 4-H Pet Care Program, BUTTS (Bucks United Towards Tobacco Free Students), summer tobacco, prevention activities, 4-H Fashion Revue, puppet programs, and organizing the 4-H exhibits at the Middletown Grange Fair.

In her free time, Julia participates in 4-H projects, including rabbits, sewing, and air rifle. She is also a member of the American Legion Post 210 Auxiliary and Pennridge Full Gospel Tabernacle Youth Group.

Learn Skills And Have Fun With New Friends

Delaware Township, N.J. 4-H Club seeks new members in grades 4 through 8 who are interested in art, crafts, food and nutrition, photography, and horticulture.

The club participates in most county events such as public presentations, window display contests, holiday workshops, record books, and many other county workshops offered throughout the year. 4-H members' project work is displayed at the Hunterdon County 4-H and Agricultural Fair over the Labor Day weekend.

The club meets in Delaware Township on the first Friday of the month between 6:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. and the third Saturday of the month between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

For more information, call the 4-H Extension Center at (908) 788-1341. Enrollment is limited.

New Jersey 4-H Summer Camp

Registrations are being taken now at the Lindley G. Cook 4-H Camp located in Sussex County, New Jersey.

4-H camp is a sleep-away camp located in Stokes State Forest and managed by the Rutgers Cooperative Extension 4-H Youth Development Program.

Boys and Girls who have completed grades 3 through 10 are invited to come spend a week in the summer with us. The cost for the week is $275, which covers all food and activities.

All sessions begin on Monday morning and end on the following Saturday morning. Camp runs for six consecutive weeks from July 3-Aug. 12.

Special county preference weeks allow campers to come to camp with those from their local area. All youth are invited to attend.

Start Thinking About Summer

The 4-H Youth Development Program of Rutgers cooperative extension offers summer programs for youth of all ages.

Several educational opportunities are available for youth regardless of whether they belong to a 4-H program or not.

Adventures in environmental science is a week long residential program for teens who have graduated from 8th grade through high school. This week is based in Warren County and includes an in-depth study of how humans impact their environment, including waste management alternatives, water quality issues, and forest ecosystems.

The active week includes a hike of the Appalachian Trail, a rock climbing experience, a canoe trip on the Delaware River, and on-site tours. Tuition is $150, and includes all tours, food, and transportation during the week.

The program is offered to all New Jersey residents, and is July 9-14. Please contact Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Somerset County. 4-H Summer Camp is held at the Lindley G. Cook 4-H Center for Outdoor Education in the Stokes State Forest in Sussex County. Six separate weeks are offered starting July 3 and ending Aug. 12, offered to all New Jersey residents in grades 3-8. Fee is $275 per person.

Activities at this sleep away camp includes traditional programs of swimming, fishing, hiking, crafts, nature study and interactive sports and games. Call the 4-H Camp for registration information, 973-948-3550.

Horse, Pony Club

On May 24, the Cumberland County Light Horse and Pony Club brought to order its monthly meeting at the Jones's in Carlisle at 7 p.m.

Club leader Maynard Long gave a presentation on trailer safety. The club members learned how to properly haul and load a horse on the trailer.

The club's float took first in the commercial division in the Cumberland County 250th anniversary parade.

Following the announcement, each member split into project book groups for about 20 minutes.

Berries And Bees Club

A recent meeting was conducted on June 6 after the strawberry roundup. The roundup judge was John T. Smith. These are the first-year people and the prizes they won: first place, Matt Hoover, and Amanada Hoover, and second place, Stephanie Coluccio and Lydia Eddinger.

These are the second and higher year people: grand champion, Chris Schreck; reserve grand champion, Katrina Gore; first place, Rachel Schreck, and Elisha Grams; second place, Sarah Lieb, and Brian Snyder.

The people who were second year or higher brought one quart of strawberries to be judged and auctioned. A strawberry social was conducted with the beekeepers and they also brought items to auction off.

Dimock Community 4-H Club

The Dimock Community 4-H Club met in the basement of the Dimock Community Church.

Ashley Jennings provided a demonstration on the Dale Carnegie course. Members then started their craft projects.

About half the group made cute animals and people out of clay pots. The other half made checker boards complete with checkers.

The club will use some of these in the gardening project at the Harford Fair. The club sang happy birthday to three of its members and then sang a new grace.

Warren County Selects Tiffany Gilkinson

PITTSFIELD (Warren Co.) — The 30th annual Warren County Dairy Princess Pageant was held recently at the 4-H building on the grounds at the Warren County Fair.

Following the competition which involved personal interviews with the judges, presentation of a speech, and the answering of an impromptu question, Tiffany Gilkinson, daughter of Rich and Vicki Gilkinson of Lander was selected 2000-2001 Warren County Dairy Princess. Sarah Lindell, daughter of Trudy Lindell and the late Denny Lindell was selected as the Alternate Warren County Dairy Princess.

Ms. Gilkinson profiled her father as "My Most Important Person" during her speech. She complimented her father for his dairy expertise and for being a positive role model.

Ms. Lindell titled her speech "Why Dairy Farmers Do What They Do," and asked where would we be without them?

This being the 30th anniversary of the local pageant, Jan Harding, executive director of the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess and Promotions Services was an honored guest. Ms. Harding complimented the local committee for its faithful promotion of the dairy industry. The state pageant was organized on a county basis beginning in 1968. Warren County has sent a delegate since 1969.

Recognized as Past Warren County Dairy Princesses in attendance were Edith Miller Lehman, Christina Blystone Wolbert, and Marcy Hunter.

Ruth Barnes Shaw, professor of art history at Jamestown Community College of Olean, was the mistress of ceremonies. Ms. Shaw introduced the panel of judges: Marianne Kent of Sherman, co-chair of the Chautauqua County Dairy Princess Committee, Gerald Bensink of Columbus, a retired county executive director of the A.S.C.S.-U.S.D.A., and Sam Huffman of Randolph, N.Y. dairy nutrition expert for Enterprise Sales of Agway.

Retiring Dairy Maid Kelsi Wilcox was escorted by her father Craig Wilcox of Lander. She was presented with a plaque for two years of faithful service in that position. Ms. Wilcox told the audience that the dairy check-off program is working. She reported a 29 percent increase in consumption of fluid milk. The check-off program amounts to 15 cents per hundred weight of milk shipped by each producer. The local dairy promotion team earned the second level of promotion completing 137 promotions.

Kathy Little, 1999 Warren County Dairy Princess, was escorted by her father, Roy Little of Pittsfield. She thanked the committee for their help and wished her successor a good year.

Door prizes and promotional items were donated by Cable Hollow Greenhouse, COBA/Select Sires, Color Plus by Melinda Johnson, Dairy Farmers of America, Dean Foods, Farmer's Union — Milk Producers Association, John Wiggers & Son, Mosher Milling, Pine-Ton Farm, Rick Meabon Transport, Russell Veterinary Hospital, Ter-Lin's Reflections, Warren-Forest Pomona Grange No. 10, and Zahm and Matson.

Marita and Leah Jespersen helped serve brownie sundaes, milk punch, cheese and crackers, and coffee.

Schuylkill Dairy Princess

PITMAN (Schuylkill Co.) — Recently, the Schuylkill County Dairy Promotion Committee crowned Samantha Snyder the Dairy Princess for 2000. Samantha is the daughter of Steve and Melissa Snyder of Carl-A Holstein Farm in Pitman.

Samantha presented a speech entitled "Osteoporosis: Ages and Stages" and also a skit entitled "Kids Under Construction" which took the audience to a construction site with a new set of tools including the vitamins and minerals found in milk that are essential in building a healthy kid. Parents and children enjoyed and learned about the importance of dairy for good nutrition.

As a senior at Tri-Valley High School, Sam is active as Student Council president and co-editor of the school newspaper. She enjoys sports and plays on the volleyball team and is a cheerleader. Samantha is a member of Zion E.C. Church. After graduating, Samantha plans to attend college and major in biology and education.

The promotion committee presented Sam with a variety of gifts including a gift certificate, luggage, a camera, and a gold necklace. Each of these things will be useful to Sam as she carries out her reign as county dairy princess.

Samantha's father, Steve Snyder, emceed the luncheon at the Schuylkill County Extension Office. The 1999 Schuylkill County Dairy Ambassador Christine Messner attended the event and shared her experiences within the past year. Christine had also served the county as the Dairy Princess in 1998.

Madeline Daubert, the daughter of Ronald Ray and Melanie Daubert of Pine Grove, was named the Li'l Miss for the upcoming year.

Samantha and Madeline will represent the county at a variety of events and programs throughout the year.

You ask 'ou

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

QUESTION — Robert Shaub, 350 W. Railroad Ave., Shrewsbury, PA 17361, needs a top to an old parlor organ, style 100, which was manufactured in York by the Everhart Organ and Piano Co. The organ was purchased by Shaub's grandfather in 1906 for $60 on a note payable in two years at no interest. After being around the country for 94 years, the top was lost, but the bottom part is back in the family. Shaub would like to restore it with a top to match the original one.

QUESTION — G. Sweitzer wants to know what chemicals to use for treating wood damaged/infested by Eastern Subterranean Termites. Also, what chemicals are used outside the house and where can they be purchased?

ANSWER — A Schuylkill County reader wanted to know where to find a heavy duty, air-tire tricycle. Thanks to a Cumberland County reader who writes that the tricycles are available from Paul B. Zimmerman, Inc., 50 Woodcorner Rd., Lititz, PA 17543.

Another writer wrote that the tricycles are available from L. Eugene Wenger near Ephrata, call (717) 733-8658; Weaver's Store, Fivepointville, (717) 445-6791; and Wenger's Discount Grocery, Mifflinburg, (570) 966-5084.

ANSWER — A man from Lititz wanted to know of a person who could knit a sweater for him. Thanks to a reader for suggesting he contact West Earl Woolen Mill, 130 Cocalico Creek Rd., Ephrata. They make and sell knitted woolen sweaters that do not become fuzzy and balled.

ANSWER — Horst Schaper, Moosup, Ct., has a horsedrawn machine gun cart model 1917, which needs some tender, loving care. He wanted to know of sources that would help him know how to repair the cart? Thanks to Vic Fiori, Morrisville, former Pa. National Guard Armorer, for writing that the latest issue of "Small Arms Review" magazine features a very informative article on 1917 machine gun carts. Contact Small Arms Review, published by Moose Lake Publishing, 223 Sugar Hill Rd., Harmony, ME 04942.

Fiori also writes that he believes the cart was designed to be pulled by soldiers, and had extra storage room for wooden ammunition boxes and accouterments. For more information, send a photo or contact Springfield Armory National Historic site in Springfield, Mass.

ANSWER — Brenda Kensinger, Martinsburg, wants to know where purchase macadamia nuts in the area of Martinsburg, Pa. Thanks to Dorothy LeGeyt, East Hartland, Conn., for writing that the nuts are available mail order from Walnut Acres Organic Farms in Penns Creek, PA 17862-0800. She has always found the company's products to be wholesome. However, do not store nutmeats without refrigeration, especially in the summertime.

ANSWER — A. H. requested instructions for success in growning melons, cantaloupes, zucchini, and other vine crops. In the past, healthy-looking plants with fruit suddenly wilted in the center and died off. Thanks to Karen Kinnaine for writing that these plants are offen attacted by squash borers that eat into the parts of the vine that touch the ground near the roots. Dust the bottoms of plants, especially underneath with a powdered insect repellent available from a garden supply store. Kinnaine recommends a pyrethrum-based dust, which is environmentally better than others. She also recommends reading the article about vine plants published in the June 3 issue of this paper on page B7.

Money 'Baggage' Personalities Affect Spending, Saving Decisions

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — Financial decisions, such as spending and saving, are not just the result of having a certain amount of income.

On the contrary, they are largely driven by people's feelings about money and childhood experiences and influences. "Emotional" factors, such as person's "money personality," can have as much of an influence, or more, than "financial" factors such as an amount or type of assets and income.

Susan Zimmerman, author of "The Money Rascals," likens a person's financial belief system to an iceberg. Just as the crew of the Titanic could see only the tip of the iceberg with which it collided, only part of the root causes people's "money behavior" is usually "visible." In other words, you may need to "dig deep" to find out what really causes people to spend or save money.

Children develop beliefs about money through their family or origin and from the U.S. culture at large (for example, advertisements). They may tithe the same amount to their church, for example, or keep records in the same manner their parents did. Even if a child's money behavior is the exact opposite of their parents (for example, disorganized parents and organized child), the parents still had an influence.

To understand some of the influences on your money beliefs, answer the following questions:

- How did the people who raised you handle money?
- Do you have any specific childhood memories about money that stand out?
- How were family conflicts about money resolved?
- In what ways is your money management style the same or different than family members?
- What commercials or advertisements do you recall as being most influential?

Zimmerman classifies people into eight distinct belief systems ranging from "super spenders" to "super savers." People often have "pieces" of several money personalities but usually one dominant style that drives their financial behavior. The eight money styles are as follows:

- People who make flashy purchases to impress others ("image" spenders).
- People who make rash and impulsive financial decisions and hate planning and budgets.
- People with conflicting money beliefs who procrastinate so as not to have to make decisions.
- People who are "too busy" and avoid all types of financial activities (balancing checkbook).
- People who live a very modest lifestyle and display their virtue by rejecting luxuries.
- People who feel helpless, fearful, or insecure about money and worry a lot about their finances.
- People who are security conscious and save steadily in slow-growth cash assets.
- People who invest steadily and assume risks to potentially achieve a high rate of return.

Once a person understands the origins of his or her money beliefs and dominant personality trait, it is often easier to change future behavior (increase savings). Another driving force that is important to understand is a person's "money baggage," which are feelings and beliefs, however false or irrational, which affect financial behavior. One example of "financial baggage" is that some people believe that their bank account or "name brand" possessions determine their self worth.

In summary, emotional aspects of spending and saving money are often extremely complicated. They are also very essential to getting your financial house in order. What is your dominant money personality, childhood money influences, and "financial baggage"? Insights into these emotional aspects of money can be a very important resource for taking charge of your financial future.

Milk Mustache Mobile Is On The 'Moo-ve'

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The Milk Mustache Mobile is on the "moo-ve" once again and will be rolling into southeast Pennsylvania July 19-21.

Sponsored by America's dairy farmers and milk processors, the Milk Mustache Mobile travels across the country to educate consumers of all ages on the importance of drinking milk and physical activity in maintaining a healthy lifestyle.

This year, the "Get Moo-ving with Milk Tour" is cosponsored by ESPN and includes several interactive activities. The focus is on fitness and how milk and dairy products can be a part of your fitness plan.

"Milk is a natural power drink," said Mary Beth Sodus, a registered dietitian with the American Dairy Association/ Dairy Council Middle Atlantic. "It contains nine essential nutrients — from protein to potassium that can help put muscle back into your workout."

Milk fans across Pennsylvania can bone up on fitness and nutrition during the following Milk Mustache Mobile events: July 19 — Harrisburg Senators Game at City Island, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m.; July 20 — Martin's Country Market in Ephrata, from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.; and July 21 — the Vellodrome in Trexlertown, from 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

During these events, free personal fitness tests will be offered to assess strength, flexibility and body composition. Participants also will have the opportunity to speak with a registered dietitian from ADA/DC Middle Atlantic and other health and fitness experts.

Along with testing athletic skills during the sports challenge, participants can put on their best milk mustache and enter a contest to star in their own Milk Mustache advertisement to be featured in ESPN The Magazine. One national winner will be selected at the conclusion of the "Get Moo-ving with Milk Tour."

Gov. Ridge Asks Pennsylvania, 'got milk?'

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Gov. Tom Ridge and his mother have teamed up with the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program and are asking Pennsylvanians if they've "got milk?"

Building on the success of the celebrity milk mustache campaign, PDPP enlisted the help of a notable statewide public figure to extend milk promotion at the local level for June Dairy Month. Gov. Ridge debuted in 1999 as the first statewide public official to be featured in the farmer-funded "got milk?" advertising campaign, which was sponsored by PDPP.

"My mom and I are glad to have this opportunity to encourage Pennsylvanians to drink milk — it's good for you and it tastes good too," Gov. Ridge said. "We hope the billboards remind other parents and children that drinking your milk can give you the healthy body and strong bones to take you where you want to go!" Gov. Ridge also noted that milk is Pennsylvania's official state beverage and milk production is a big part of the state's economy.

To help enhance the image of milk and support Pennsylvania's dairy industry, the governor and his mother, Laura Ridge, are pictured wearing milk mustaches and clinking glasses of milk as they toast Pennsylvania's dairy industry. Gov. Ridge is seated on the arm of a chair beside his mother. The caption reads, "Mom always said I'd go far if I drank my milk. Got milk? "

Avoiding Spray Drift Makes Neighbors, Budget Happy

COLUMBUS, Ohio — From any standpoint, spray drift is nothing more than a big headache. When pesticide spray drifts to someone else's property, it can make neighbors mad and result in food safety and environmental problems.

But there are also economic reasons to avoid spray drift, said agricultural engineer Erdal Ozkan, Ohio State University. Spray drift wastes chemicals, which can chew up a farmer's expense account, an important thing to remember as crop prices keep sinking, he said.

Here are five ways spray drift can affect a farmer's budget:

- Inefficient use of application equipment and applicator's time.
- Potential under-application of chemicals and ineffective pest control that all require more applications, can reduce yield, or increase production costs.
- Potential chemical overuse when the applicator intentionally overapplies to compensate for drift losses in order to achieve a desired level of control.
- Costly lawsuits if drift damages sensitive crops in nearby fields.
- Mandatory crop destruction if residues contaminate foodstuffs.

June could almost be called "Spray Drift Month" in Ohio and Indiana. Typically windy conditions stir up herbicides as farmers rush to make burndown and post-emergence treatments, Ozkan said.

In fact, the Ohio Department of Agriculture (ODA) typically receives most spray drift complaints in May or June each year. In the past two years from one-fifth to nearly one-quarter of all annual complaints received by ODA were concerned with spray drift.

The key element in reducing drift potential is operator's knowledge, Ozkan said. Drift is, above all, a human problem, not purely a technical issue, he said. A farmer's attitude as indicated by care and skill go a long way toward reducing drift.

"The bad news is that spray drift occurs wherever liquid sprays are applied," Ozkan said. "The good news is that although complete elimination of spray drift is impossible, problems can be reduced to a minimum."

Wind is a major factor, but other less-obvious weather factors also influence drift, Ozkan said. These are low relative humidity and high ambient temperatures, he said.

Spray droplet size can also influence drift, Ozkan said. OSU research shows that a high volume of small droplets relative to larger ones increases drift potential. Droplet size can be easily adjusted by carefully selecting nozzles with appropriate characteristics for the product being sprayed, or by spraying at a lower pressure.

On the research front, scientists at Ohio State's Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center at Wooster have developed a prototype sprayer that promises to keep spray drift in check while using half the amount of pesticides to boot.

The "Spray-less" double nozzle sprayer is designed to be retrofitted to hydraulic sprayers. One nozzle shoots a coarse water spray; the other shoots a fine pesticide spray. The big drops carry the small drops into the plant canopy, where the small drops stick and do most of the work. Without the big drops, most of the small ones would drift away.

Farmers can check out OARDC's research results at this World Wide Web site: http://www.oardc.ohio-state.edu/lpcat/Dblenozl.htm. And they don't have to wait too long to see the real thing. The first big push to demonstrate the sprayer will be the 2000 OSU Farm Science Review, Sept. 19-21 near London, Ohio.

Other major factors influencing drift are using proper procedures for a piece of spraying equipment and following application techniques, Ozkan said.

Montgomery County Agricultural Fair Catalogs Available

Taken a good photo? Made a nice quilt? Have a pet rabbit? Why not enter them in the fair?

The premium catalog, which is a reference book for anyone interested in exhibiting, for the 2000 Montgomery County Agricultural Fair in Gaithersburg, Md., is available from the fair office, any Montgomery County Public Library, and the Montgomery County Conference and Visitors Bureau.

The annual exposition, billed as Maryland's largest county fair, will be Friday, Aug. 11 through Saturday, Aug. 19.

The fair features 2000 as "The Year of the Horse" and "The Year of the Home Arts" as the highlighted outdoor and indoor departments. Many special events have been planned to spotlight these two exhibit areas. A miniature horse show featuring horses shorter than 38 inches and a "Babies in the New Millennium" community baby shower have been planned.

"Continuing a "featured breed" program that results in more prize money for exhibitors, this year's features are the Guernsey and Milking Shorthorn breeds in the dairy department, the Shorthorn breed in the beef department, the Montadale breed in the sheep department, and the Nubian breed in the goat department.

The beef department again offers a nationally sanctioned Texas Longhorn Show Saturday, Aug. 19, at 2 p.m. and is looking forward to the addition of an American Shorthorn Association sanctioned Invitational PACE (Point Accumulation Event) Show Wednesday, Aug. 16, at 9 a.m.

General entry registration for animal exhibits is due July 10. Indoor 4-H and open class photography exhibit entries are due July 20. Advance registration for all other departments is not required. Entries for those departments will be received Thursday, Aug. 10 and Friday, Aug. 11. Consult the catalog for specific times and locations of specific departments.

For more information, call the fair office at (301) 926-3100, ext. 212. Requests can also be faxed to (301) 926-1532. Visit the fair's website at www.mcagfair.com for general fair information.

POURED SOLID CONCRETE

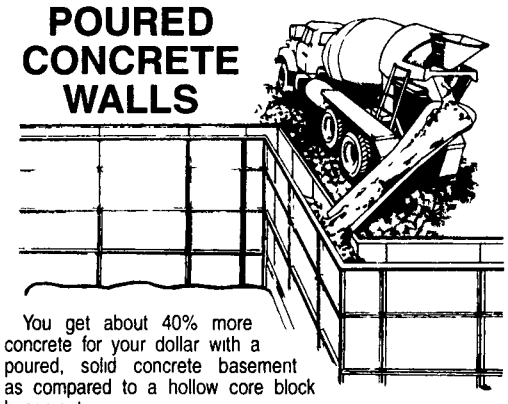
START WITH THE BEST! POURED CONCRETE WALLS



You get about 40% more concrete for your dollar with a poured, solid concrete basement as compared to a hollow core block basement

A poured solid concrete basement weighs about 50 lbs more per cubic foot! Far denser What's more, poured solid concrete walls are monolithic there are no joints!

This is why laboratory tests show poured, solid concrete basements have many times the flexural and compressive strength to withstand the side and down pressures caused by earth, wind, water and building loads and the material density to resist water penetration

Best of all, thanks to modern and efficient construction techniques, poured, solid concrete basements are competitively priced

Solid Concrete For:

- Manure Pit Walls
- Hog House Walls
- Barnyard Walls
- Chicken House Walls
- Retaining Walls
- House Foundation Walls
- Silage Pit Walls
- Cistern Walls
- Concrete Decks
- Concrete Pit Tops

STALEY ESTATE SALE

Seven saxophones sounded off the auction block at a Mount Joy sale last Thursday and Saturday.

Probst Family Auction Services of Willow Street conducted the sale of instruments, real estate and other items for the estate of Benjamin H. Staley.

The real estate sold was rather unusual for Lancaster County: a geodesic dome-style two-story home with three bedrooms, a three-car garage and a detached block garage. Roberto and Leticia Garcia of Mount Joy purchased the property, including a 1.2 acre lot, for $79,200.

From Staley's saxophone collection, Probst auctioned off a C.G. Conn vintage "Naked Lady" saxophone, $850; a second C.G. Conn saxophone, $825; a Great Lakes baritone saxophone dated 1914, $600; a Selmer Co. signet saxophone, $400; an H.N. White Co. "The King" saxophone, $175; a York saxophone, $160; and a collegiate saxophone made by the Holton Co., $140.

Two automobiles were auctioned off. A rare Kaiser Frazer "Henry J" two-door sedan attracted bidders from as far as Minnesota and sold for $8,900. A 1995 Mercury Sable also sold for $4,700.

Outdoor equipment sold included a Farmall tractor, 41,100; a Murray 18-horsepower riding mower, $525; a set of dice-engraved hubcaps, $190; and a Central Tractor power washer, $140.

Among furniture items available were a nine-piece modern dining room suite, $400; a popular dovetail blanket chest, $250; a slate-top pool table, $150; an Emperor grandfather's clock, $210; a Victorian-style marble-top jardiniere stand, $100; and a painted oak medicine cabinet, $55.

ATTENTION SOYBEAN GROWERS:

The facts about herbicides and

Roundup Ready® SOYBEANS

Many chemical companies are spending huge amounts of money trying to convince you to spend up to $20/acre on unnecessary residuals or tank mixes for Roundup Ready Soybeans. Please ask yourself why....

The facts about Roundup Ultra alone:

- it kills more weeds, more effectively
- Roundup Ultra kills perennials
- it doesn't restrict your crop rotations
- it doesn't stunt or burn your beans
- it saves you money!!!

Roundup® ULTRA

Why are some companies desperately trying to sell you chemicals you don't need?

It's all you need. Why spend more?

Recommendations for Using Roundup Ultra in Roundup Ready® Soybeans

Roundup® TVP REWARDS MONSANTO

1. Start clean!
- ALWAYS use a burndown in full season soybeans.
- In double crop, burndown if needed.

2. Plant in as narrow a row as possible.
- The faster the crop canopy the better!

3. Apply 1 quart/acre Roundup Ultra as close to crop canopy closure as is practical.
- Weeds are usually 4-8" tall and it is 3-5 weeks after planting.
- If weeds are greater than 8", use 1-5 qts.
- Use 1.5-2 qts/A for perennial weeds.
- Apply a second application of Roundup Ultra if needed for later germinating weeds.

For more information, contact your local dealer or your Monsanto rep, visit www.farmsource.com, or call 1-800-ROUNDUP.

Always read and follow label directions. Roundup® brand herbicides will kill plants that do not contain the Roundup Ready® gene. See Monsanto Technology Use Guide for recommended agronomic practices and specific Roundup TVP™ Rewards program requirements and eligibility. Roundup Ready® soybean seed sold by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. qualifies for the Premium Performance Plan and Replant Burndown Refund portions of Roundup TVP™ Rewards upon grower registration for Roundup TVP™ Rewards benefits. YieldGard® corn seed sold by Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. and NK® brand seed sold by Novartis Seeds, Inc. does not qualify for Roundup TVP™ Rewards. BUSINESS ❖ NEWS

Mack Expands Engine Lineup Beyond Trucking

ALLENTOWN (Lehigh Co.) — Mack Trucks, Inc. has created a new business unit — MackPower™ — that will manufacture, market, and service a lineup of Mack diesel engines for a variety of commercial, industrial, and marine applications.

Initial product offerings will include the Mack® E7 mechanical design engine, and the popular Mack E7 E-Tech™ engine, which is a six-cylinder, 12-liter model featuring an electronic pump-in-line injection system.

Both engines offer excellent power-to-weight ratios, proven durability and reliability, good fuel economy and ease-of-service. Mack's robust E9 engine, which is a 16-liter V8 design, will be available later in the year.

Initial power rating on the marine side (which have been designated MP ME7 engines) will range from 350-650 horsepower. Commercial and industrial engines (designated MP IE7) will range from 350-500 horsepower. Marine engines include both raw water-cooled and keel-cooled models.

"The Mack engine is a well-known, well-respected product that has proven its mettle for decades," said Scott Kress, Mack vice president — business development, and general manager of the MackPower business unit. "With a company-wide commitment to this new venture, we fully expect to earn a like reputation at MackPower. We are planning a very aggressive marketing campaign with a full slate of trade show appearances in a variety of niche markets already scheduled."

Kress added that Mack is developing a distribution network that will be dedicated specifically to the commercial, industrial, and marine markets. These locations will consist of new dealerships, as well as established dealerships that are anxious to add MackPower products to complement their existing product offerings. Mack is also offering financing assistance.

The engines will be manufactured at the Mack Powertrain Operations in Hagerstown, Md., where engineers and product development specialists for each new market have been assigned.

Fulton Bank Hosts Beef Roast

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Fulton and Lebanon Valley Farmers Bank hosted its annual Elizabethtown Beef Roast here at the fairgrounds last week.

Richard J. Ashby Jr., president and chief operating officer of Fulton Bank, spoke about how agribusiness is Lancaster County's "largest business," he said, and the banks have a large stake in it.

Blenders Mix Hay, Other Ingredients

MOHNTON (Lancaster Co.) — I.H. Rissler Mfg. has introduced the Hay Tiger, a new line of heavy duty stationary forage blenders.

Designed for the farmer who wants a total mixed ration, the blenders have the ability to mix most kinds of hay from small square bales with other ingredients.

Highlights of these redesigned mixers include less moving parts, the ability to gently mix rations that contain no hay, most mixing and drive components are 30 percent to 50 percent heavier, and sizes from 120 to 600 cubic feet.

USDA To Distribute Payments To Oilseed Producers

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Farmers Union (NFU) recently welcomed the announcement from USDA that $462 million in payments to oilseed farmers would soon be distributed under the terms of the economic assistance package passed last year by Congress.

"Even though this announcement does not address the overlying problems of current agriculture policy, we are thankful that the USDA has worked out the administration of these long-awaited payments to oilseed growers," said NFU President Leland Swenson.

"Producers have suffered in recent years from falling prices and the failure of the 1996 FAIR Act to provide a sufficient safety net for the producers of many crops, including oilseeds."

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman announced that 601,000 oilseed farmers in 48 states will begin getting payments totaling about $462 million this week. Producers who planted soybeans, sunflowers, flaxseed, canola, rapeseed, safflower seed, mustard, and crambe in 1999 are eligible for the payments.

Payments are calculated based on the five-year average price for each oilseed, after dropping the high and low years, and are adjusted to keep spending within the authorized level. Payment acres are based on the highest of a producer's planted acres in 1997 or 1998. For new oilseed producers, the payment acres are based on 1999 plantings. Producers who have not signed up may file a late application by June 22, 2000.

"The distribution of this final element of the 1999 emergency farm assistance program, along with the $7.1 billion of assistance to farmers and ranchers recently approved by Congress for the 2000 production year, will help offset producer income losses associated with continued depression-era commodity prices," said Swenson.

"We are disappointed however, that Congress did not take the available opportunity this year to establish a more equitable, counter-cyclical farm program to enhance future producer income opportunities while reducing the production and marketing distortions created by the Freedom to Farm Act."

Lebanon Retailers Not Alone In Struggles To Maintain Market Dominance

FONTANA (Lebanon Co.) — Many retailers are downsizing or restructuring because of the demands of competition. Others just give up and close their doors.

In today's retail economy, the larger stores are flexing muscles — perpetuating the myth that big is better — better merchandise and better prices.

Umbergers of Fontana is ready to debunk that myth. The owners recently completed months of local market research and have taken steps to show that competition is alive and well in the Lebanon Valley.

For instance, they conducted an in-store contest called Priced Right Savings. The winners of those prizes are K. Murray Leisure, MD, of Annville, first prize $200 Umberger's gift certificate; Glen A. Miller of Jonestown, second prize $100 Umberger's gift certificate; and the third prize recipient, Doug Marsteller of Palmyra, a $50 Umberger's gift certificate.

According to Donald H. Umberger of Umbergers, the distributor he used was purchased by a larger company.

"Orgill, one of the largest distributors in the world, purchased Frederick, our local distributor, and became our supplier," said Umberger. "It was Orgill who presented us with the Program, 'Priced Right Everyday.' The concept of Priced Right Everyday is that customers never have to wait for a sale."

The next step required the partners of Umbergers of Fontana — Don, his son Donald M. and Nevin Hoover — to dedicate themselves to months of research and gathering of information.

"We researched the competition, examined their prices, and structured our pricing policies partly on this research and partly on the buying power of Orgill itself," said Nevin Hoover. "Orgill has offices in 40 states and 40 countries throughout the world. Their method of volume purchasing and pricing is identical to national chain stores. The products are brand name and quality. We benefit, our customers benefit, Orgill benefits. It is truly a win-win situation."

In addition to the competitive pricing, the manpower is product knowledgeable and shares that knowledge with every customer. All three agreed that their workers are dedicated to the customer, and in many cases, know the customer by name as soon as they enter the door. In fact, they know the purchase history and, with updated product training, keeps each customer abreast of product introductions and updates.

The final step was the promotion to announce to the local market that Umbergers has the same leading edge as bigger stores.

"Orgill supplied us with Priced Right logos, indoor and out door signage, radio and televisions ads that reinforce the message of Priced Right Everyday," said Donald M. Umberger. "The outdoor lighted sign was finally added in May to adorn the entrance to our store so the transition is now complete.

Manage Endophyte-Infected Tall Fescue Pastures

Dave Hartman
Extension Agent Forages

Tall fescue is a plant species that pasture managers both praise and curse. If you are in a situation where your animals are refusing to eat it in the late spring or summer, you probably hate the stuff.

If you have it incorporated into a system where you can stockpile it in the fall and graze it in late fall or winter, your animals probably love it and you save serious dollars in winter feeding costs. In this scenario, you probably praise the stuff.

Just a little trivia to bring you up to speed on tall fescue.

In the early 1930s, Dr. E.N. Fergus of the University of Kentucky collected seeds of tall fescue plants and eventually developed the variety known as Kentucky 31. No doubt if you have pasture or hay or have seeded any conservation structures (terraces or waterways) on your farm, you have heard of Kentucky 31 tall fescue. It is the predominant variety on most of the fescue acreage in the U.S.

Over the succeeding years it became well documented that Kentucky 31 tall fescue caused a variety of animal health problems. Poor milk production, poor reproduction, lameness, higher respiration rates, elevated body temperatures, lower heat tolerance, poor weight gains, abnormal fat deposits, foaling problems, and the loss of the tips of the ears or tails are some of the problems caused by tall fescue.

It wasn't until the 1970s when researchers finally cracked the case and figured out why all these ugly problems were afflicting animals on tall fescue. It was discovered that a fungal endophyte Acremonium coenophialum was the basic cause of the problems. Endophyte simply means a fungus that lives within the plant. This is what ecologists refer to as a symbiotic relationship. Both plant and fungus are mutually benefited by the association.

Although we are not part of the "fescue belt," which runs through part of the U.S. to the south of us, we still have our share of headaches with tall fescue. And, although there are plenty of low endophyte or no endophyte tall fescue varieties available these days, we still see rejection problems with tall fescue. If you have it on your farm, the question becomes "how can I manage pasture which is predominantly tall fescue?"

First let's look at the bigger picture. Are we working with dairy cattle, beef cattle, horses, or small ruminants? Do we want to make hay, stockpile pasture, or only graze? Are the animals sick or are they just not eating the fescue? How much pasture is affected — most of it or just a small percentage? Is the tall fescue actually infected with endophyte, and if so, at what level? (It can range from 0-100 percent infection) All of these questions can help determine how to manage tall fescue.

If you are working with dairy cattle or horses and having problems with tall fescue rejection in your pasture, it may pay to renovate to get rid of it. Having dairy cattle not maximizing forage intake while on pasture will cost you money. Improving the stand with more palatable species in this case would most likely pay. If you have horses and run any bred mares, grazing tall fescue that is not endophyte-free is a risky proposition. At the very least you should remove bred mares from the pasture during the last one-third of pregnancy. this is especially important during July and August. Having the tall fescue plants tested to gauge the level of infection may be well worth the money.

If you have beef cattle, sheep, or goats the considerations are somewhat different. You may want to consider options to work with the fescue unless the level of infection is high. High infection would be land that is more than 50 percent fescue and the fescue is more than 50 percent infected with endophyte. In this case, you may want to renovate. Otherwise, there are some things you can do to work with the fescue.

Establishing more legumes (alfalfa, clovers, trefoil) has been shown to reduce problems with tall fescue. Herbicides or grazing can be used for suppression to reduce cover and competition to make interseeding legumes more successful. No-till drilling and frost-seeding are two common methods used to get more legume into the stand.

Aim to get a minimum of 40 percent legume. Removing cattle and sheep from fescue pastures during peak breeding times may help reproductive efficiency. Another option with a beef or small ruminant system may be to try to classify pasture cells into different levels of tall fescue incidence. The fields with the highest amounts of fescue could be grazed early, then baled later in the spring, baled again in mid-summer, then stockpiled during late summer and fall for later grazing.

Try to get the early cutting in boot stage. Tall fescue hay made after seedhead emergence can depress animal performance. Following this strategy will depend on the number of acres of land you have available for grazing.

Certainly one thing you don't want to do if you are trying to control tall fescue is let it go to seed. This is its primary means of spreading. Keep it vegetative by mowing or grazing.

If you plant any tall fescue, use a variety classified-as endophyte-free. Talk to seed company representatives and other farmers. There are many endophyte-free varieties available, but they are not all the same. Some graziers experience large amounts of rejection with some endophyte-free varieties. Other graziers may be able to tell you if their animals find a particular variety palatable. There may be other differences as well that will impact your decision.

There is ongoing research being done with tall fescue. Its positive attributes and widespread adaption in parts of the country make it a very important forage species despite its problems. In fact, a new variety is being studied that is endophyte infected but the endophyte does not produce the toxins that affect animal health and productivity.

If you have tall fescue, it may be worthwhile to test some samples to see if indeed it is infected, and if it is infected, what is the percentage. Knowing the infection level can affect how you manage it. As noted above, higher levels of infection may warrant renovation.

If you need help identifying tall fescue, developing a tall fescue management plan or eradication plan, sampling plants for testing, or interpreting the results, contact the Penn State extension office nearest you and find out who is responsible for forage agronomy in your area. This agent will be able to give you guidance in managing tall fescue.

Dairy Farmers,
Is a high SCC a problem with a few cows in your herd?

Boost your cows immune system with IMPRO Whey Blend and MPV Dairy Boost

All natural products with no milk loss. Use it on the 5-10 Highest SCC cows on your DHIA report sheet.

Cost per cow for a 30 day supply is $27.00

Help yourself to some of those Milk Quality bonus dollars, and improve the health of your herd.

...a Boom Sprayer for multi-crop produce farmer that is affordable and will do the job from sweet corn to melon crops.

With features like...
- 24 ft one-side boom that allows for 50 ft. coverage between drive rows.
- Easy boom height adjustment from 2 ft. to 7 1/2 ft. for sweet corn.
- Hydraulic leveling on the go allows uniform boom height from the crop.
- 280 PSI, 28 GPM 3 diaphragm pump with power shaft for quick hookup.
- Adjustable wheel spacing and tongue height.
- NEW A-spring loaded hydraulic shock to control boom bounce.

Available with 300 or 400 Gallon Tanks

With the high cost of chemicals, the right sprayer is needed

PURCHASE GREAT GEHL EQUIPMENT AND WE'LL DONATE $100 TO FFA IN YOUR NAME!

Give tomorrow's crop a head start.

BUY INTO A BETTER FUTURE WITH GEHL AND FFA!

A little help goes a long way. That's why Gehl is donating to the FFA chapter of your choice. Simply purchase a new Gehl ag product* between July 2, and Sept. 30, 2000 and we will donate $100 in your name!

As an ongoing sponsor of the FFA Forage Proficiency Award, Gehl realizes the importance of investing in the future of agriculture. And that's why Gehl is the right choice for today's (and tomorrow's) farming operation. But don't wait! Stop in soon for complete program details.

We are proud to support FFA

Augers
Hydraulically driven augers provide fast, economical digging. With auger bits available from 6-inch to 36-inch diameters, these augers give you the ability to handle a multitude of tasks. Normal digging depth is 48 inches. Optional 14- and 24-inch extensions available. A 30-inch tree/shrub auger is also available.

Steel Tracks
For sand, snow or mud, Gehl steel tire tracks get you through the toughest weather and working conditions to get the job done. A patented self-cleaning design keeps mud, ice, rocks and other debris from wedging in the tracks.

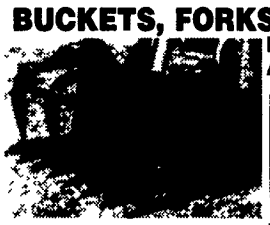
BUCKETS, FORKS AND GRAPPLES



Industrial Grapple/Bucket And Utility Grapple/Fork

Power Landscape Rake
The perfect tool for landscape contractors With a unique rake action, these units collect rocks and surface debris, leaving soil in a loose, level condition. They remove rocks, sticks and metal from the ground surface, leaving you with several inches of loose, relatively debris-free soil. Their unique action will also dethatch tired turf, leaving the surface ready to re-seed.

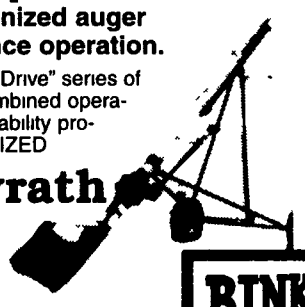
Your Source For Quality Grain Handling Equipment

A premium quality galvanized auger designed for low maintenance operation.

Mayrath introduces the all new "InLine Drive" series of portable grain augers Mayrath has combined operational efficiency with long term dependability providing you with a high quality, GALVANIZED auger at a very affordable price The revolutionary "InLine Drive" system minimizes the number of moving parts . greatly reducing costly downtime and maintenance in the future.



DIAMETER	CAPACITY	LENGTHS
8"	3200 BPH	32', 42', 52', 62', 72'
10"	4500 BPH	32', 42', 52', 62', 72'

The unique "InLine Drive" design features an internally mounted gearbox inside of an expanded, bell shaped tube housing. Auger flighting is positioned to allow a high volume of unrestricted grain flow around the internal gearbox. A new intake design utilizes double flighting and a cupped intake guard to offer a high capacity, complete cleanout operation A specially engineered hopper bolts directly to top of the intake guard, further enhancing the augers capacity.

The InLine Drive
Unique in design, high in efficiency

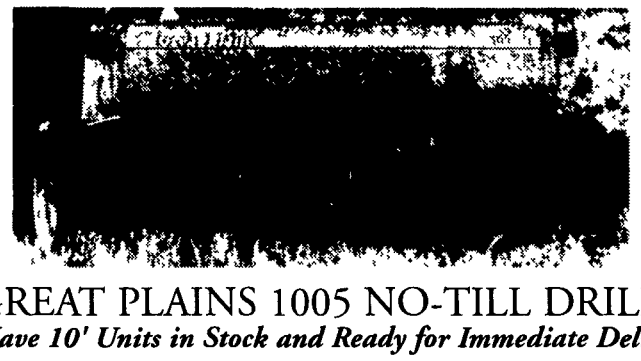
Great Plains

How Much You Reap Depends on How Well You Sow



GREAT PLAINS 1005 NO-TILL DRILL

We Have 10' Units in Stock and Ready for Immediate Delivery.

Great Plains "Turbo" Coulters are a must in no-till conditions. They cut through the heaviest residue, clearing a path for the opener. The turbo coulter also puts "Tilth" into cold compacted soil helping to warm it and giving roots plenty of room to grow. Great Plains Exclusive turbo coulter penetrates better than conventional coulters.

KRAUSE

5250 PRO-SYSTEM NO-TILL GRAIN DRILLS

- Precision Residue Openers
- Staggered Rows
- 3" x 13" Press Wheels
- 3/4" Fluted N/T Coulters
- Small Grass Seed Attachment
- Acre Meter
- Available in 13' or 15'
- Equipped With Hoober's Front Wheel Drive For Optimum Weight Transfer And Seed Depth Control

The Krause 5250 PRO-System no-till drill is ideal for either no-till or conventional planting. Featuring the patented Precision Residue Opener, the Krause 5250 no-till drill delivers the most accurate seed depth control available. That's because the Krause 5250 no-till drill has a 3"x13" depth gauging wheel in front of a double-disc opener, followed by an adjustable depth press wheel. The result? Unmatched Seed depth control.

GEHL®

BETTER NUTRITION & PEAK FORAGE HARVESTING CAPACITY!

6 & 7 Ft. Hay Pickup Attachment Available

Increase Production & Profits with a Gehl Crop Processor™

Better feed starts with better harvesting. That's what you get with a Gehl crop processing forage harvester. First to put crop-processing rolls in a pull-type forage harvester, Gehl remains the leader with the original Model 1275 and the all-new Model 1075.

GEHL

- HIGH-SPEED GROOVED ROLLS crack kernels, break-up the cob and shred stalk material
- BENEFITS include increased milk production and improved herd health
- MODEL 1275 is today's top capacity pull type forage harvester, handling up to 300 PTO horsepower
- NEW MODEL 1075 handles up to 225 PTO horsepower
- EXCLUSIVE AUTOMAX™ LOAD MANAGEMENTS SYSTEM helps boost capacity

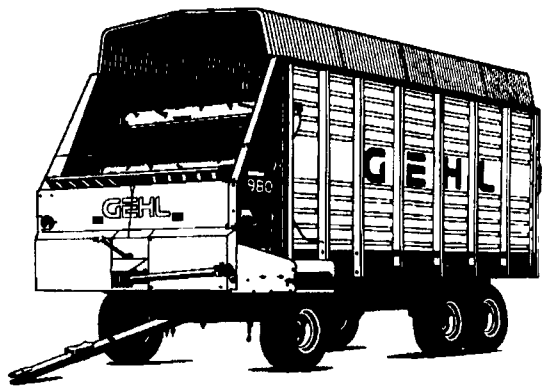
YOUR BEST FORAGE BOX VALUE



Gehl's new BU980 Self-unloading forage box has been redesigned for improved performance and durability Features include:

- True variable-speed drive for infinite unloading speeds.
- Single lever control.
- Improved beater design.
- Stronger drive chain and reinforced roof.
- Standard highway light package.
- Optional folding 18-inch conveyor extension.

Glickman Names Members, Alternates To American Egg Board

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman has appointed nine members and nine alternates to the American Egg Board for the 2000-2001 term.

All members and alternates will serve two-year terms.

The board administers an egg research and promotion program authorized by the Egg Research and Consumer Information Act of 1974.

The American Egg Board is composed of 18 members and 18 alternates representing six regions. The secretary of agriculture selects appointees from egg producers nominated by organizations representing the egg industry.

Reappointed members and alternates, by region, are:

• North Atlantic states - Jerry Kil, Franklin, Conn., member; Kurt H. Kreher, Clarence, N.Y., alternate.

• East North Central states - Joseph J. Maust, Pigeon, Mich., member and Gregory S. Herbruck, Saranac, Mich., alternate.

• West North Central states - Beth S. Schnell, Wayzata, Minn., member, and Colleen B. Anderson, Sioux Rapids, Iowa, alternate.

• South Central states - Adolphus B. Baker, Jackson, Miss., member; Monty K. Henderson, Springdale, Ark., member; and V. Wayne Mooney, Dallas, Texas, alternate.

• Western states - John E. Demler, San Jacinto, Calif., member; Arnold J. Riebli, Petaluma, Calif., member; and James S. West, Modesto, Calif., alternate.

Newly appointed alternates, by region, are:

• South Central states - Vincent J. Reina, Sr., Boling, Texas.

• Western states - Sharon M. Hohberg, Chino, Calif.

The program is funded entirely by a 10-cent per 30-dozen case assessment on eggs marketed by producers with flocks of more than 75,000 hens. USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, an agency of the marketing and regulatory programs mission area, has oversight responsibility for board operations.

Auction To Benefit Youth Exchange Fund

SUMMIT STATION (Schuylkill Co.) — A blue ribbon cake and pie auction will be Monday, August 7, at the Schuylkill County Fair at 8:30 p.m. to benefit the Youth Exchange Fund.

Just before the Mudflaps entertain fair goers, the 4-H and FFA members will work with auctioneer Robert Derfler to sell these delicacies to the highest bidder.

All auction proceeds will go directly into the 4-H Youth Exchange Fund. The names of the proud bakers of the pies and cakes will be announced and the buyers will be recognized in the fair premium book. Everyone is welcome to come and join the fun of an old-fashioned auction.

One of the fair's main objectives is to educate the public about agriculture and our rural way of life. "The pie and cake auction, as well as the 4-H and FFA livestock auction, give the general public a taste of our agricultural heritage, and at the same time benefits our ag-oriented youth organizations, 4-H, and FFA," said Robert Evanchalk, livestock chairman and 4-H leader.

Of course, one piece of the cake and pie will be missing because a judge will have used a slice for the most important part of the judging, the taste test. This slice will also be on display along with the blue ribbon in the appropriate exhibit building.

For more information, call 570-754-FAIR.

Wholesale Greenhouse Production, Marketing Meeting July 27

NORTHUMBERLAND (Northumberland Co.) — Producers and beginning farmers who would like to learn about establishing a greenhouse business and marketing opportunities are invited to attend a Pennsylvania Farm Link- sponsored meeting at Mertz Greenhouses July 27 at 6:30 p.m.

Twenty greenhouses produce 180,000 pounds of tomatoes, 27,000 potted geraniums, and 4,500 hanging baskets. The meeting will take place at the greenhouse and include a presentation by current owner, Michael McPhearson, and former owner, Boyd Mertz, on how they each got started in the greenhouse business, current production strategies and marketing efforts, and the changing demands of the industry.

Information on integrated pest management (IPM) in greenhouse production and resource information will also be provided. To complete the evening, Farm Link will offer information on their services and a preview of upcoming activities and events.

Mertz greenhouses are located three miles north of Northumberland on Rt. 147 on the right-hand side. The large 350-foot greenhouse is visible from the road.

Contact Pennsylvania Farm Link at 717-664-7077 by July 25 to let them know of your planned attendance and for additional information on other marketing events.

Cecil County Fair 4-H Livestock Sale July 28

ELKTON, Md. — Friday, July 28 at 6:15 p.m. is the 21st Annual Cecil County Fair 4-H Livestock Auction.

This is your opportunity to support local 4-H youth and to purchase some of Cecil County's finest hand-raised beef, pork, and lamb.

The Livestock Sale marks the culmination of months of hard work, when 4-H'ers offer their project animals for sale to the highest bidder. Proceeds often go to fund college educations.

Even if you don't need a freezer full of meat, you can still support local 4-H youth by buying an animal and returning it to the sale committee. The sale committee will sell the animal for you at the market price and all you'll owe is the difference between your bid price and the market price.

Those of you who want quality meat but don't have an advertising budget can sign up with the sale secretary to buy returned animals at the market price. You can expect 465 pounds of beef from a 1,000-pound steer, 125-pounds of pork from a 200-pound hog, and 35-pounds of lamb from a 100-pound lamb.

Don't need a whole steer, hog, or lamb? Then bring a friend, split the meat, and the cost. The sale committee will make arrangements to transport your animal to the Cecil County processor of your choice, but buyers are responsible for processing costs.

To preview the animals, attend the sheep show Tuesday, July 25, at 10 a.m. and the swine beef, and dairy steer shows Thursday, July 27, at 9 a.m.

"THE MANURE SYSTEM OF THE FUTURE"

There are answers to your manure handling problems such as: ODOR, RUNOFF, NUTRIENT BUILD-UP, SOLIDS BUILD-UP, STORAGE, AND SOIL COMPACTION. The NC Nutrient Control System is a proven four-part approach to manure management. All phases of the nutrient cycle are addressed and mastered by means of a MECHANICAL SOLIDS SEPARATOR, an AERATOR, a PULSE-JET for liquids, and COMPOSTING for solids. If you are concerned about NUTRIENT MANAGEMENT, call us... we can help.

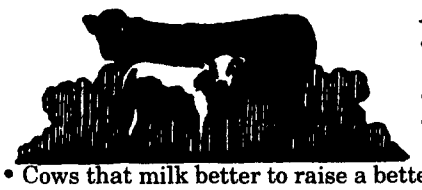
SWEETCAKE 16NU
FEED SUPPLEMENT BLOCKS FOR THE LIVESTOCK INDUSTRY
• High Natural Protein • No Urea • Fat Enhanced
• Balanced Supplementation • Safe For All Livestock Classes

Sweetcake Advantages
- Aids in making the best use of your available forage
- Promotes a more even herd consumption, with 24-hour availability to all cattle
- Reduces labor to save you money and give you more time to make important management decisions
- Supplies much-needed vitamins and minerals that forage lacks to help your cattle perform to their genetic potential
- Supplies fat in most formulations to enhance energy intake

For Dairy

- Replacement heifers that grow out soundly and economically
- Body condition on dry cows so they can return to lactation, producing at the maximum potential
- Healthier herds, with essential trace minerals that help prevent metritis, retained placenta and other health problems
- Prompt re-breeding, thanks to essential nutrients

For Beef



- Stronger, healthier calves at birth
- Heavier Calves at weaning
- Cows that cycle better for improved conception rates
- Cows that milk better to raise a better calf

- AVAILABLE IN 200 LB. SIZE -

Dairy, Swine & Poultry Producers!
New Products Now Available...

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer these products to meet your nutritional needs. Manufacturing these products ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

GOLDEN PRO 46 XP
This natural, mechanically extruded and expelled soybean product is experiencing great acceptance with local dairymen. A course golden colored meal with a 6% fat content, Golden Pro 46 XP is extremely palatable Golden Pro 46 XP is a natural way to bring the value of high by-pass protein into diets that require a lower fat level

GOLDEN MEAL 40
An 18 percent fat content along with a 40 percent crude protein makes this mechanically extruded meal product a valuable component in a variety of rations. Full fat content gives you a high level of digestible energy, while high temperature extruding ruptures the oil cells for better nutritional absorbtions.

CRUDE SOYBEAN OIL
A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications. A natural alternative to animal fats, this oil provides needed energy in various rations.

To make these products available, and to help you utilize your home raised soybeans Keystone Mills announces its

Soybean Exchange Program

As manufacturers and distributers of Golden Pro 46 XP and Golden Meal 40, we are anxious for you to try our products We are offering a soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products

'Industry, Farmer, Scientist — Working Together Toward A Sounder Grassland Program'

Good Haymaking Requires Drying, Storing, And 'Patience'

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

DARLINGTON, Md. — Growing good alfalfa takes a couple of things: good weather and "patience," said Richard Holloway.

Along with his brother Henry and their families, Richard helps manage the 400-acre Holloway Brothers Farm, including beef cattle and crops.

The Holloways, who have expanded their hay supply business this year, understand that while you can't control the weather, having the right grass mix, mowing at the right time, drying it, preserving it, and storing it properly can go a long way in the market.

Construction was finished at the end of April on a 10,000 square-foot hay bale storage area. The Holloway partnership also invested recently in a hay stack wagon.

Money was spent to mechanize the Holloways baling, storing, and transporting of hay — making it readily available for customers, noted Richard's son, Rick. Rick was busy cutting hay in early June at the farm.

Richard noted they can supply hay quicker than customers can take it — the reason for the on-farm storage and mechanization. They see readily expanding opportunties to sell their hay with the burgeoning horse farm market.

There are five horse farms within three miles that need hay and straw reg-

Forty years ago, a group of farmers, industry representatives, and educators formed the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council (PFGC) to work together for better forage programs.

This founding vision has provided the impetus for the 34 states and provinces in Canada that have also formed similar organizations.

In addition to serving as an organizational model, the PFGC also started Ag Progress Days. Yes, it's true! In cooperation with the Pennsylvania State University, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and many other organizations, the first Pennsylvania Forage Progress Days event was conducted at the Milton S. Hershey Farm in Hershey. Wagon tours of the fields, tractor

Pa. Forage And Grassland Council To Celebrate 40th Anniversary

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Forty years ago, in 1960, the Pennsylvania Grassland Council, which later became the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council (PFGC), was formed by a group of farmers, industry representatives, and educators with a single vision: "working together for better forage programs."

The PFGC was the first state forage and grassland organization in the U.S. Its formation served as a model for the other 34 councils that have formed in the U.S. and Canada.

The trials, tribulations, and successes of the first council's 40-year existence have been wonderfully documented in a book by John Baylor. The book begins with grassland agriculture leading up to the formation of the PFGC and follows the journey of both grassland agriculture and the PFGC through present day.

To recognize this proud 40-year history, the PFGC is planning an anniversary celebration on Wednesday, Aug. 16, at Evergreen Farms' covered bridge near Spruce Creek. The festivities will begin with an evening meal followed by a program highlighting key activities in the PFGC's storied history.

Attendees will also receive a copy of John Baylor's book as well as a keepsake letter opener recognizing the proud history of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council.

The PFGC would like to extend an invitation to representatives from as many other state forage and grassland councils as possible to attend the celebration. The evening celebration is scheduled in the middle of Ag Progress Days, a three-day, statewide agriculture and machinery show located 10 miles from the site of the anniversary celebration. Plan to attend Ag Progress Days during the day and the PFGC celebration in the evening.

Contact Richard Hann at (717) 520-2349 to obtain more information or to register for PFGC's 40th anniversary celebration.

LUCK//NOW MIXER FEEDERS
"P" SERIES

Since 1979 LUCK//NOW Mixer Feeders have been recognized as one of the most dependable and strongest built mixers in the field.

To enhance its existing line of Mixer Feeders LUCK//NOW introduces the "P" Series of Mixer Feeders with six models ranging in size from the Model 300 with a mixing capacity of 310 cubic ft., to the Model 900 with a mixing capacity of 900 cubic ft.

The Large diameter augers in all the "P" Series Mixer feeders are capable of giving the mix required, from rations with well cured, long stemmed legume-type hay, to mixes with green grass, and mixes with silage and commodities. Better milk production, better weight gains and greatly improved animal health are just some of the results of a finely-tuned feed ration.

Franklin County Farmer Grows Quality Alfalfa To Easily Meet Nutrition Needs

on his 125 acres of alfalfa.

Gayman and his wife Sally farm 400 acres in Waynesboro, where they milk 140 registered Holsteins. The alfalfa haylage is a key part of their dairy ration, making up 60 percent of the forage base, which accounts for about 52 percent of the ration.

The Gaymans generally get about four cuttings off their alfalfa stands each year, which they keep for four years. In the fifth year, the first cutting is harvested and the stand is planted into corn.

"I generally don't push too hard to get a fifth cutting," said Gayman. "I like to see a little growth there at the end of the summer to help if we get a heavy snow or anything.

"We like to see between 18 and 20 percent protein with our alfalfa," he said. "That generally has a relative feed value of 130 to 140 percent, and it is easier to feed that way."

When the relative feed value goes higher than 140, as it did with last year's fifth cutting, the Gaymans have difficulty balancing the ration.

"We're feeding our fifth cutting right now, and it's testing at 22 percent," said Gayman. "We're running into fiber problems because the relative feed value is too high."

The quality of Gayman's alfalfa haylage is essential to his feeding strategy. "Your bought feeds are cheaper with high quality haylage," said Gayman. "You don't have to buy a lot of protein, and minerals are cheaper.

"It is much easier to balance rations with good roughages than with grains," he said. "It's easier to get milk out of the cows, too."

Gayman's herd, which has the prefix, "Gaymere," averages 23,000 pounds of milk on two times a day test with 4.0 percent fat and 3.2 percent protein.

Gayman has been farming most of his life. He took over the farm in 1990 after farming in a partnership with his father Harold and brother Grant from 1978-1990, when his father decided to retire and his brother took a job as a milk inspector at Maryland and Virginia Milk Cooperative Association.

His father purchased the farm in 1960 when Gayman was in second grade. "The farm we lived on was split by Route 81, and we had 20 acres on the other side of the road that were difficult to get to," said Gayman. "My dad's criteria for purchasing a farm was that it should not have as many rocks as the Greencastle farm."

Gayman's farm doesn't have as many rocks. In fact, the soil quality is very good, according to Gayman. It is mainly Hagerstown loam soil with a little bit of Duffy in it.

The alfalfa is fertilized with a liquid 10-20-10 commercial fertilizer on the second and third cutting. About every three years the Gaymans apply lime to all of their ground.

"We generally get about seven to eight tons of alfalfa on a hay equivalent basis each year," said Gayman. "We used to participate in the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council's alfalfa yield program, and we had the top yield one year of more than 8½ tons per acre."

Although the Gaymans haven't tried any leafhopper resistant varieties on the majority of their alfalfa ground, they do have a couple of test plots that Penn State is monitoring.

"We got involved with the test plots through cooperative extension," said Gayman. "They planted three plots this year and two last year. The university comes out to do yield checks every time I cut it."

In addition to growing alfalfa, the Gaymans also grow corn and barley. "We use corn in our rotation," said Gayman. "After the first cutting of alfalfa is taken off in the fifth year, we plant it in corn silage. We also have 20 acres of barley that we mainly use for straw."

According to Gayman, he does better planting corn than he ever did planting soybeans. "Last year, even with the drought, we got 32 loads off of the corn silage that was double-cropped behind the barley," he said. "It looked terrible, but it waited out the dry weather and produced a crop."

In addition to his traditional crops, Gayman also plants a couple of rows of Indian corn. "You can really see how the hybrids have helped us on a dry year," he said. "The Indian corn just doesn't do anything. But, on a normal year, it really doesn't show that much with all of the fertility and soil samples that we do."

Both the corn silage and the haylage are stored in bunker silos on Gaymere Farm. According to Gayman, it's easier to get in and out of a bunker. There are also less delays because of breakdowns than with upright silos.

"If an unloader breaks down, we just get one of the other tractors with an unloader."

The Gaymans also like the trenches because they're not cutting up the silage any more that it already is. "We're concerned about the length of cut," said Gayman, who recently identified a low rumen pH problem in his herd.

"The nutritionist wants to see the length of cut at between ¾ to 1-inch long, and apparently I cut it too fine," said Gayman. "It packs tighter when it's finer, but I need to change my ways."

Even though the component levels in the milk were still high, the Gaymans had a lot of breeding and sore feet problems. "We need to work on that," said Gayman. "The nutritionist plans to be here when I

Making grass farmers and ranchers more profitable is our business. For ninety years BARENBRUG has excelled worldwide in plant breeding and seed production, constructing breeding stations and test plots throughout widely varied climatic zones. Our expertise will provide you with scientifically adapted forage grasses perfectly suited to any location.

Barenbrug forage grasses are bred to be more leafy and have less seed heads, (thus higher quality) than competitors varieties. Dutch bred BARENBRUG varieties go through a tough 5 year government testing program where they have to be better than other varieties before they can be sold.

News From Alfalfa Nutrition Research

NORCROSS, Ga. — Adequate potassium and phosphorus nutrition are critically important to alfalfa productivity under periodic grazing or hay harvesting.

Carbohydrate assimilation and transport within the alfalfa plant are decreased under potassium deficiency. Potassium is also important for proper nodulation and nitrogen fixation. Alfalfa roots are the main storage organ for starch that is used for regrowth of the shoots. Alfalfa root nitrogen is also mobilized to regrowing shoots, because defoliation (harvest) severely limits uptake of nitrogen by roots and nodule activity.

The primary sources of nitrogen for regrowth during the first two weeks after harvest are root protein and amino acid pools.

A Purdue University project directed by Dr. Jeff Volenec and colleagues, with partial support from the Foundation for Agronomic Research, is studying the interactions of phosphorus and potassium on alfalfa yield and stand persistence. The study is providing new insights into the mechanisms by which alfalfa responds to phosphorus and potassium. It is also monitoring numerous physiological and biochemical (starch, sugar, protein) attributes of the roots thought to be critical to rapid regrowth and winter hardiness.

Nutrients released from clay minerals and soil organic matter sources during the winter months help meet the needs of the first cutting, but as soil test levels decline, yield levels are reduced. This effect has increased each year that the study continues, as soil test levels on the low fertility plots are further depleted.

Over the first two years, plant population has decreased by 50 percent, but so far there has not been a significant difference among the phosphorus and potassium treatments. Higher phosphorus and potassium levels reduced the number of shoots per unit area, indicating that the higher yields are not due to increased shoot density, but are rather due to more dry matter produced per shoot.

Slight decreases in forage quality components have sometimes been observed in the high fertility plots, but the increased yield from phosphorus and potassium application produces more total protein and total digestible nutrients (TDN). Low phosphorus and potassium nutrition did reduce root organic reserves in some cases, and the researchers expect stand persistence to be affected in future years for the low phosphorus and potassium plots. Higher fertility will enable the shoots per unit area to be maintained even though the number of plants per unit area declines. This will ultimately increase stand longevity and may help explain why adequate phosphorus and potassium nutrition are essential to alfalfa productivity.

Better understanding of the physiological effects of phosphorus and potassium management will help explain the yield response and will provide new insights into the best management practices for fertilizing alfalfa for optimum yield and increased stand longevity.

Gayman has three full-time and two part-time employees. One of the employees is the herdsperson.

"I thought about expanding, but the only one who would be interested in the project is my herdsperson," said Gayman. "I don't have any children who would want to partner with me."

Gayman and his wife have two daughters — Abby, who is a sophomore at Penn State, and Joy, who is 15.

"I've been a 4-H leader for the Quincy Washington Township Dairy Club for many years," said Gayman.

In addition to being a 4-H leader, Gayman is also active member of the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council. He, as well as his dad, has served as president and on the board of directors for several years. He is also the president of the Franklin County Extension board of directors.

"Both my wife and I are also active in the Solomon's Lutheran Church," said Gayman. He has served on the church council in the past, and his wife is the part-time secretary.

ularly, according to Henry. The horse markets are a "tremendous user of feed," he said.

Landscapers use straw for sedimentation control, which keeps the straw market steady.

The farm makes silage bales, which are baled at 50 percent total moisture and wrapped in plastic. Dry hay is cut, tedded, and a drying agent and preservative are applied before rectangular baling.

In a good year, within two days, the dry hay can be readily baled. Last year, however, with a persistent drought, some hay was baled in only a day.

The farm follows a soybean/corn/hay-/corn rotation.

A no-till grain drill is used at planting. Alfalfa is fertilized and limed according to soil test results after first and third cuttings. Leafhopper pressure is also closely monitored and sprayed as needed.

At harvest, the keys are weather and "patience," noted Richard. "You think it's ready and it's not."

Critical are the drying times and to be "ready to cut when it's ready," he said.

In a good year, five cuttings are possible. In 1999's drought, the farm continued the scheduled 28-30 day cuttings, though hay was at times uneven and sparse.

The past year was the first year the Holloways ever collected on crop insurance. Corn yields were only about 70-75 bushels per acre. Silage was shorter, but the farm had some to sell.

In all, there are 250 acres in hay at the Holloway farm, of which 75 percent is alfalfa. Half the hay goes to horse farms, a quarter is sold as haylage to Amish farms, and the rest is kept for the cow/calf herd they raise at the farm.

In addition, the Holloways maintain about 120 acres in pasture (on 20-acre lots) and rent additional acres. Cattle are pastured on a rotational system.

The Holloways are converting new pastures, mostly in bluegrass, to an orchardgrass/clover mixture.

The Holloways maintain about 100 beef cows and calves, which they sell to a local freezer and freezer beef market supplier and at Lancaster County auctions.

15'7" cut. Superior conditioning.

The NEW 1441 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner uses 12 discs to make a wide 15'7" cut through your heaviest, toughest crop conditions. You'll clear large fields fast and condition crops thoroughly for fast drydown.

- The advanced independent modular design uses individual disc modules with sealed gear cases connected by independent drive shafts for easy maintenance and repair.
- 102" chevron-design intermeshing rubber rolls provide high capacity and gentle, even conditioning.
- Standard swivel hitch tongue gives you exceptional maneuverability to make tight headland turns and over-square corners.

NEW HOLLAND

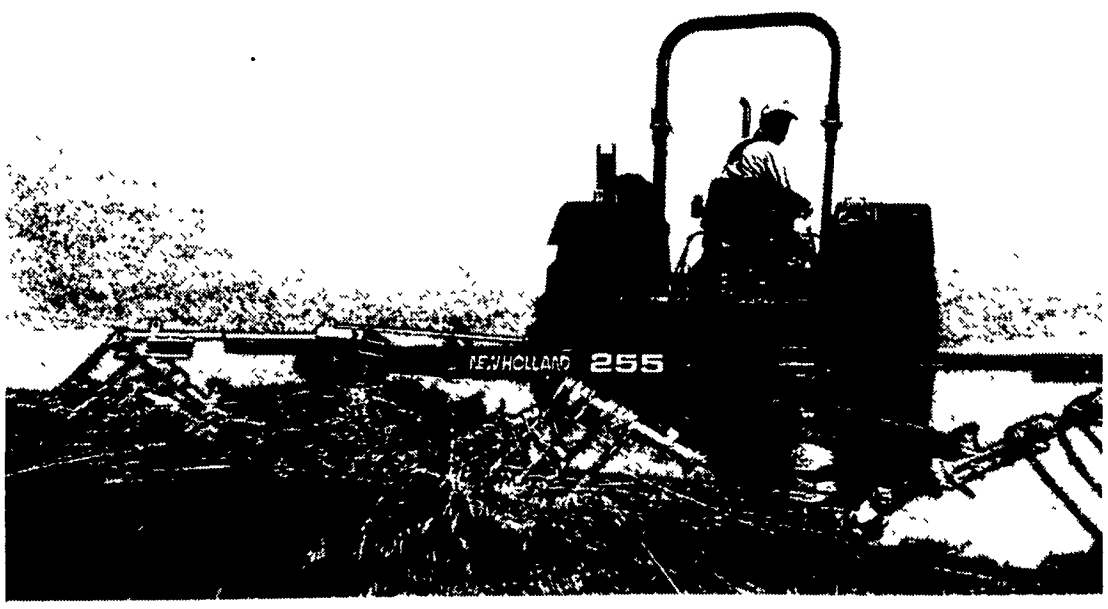
Two jobs, one tool: It's a tedder and a rake

The Model 255 rake tedder is a flexible machine — it's the tedder that also rakes.

- Rake a swath into a windrow
- Rake two windrows into one
- Turn windrows for faster drying
- Move crop away from fences or borders
- Ted a 10½-foot area to fluff up wet, matted-down crop for quick drying

And you can change the "255" from one function to another without tools!

NEW HOLLAND



Big capacity. Uniform chop.

No other forage harvesters give you best-in-class capacity and chop quality. Only the new FP230 and FP240 forage harvesters from New Holland.

- Rugged 1,000-rpm driveline matches higher-horsepower tractors. Use the FP230 with tractors up to 225 PTO hp and the FP240 with tractors up to 300 PTO hp.
- Massive 12-knife cutterhead produces a uniform length of cut from 3/16" to 1-5/16" with four knives.
- Knife sharpening and shearbar adjustment are easy to keep cutting performance at its best.
- Optional on-board Crop-Pro™ crop processor makes feed more digestible and saves the expense and time of using a stationary roller mill.
- Optional Metalert® III electronic metal detector gives you peace of mind.

Put quality silage under wraps

Choose from two models:

- Model B27P is an economic utility wrapper for medium-volume silage producers
- Model B37P is ideal for custom harvesters or operations wrapping large volumes of bales

Both offer a side-mounted lifting arm, three-belt turntable, two large side-support rollers, and cable controls. The B37P is available with computer controls.

❖ INDUSTRY CORNER ❖

WET SEASON MEANS WE NEED TO MAKE THE MOST OUT OF EVERY ACRE

Janet Fallon
Agronomist
Northeast Agway
Ag Products

Last year, many Northeast farmers endured moderate to severe drought stress. As a result, many entered the 2000 growing season with inadequate forage inventories and high hopes that we would have a better growing season with more moisture.

Well, we got more moisture all right. Many farmers were unable to plant all of their corn, first cutting hay was harvested very late and much of it got rained on at least once before it was baled or chopped. We had very heavy alfalfa weevil pressure in many areas. Leafhopper came in early but the beating rains kept populations down-...perhaps the only good thing about this heavy rainfall which also washed away large areas of newly planted corn and new seedings and prevented timely application of post emergent weed control.

Waterlogged conditions resulted in higher than normal losses of applied nitrogen, increasing the demand for sidedressed N...but continued wet conditions made it difficult to do that as well. All this rain also washed away hopes for a "good crop year."

Many farmers planted soybeans or Agway 44 sorgo x sudangrass when it got too late to plant corn. Some will plant more wheat this fall than they originally planned on. Others will put in summer seedings...anything to keep land productive and put feed in their bunkers. We need to make the most out of every acre we were able to get planted. Here are a few things to consider as we approach harvest season.

Alfalfa and alfalfa grass stands — balanced fertility helps perennial forages perform and persist over the long haul. Be sure to topdress good stands of alfalfa or alfalfa grass mixtures with P and K after the last harvest to improve winter survival and get it off to a fast start next spring...especially if it wasn't topdressed earlier in the season. Boron and other micronutrients may be needed as well. Weigh the risk associated with a late fall harvest vs how badly you need the feed right now. It is a field by field decision.

Sorgo x sudangrass or sudangrass — follow the minimum height guidelines for greenchop or pasture to avoid problems with prussic acid poisoning (30-inches for sorgo x sudangrass and 18-inches for sudangrass). If frosted, wait until frosted tissue is paper brown and any new growth reaches the minimum height mentioned above. If ensiled, allow six-eight weeks in the silo before feeding to allow prussic acid to dissipate.

Winter wheat — plant certified seed during the first week or two after the Hessian Fly Free date. Plant a week or two earlier and apply 40 pounds of N per acre in addition to recommend fall rates if fall pasture is needed...which it may be in some areas.

PFGC — A Time To Celebrate!

Dr. John E. Baylor
First President
Pa. Grassland Council

From colonial times to the present, the grasslands in Pennsylvania have been well recognized — but often ignored. Because of its topography, soils, and climate, grassland agriculture has always been well suited to the Keystone State.

By 1900, the natural advantages of Pennsylvania as a grassland state, together with the economic advantages of closeness to markets, made the dairy industry the most important farm enterprise of the state, and has made Pennsylvania one of the leading dairy states in the U.S.

We've included a brief history of grassland agriculture in the state from colonial times to the present in a new book entitled "PFGC-The First 40 Years" to be published this month by the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council. You will get

Hesston Balers — Model 4755

The new Hesston® 4755 creates a half-ton bale that's perfect for either transporting or feeding to your own stock

Wet or dry?

The 4755 easily handles both In fact, you can bale high-moisture crops and seal in high feed values without any equipment modifications

Plus, an optional bale ejector and roller chute let you discharge the last bale at the end of each day

But the secret to our big bale success is in the charge chamber

Hay enters the charge chamber, where it's held until it reaches a preset density

Get your three squares a day... and then some.

Only then is it fed, triggered by a sensor, into the bale chamber for final compression

Unmatched consistency.

Since one charge makes one flake, you get unmatched bale consistency regardless of the crop or ground speed

That's the Hesston difference, and it's backed by 20 years of field experience

Stop by today and check out the 4755 and its new labor-saving 4720 Bale Accumulator

Nobody knows hay like HESSTON

Pasture Walks Set

J.B. Harrold
Joel Elder
Phil Sheets
Natural Resources
Conservation Service

By this time we have had two pasture walks in the county. Hopefully you were able to attend these events. Both pasture walks were informative and a lot of useful information was passed.

There are several more pasture walks planned for this summer. If you would like us to plan a winter meeting, please contact us and give us some ideas on what you want to hear about. The planned pasture walks are as follows:

• Aug. 2 at 1 p.m. at the Phil Ott farm near Windber. Phil and his wife Debbie milk 76 cows and rotationally graze about 60 acres of pasture. They have great fence, water, and alleyway systems. Last year they took part in a trial demonstration project that involved alleyway stabilization with a coal combustion by-product. This product, when installed correctly, sets up like concrete. This farm is one of three projects to demonstrate coal combustion by-product for stabilization. The stabilized area will be reviewed and discussed at the pasture walk. Ron Dodds with Barenburg seed will also be on hand to discuss forages and new varieties of seeds that are available to improve your pastures.

• Sept. 5 at the William "Red" Whittaker farm south of Berlin. We will meet and depart the White Oak Churches at 7 p.m. to review the grazing system. Red has a beef stocker grazing operation. He buys the livestock in the spring and grazes the livestock until he sells them in late summer. He grazes several hundred acres. He is in the process of installing a solar pump to water his livestock on pasture. Red has also planted some warm season grasses to graze and has participated in the streambank fencing program through DEP. This is one of the larger grazing operations in the county and Red manages it quite well.

• Oct. 3 at 1 p.m. at the John and Dan Ferko farm near Central City. They graze a 60-cow herd through a paddock system with water in each paddock. Dry cows are also grazed through a paddock system with water in each paddock. Their heifers, along with some contract heifers, are grazed on another farm in a paddock system. This system is on strip-mined ground. Dan says grazing is a lot of work but the returns he sees are worth all of the work.

These pasture walks normally last one to two hours and you are free to come and go as you please. We believe that these events are educational and a benefit to any grazer. If you have any questions or comments or need directions, please contact us. A van will leave from the NRCS office for each of these pasture walks. If you need a ride, please contact us for specific details. Hope to see you at the pasture walks.

A Maze-N-Corn

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Spend a little time getting lost in corn, for a while, at Penn State's corn maze here during Ag Progress Days.

Next to the PFGC tent will be a corn maze that is four times larger than last year and is wheelchair-accessible.

Ag Progress Days is scheduled Aug. 15-17 at Rockspring. Take your family through the maze, and when you're done, visit the PFGC Hay show less than 50 feet away.

Straight Through Design - The Dion Advantage

All crop entering the harvester is cut, processed and blown all in a direct line, which improves harvesting capacity while slashing energy consumption. The "straight through" concept ensures a smooth, uninterrupted material flow that will deliver even the most stubborn haylage or silage directly to the back of your wagon.

Couple this unique Pull-Type harvester design concept with a "Corn Cracker" option that loses no crop capacity running through the rolls, and you have capacity equal to or better than many self propelled harvesters.

Fertilize For Quality Alfalfa

NORCROSS, Ga. — Alfalfa varieties are now available for the southeast that produce very well under different livestock grazing patterns such as continuous or rotational grazing.

They can also be harvested for hay in the conventional manner. The following fertility and harvest management practices have proven effective for quality forage and long-term stand survival of dual purpose alfalfa varieties.

Stand establishment will benefit from a highly fertile soil. A firm, highly fertile seedbed helps to insure excellent seedling establishment. Lime and build-up fertilizer work best when incorporated into the topsoil prior to seeding. Targets include a pH level of 6.5 to 7.0 and phosphorus and potassium soil test levels in the high range. Other nutrient needs for the first year, such as sulfur, boron, magnesium and/or other micronutrients, can also be applied preplant.

Well-rooted plants lead to good stand health and longevity. Phosphorus promotes seedling root growth. Potassium and molybdenum do the same for nodule development. Cutting the first crop for hay at early bloom helps establish a healthy root system. Allowing animals to graze alfalfa plants no shorter than seven to eight-inches anytime during the season helps maintain root reserves for improved regrowth.

Coordinate maintenance fertilization with spring grazing pressure and plant growth. Spring grazing should begin when plants are about six-inches tall. Animal numbers can then be adjusted as plant growth rate changes during the season. This young alfalfa provides an excellent forage throughout the season with a protein level of 22 to 23 percent, digestibility of about 62 percent, and very high levels of nutrients such as potassium and phosphorus.

Grazing animals recycle some nutrients, but in a nonuniform pattern. Manure droppings kill a few plants, feed a few, and contain nutrients positionally unavailable to many. Thus, plants between manure piles can become nutrient starved and have maintenance fertilizer needs similar to those from harvested hay fields.

Alfalfa has a big appetite, especially for potassium. For each ton of quality alfalfa hay removed from the field, about 15 pounds of phosphate and 60 pounds of potash are removed and need to be returned in the maintenance fertilizer.

Boron and sulfur are key to quality forage. Rates, in general, range from two to three pounds of boron and about 30 pounds of sulfur per acre per year. Both sulfur and potassium interact with nitrogen for optimum protein production. Boron encourages new tissue development in both roots and shoots.

Time maintenance fertilizer applications with plant growth need. Consider splitting the phosphorus, potassium, boron, and sulfur requirements into late spring and early fall applications. Broadcast after the first harvest for hay or first month of grazing to allow the plants to benefit from nutrients released during winter. The second application is timed following the next to last hay harvest in the fall or about a month prior to the fist expected early winter freeze. This not only promotes increased fall production and forage quality but increases plant root reserves needed for tolerance to winter temperature stress and for faster spring regrowth rate.

Hay it or graze it for top alfalfa yield and quality. A summary of 58 location years of university testing across the country showed that alfagraze yielded 5.77 tons per acre while hay-type alfalfa yielded 5.65 tons per acre. Other studies revealed dual purpose alfalfa to have greater grazing survival, a higher average percent leafiness (63.6 versus 61.5 percent), and improved winter hardiness over hay-type varieties.

Mifflin Co. Correspondent

ROCKSPRING (Centre Co.) — Dick Todd could be the most meticulous alfalfa producer in the state.

He intensively manages more than 200 varieties at two Pennsylvania locations, carefully recording alfalfa variety, weather conditions, planting and harvesting dates, soil test information, disease and pest resistance, and use of crop fertilizers, insecticides, and pesticides.

Unlike most alfalfa producers, though, he doesn't care which variety yields the most. It's his job to remain unbiased.

Todd is senior research aide for the Penn State Alfalfa Variety Testing Program at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring and the Southeastern Field Research Lab at Landisville. For a $300 entry fee, seed companies and breeders submit their choice of commercially available and advanced experimental varieties for yield testing. The fee covers the cost of testing for a four-year period.

Each year, Todd records the data on each variety and compiles this information in the "Forage Trials Report," a publication available free at most cooperative extension offices, at the Farm Show, and possibly online by the end of the year.

"We are an unbiased testing source," Todd said. "The testing is open to any company, and we don't recommend any particular variety. We offer the information to back up our results, and let the alfalfa producers make their own decisions."

PFGC ❖ PASTURE PONDERINGS ❖

Duane E. Pysher
Grassland Management Specialist
Natural Resources
Conservation Service
Harrisburg

Recently, I conducted a discussion on horse pasture management with a group of graziers.

As part of the discussion, I explained why it is important to provide a rest period for the forages. I emphasized that in a continuous grazed pasture, there is no rest period; however, if you split a pasture in two, then each paddock is rested 50 percent of the time.

If you split a pasture into 16 paddocks, each paddock is rested 94 percent of the time.

I had just finished this discussion when one of the participants offered this comment: "If I split my pastures in half, my horses would ruin my pastures twice as fast."

It quickly became apparent to me that grazing control concepts are not as easily understood as perhaps I though they were.

I will devote this column to explaining some of the basic concepts of grazing management and control.

First, let's define some of the terminology. The term "rest period," refers to the amount of time a specific land area is allowed to regrow before animals are allowed to regraze it. "Grazing period" is the length of time that grazing livestock occupy a specific land area. A "grazing cycle" is the total time between the beginning of one grazing period to the beginning of another or, in simple terms, the grazing period plus the rest period.

The "specific land area" referred to above denotes a pasture, a paddock, or whatever subdivision of land that the animals have access to at that point in time.

There are three basic ways to control grazing management of forages. The first control is by changing the number of livestock that will graze a piece of land, commonly called "stocking density." The second control is applied when we have a set number of animals and we change the size of the piece of land we allow them to graze. The third control is that of time; when we have a set number of animals and a set size of land for them to graze, we alter the time they have access to graze. The three controls are the numbers of livestock, the size of grazing unit, and the time to graze. Most grazing systems use time and size to control their grazing because most producers do not have the ability to easily change herd numbers.

Generally, a paddock should be grazed for no more than three days. The reason for this is that by day four, regrowth is occurring. This regrowth is very palatable and the livestock usually seek them out for this reason. Overgrazing then becomes a problem and often causes a stand to be destroyed.

The shorter the grazing period, the better utilization of the forage. The reason for that is that the longer the livestock are in a paddock, the more fouling and treading that will occur. There will also be much less selective grazing occurring when the grazing period is short. The livestock generally eat the highest quality forage first and eat the less desirable stuff second. They also tend to eat more when introduced to fresh forage, so there are animal performance reasons to move livestock to new paddocks in addition to maintaining forage quality.

A quick and easy way to determine if your system is operating properly is to simply walk a paddock from which you just removed the livestock and observe what has occurred. If there is a lot of unharvested forage, you may need to reduce the size of the paddocks. If the stubble height left is too low for good forage management, you may need to increase paddock size or decrease the grazing period.

A good rule of thumb is to have a three-inch stubble after grazing for most cool season grasses. This generally allows more leaf area to remain, does not affect carbohydrate reserves, and the forages can recover much faster. If your stubble heights are shorter than that, regrowth will be slower and you should lengthen your rest periods.

Remember that a quick way to kill off desirable forage species is to continually overgraze and allow the grazing of regrowth without a proper rest period for recovery.

A good way of managing a grazing system is to move your livestock through the system according to the forage growth. I have seen systems operated and managed according to a calendar. The problem with this method is that the stage of the forage growth is never considered and generally results in overgrazing or undergrazing and not effectively utilizing what forages we offer to the livestock. In this system, we have a set schedule and, regardless of the stage of the forage growth on a certain day, they will be in a certain paddock.

It doesn't take rocket science to realize that you could easily get into trouble by following this type of system. We need to have flexibility in a grazing system to have it work properly. This flexibility needs to be not only in the rotation scheme, but also with the physical parts of the system, such as the fencing and watering systems.

A good way to take a look at systems to see how you can add flexibility to your grazing program is to attend pasture walks and field days to see how other graziers are doing it. This gives you an opportunity to get answers to many questions you may have or to observe how others have solved a particular problem. Then you could adapt their ideas into your system.

It also affords you an opportunity to find out things that do not work as well and prevents you from making a similar mistake. These informal outings are an excellent way for graziers to learn from each other. There is a listing of upcoming field days and pasture walks in this section of Lancaster Farming.

A field day I want to draw your attention to is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Grazing/Forage Lands Conservation Coalition. This is the coalition that I discussed with you in my January ponderings. They have planned a field day and pasture walk on August 23, 2000 on a Snyder County dairy farm. The hosts for this event will be Tim and Denise Wetzel. Just because it is a dairy farm, do not feel that because

Monitor Your Crop With Plant Analysis

NORCROSS, Ga. — Have you ever applied fertilizer and not seen the results you expected? Did you ever wonder why? Today, a lot of producers taking a precision approach to farming are confused over why their fertility maps don't match up with their yield maps.

It's important to remember that yield is the end result of a host of interacting factors. End-of-season analyses often come up short when trying to understand why some areas of the field yielded less than others. What's needed is some in-season assessment of how the crop is doing. Plant analysis provides just that.

Plant analysis tells you if your crop is being fed properly. Plant analysis results indicate whether or not a plant has sufficient levels of essential nutrients. That's important when you're trying to uncover the causes of a problem.

Plant analysis provides great information for diagnosing problems. Suspected nutrient deficiencies can be confirmed. Sometimes, the information can be used to try and rectify a problem in season. Other times, as is frequently the case with phosphate or potash applications, it helps you decide how better to manage the next crop. When used with soil tests, plant analysis becomes even more powerful.

Plants growing in soil depleted in potassium or phosphorus will have lower concentrations of potassium or phosphorus. If soil fertility levels are sufficient but plants are low in phosphorus or potassium, you can conclude that there are some other factors that are limiting the plant's access to these nutrients. For instance, low plant concentrations of phosphorus or potassium can occur on fertile soils where root growth has been severely restricted. Plant analysis can help you understand if factors other than soil fertility are affecting yields.

Consider getting a complete analysis done. Laboratories offer many different analysis options. Often, it is a good idea to have plants tested for as many nutrients as you can. Why? If you're trying to figure out why one part of the field did better than another, you may need to know about nutrients you didn't think to test for. Having a complete analysis done will ensure that your plant data are complete and not limiting your investigations.

Be sure and take good samples so the test results will mean something. What plant parts to sample and when to sample depend on how a lab is set up to interpret test results. Before taking plant samples, consult your analytical lab and ask what plant parts are needed and at what growth stage to take them. You may have to do a little review of plant growth stages to get it right. Most field guides for crops have pictures of plant growth stages in them. Your lab will tell you all the details you need to know, like what to put the samples in, how many plants to sample, and how quickly to mail them in.

Plant samples can be collected more than once in a season. Have you ever suspected that your crop was behaving differently throughout the season? Maybe it was off to a good start, then did poorly later on, as in compacted soils. Sometimes, a deficiency symptom may be seen early in the season and then disappear. Did the crop overcome the problem or is there still a hidden nutrient deficiency? Taking plant samples at different growth stages can help you interpret whether or not your crop is being properly fed all season long. Which growth stages to choose depends on the lab's ability to interpret the results. Choose only the growth stages for which the lab has good information.

Plant analyses are an integral part of good management. They are part of an overall package of best management practices including scouting, soil testing, and good record keeping. Take a few tests this season. You may find some ways to improve your yields and your profits.

Phosphorus, Potassium Management Of Forage Crops

NORCROSS, Ga. — High yielding, quality forage production is critical to achieving a desired level of animal performance and profitability.

Good forage growth places a heavy demand on the soil's nutrient supplying power. Whether the forage is for grazing, winter feed, or sale, optimizing production requires that soil nutrient deficiencies be corrected.

Phosphorus and potassium are key elements in forage crop establishment and year-to-year productivity. Forage crops require phosphorus for photosynthesis, energy, cell division, carbohydrate production, protein synthesis, root development and early growth, winter hardiness, and nitrogen fixation. Potassium plays a similar role in addition to improving the crop's tolerance to drought and minimizing susceptibility to disease. When in proper balance with nitrogen, sulfur and micronutrients, sufficient phosphorus and potassium ensure high yields of quality forage.

The annual removal of phosphorus and potassium by forage crops is high relative to annual cereal, oilseed, and pulse crops. Alfalfa removes approximately 15 pounds P_2O_5 per ton and 60 pounds K_2O per ton of forage production. The values for grass hay are 11 pounds P_2O_5 and 45 pounds K_2O per ton. With these rates of nutrient removal, it is easy to see how forage stands can rapidly decline in productivity on soils with either low phosphorus and/or potassium levels or in the absence of nutrient application with fertilizer or manure.

Forage crop phosphorus and potassium requirements are best determined using a combination of soil testing and crop nutrient removal. Soil sampling those areas that represent the good producing areas of the field is the best way of assessing soil nutrient supply. If the field is highly variable, it is better to take several soil samples from each of these distinct areas, as opposed to taking a composite sample. Composite samples in variable fields tend to mask possible problems, and can result in recommendations that either miss a possible deficiency or suggest fertilizer application where adequate nutrients are available. Based on a combination of average nutrient removal per ton of forage and annual production levels, an estimate can be made of the nutrient removal and fertilizer requirements to correct potential deficiencies.

Given that phosphorus and potassium move very little in the soil, their availability can be strongly influenced by the method of application. Broadcast application and incorporation of enough phosphorus and potassium for several years of forage production in the year of forage establishment is an effective means of ensuring adequate nutrient supply. On soils testing low in phosphorus or potassium, band application methods tend to be superior to broadcasting.

Preplant banding concentrates the nutrients in a limited soil volume, reducing the opportunity for reaction with the soil and leading to reduced plant availability. Once established, forage stands can either be fertilized by surface broadcast application or injection into the soil using a low-disturbance disk coulter.

Research conducted in western Canada has reported that subsurface banding of nutrients can improve forage yield over surface broadcast application by 800 pounds per acre per year for alfalfa and 500 pounds per acre per year when renovating mixed forage stands. Low disturbance coulter injection allows for the maintenance of forage yields in established stands, while minimizing the damage to the stand.

Optimizing forage crop yield and quality demands attention to meeting crop nutrient requirements. Forage producers can achieve this with an understanding of crop nutrient requirements for yield and quality, as well as fertilizer application methods that maximize crop response.

Heaving In Alfalfa Fields

Dan Undersander
University of Wisconsin

Heaving is likely to be a problem in some alfalfa stands in eastern Wisconsin this spring.

Heaving occurs on heavy soils that have high moisture contents. Repeated freezing and thawing causes expansion and contraction as ice is formed and thawed that pushes the taprooted plants out of the soil.

Where heaving is observed, first dig a few plants to determine if the taproot is broken. Plants with broken taproots will likely green up and survive for varying lengths of time. The length of time before plant death will depend on the length of taproot above the break and will range from greenup only to sufficient growth harvesting first crop.

Fields with heaving one-inch or less are likely to have unbroken taproots and may be salvageable for at least the current year. They will likely green up later than normal. The best recommendation is to leave stands alone and harvest late (50 percent bloom) being sure to raise cutter bar sufficiently to clear crowns. Do not go over the field with a roller or cultipacker in early spring to push the crowns back into the soil. This will likely to do more damage than good.

Natural settling should occur during the year and if plants are reseated stands should survive until next year. Stands entering the winter with elevated crowns are likely to suffer above average winterkill.

Heaving in future years can be minimized by having good internal and surface drainage. Tiling may reduce heaving problems, depending on the depth of the tile. Residue on the surface over winter will reduce heaving because it insulates the soil and reduces the amount of freezing and thawing. This means that fields not harvested last fall will have less heaving than those with fall growth removed.

Planting a grass with the alfalfa has not been shown to reduce heaving of the alfalfa in the stand.

PFGC Accepts Memberships

HERSHEY (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council (PFGC) has announced membership rates for 2000.

The Council, with your membership and support, can accomplish much toward a better forage industry, environment, and community.

It's a big challenge and the PFGC needs your help. By becoming a member now, PFGC can serve an even more active role in support of the forage industry.

The PFGC, formed in 1960, is made up of individuals and organizations that are interested in forage and grassland-based agriculture. The PFGC is dedicated to the production and utilization of quality forage and grassland.

The PFGC works in a variety of ways to promote the industry, through publication of Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland News, through the publication of Foraging Around, and sponsoring individual workshops, training events, field days, Ag Progress Days, leadership, and other activities.

Every member receives the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland News, the Hay and Forage Grower magazine, and a PFGC membership directory.

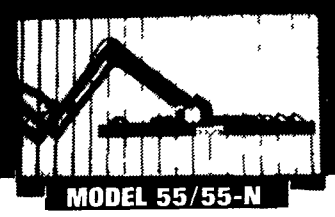
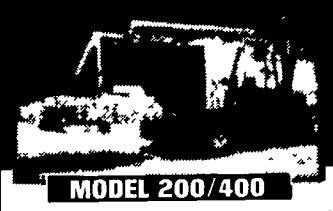
SPECIALIZING IN CUSTOM MANUFACTURED AGRICULTURAL EQUIPMENT

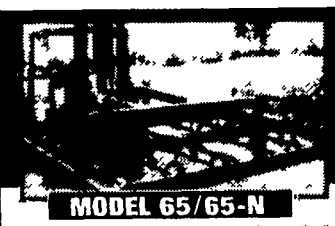
Innovative Hay Handling Solutions For Today's Hay Producers.



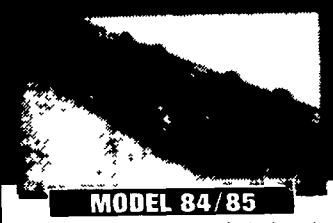
MODEL 55/55-N
The Model 55 is the most versatile of all models matching up to a wide variety of bale patterns It can carry up to 12 two-tie bales 8 three tie or 3 midsize bales at one time It can also be connected to a 90 degree rotator a powered vertical tilt or any of a variety of loader units



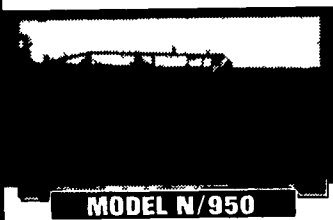
MODEL 200/400
The model 200 is a highly maneuverable vehicle built from the ground up specifically for handling hay It can be mated with all bale rack models to handle all sizes of square bales large or small its extremely rugged design easily handles up to 2000 lbs to 21 high or in the Model 400 version 4000 lbs up to 25 high



MODEL 65/65-N
The Model 65 is specifically built to match up with all New Holland 3 bale wide stack wagons It can carry 12 15 or 18 bales flat or on edge depending on model It is ideal for topping stacks or loading and unloading trucks



MODEL 84/85
These models are extra heavy duty for the demanding application of carrying up to 2 big bales or 3 midsize bales at a time They have additional bearings and extra large teeth that dig deep into the bales to insure a firm grip even with soft or wet tops



MODEL N/950
The model 950 is specifically made for packaging 10 bales together to form a tie package measuring approximately 6 1/2 x 8 ready to load directly onto a truck This completely eliminates the need for someone to turn bales on the truck to get a full load Also it eliminates the need to hand stack at the barn This is truly the only system that eliminates all hand labor

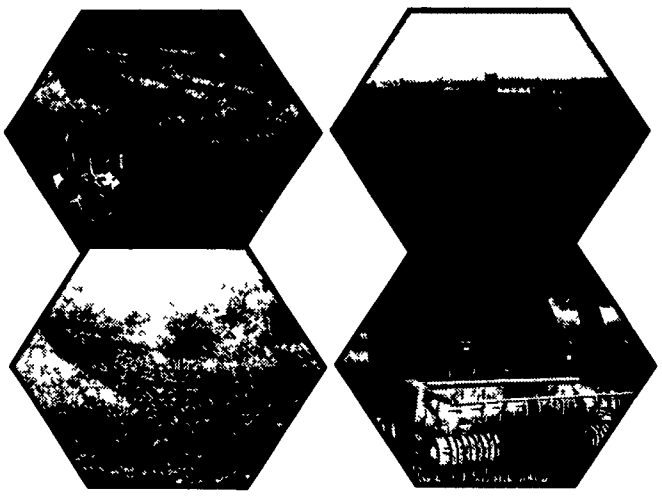
PENNSYLVANIA FORAGE & GRASSLAND COUNCIL

THE FIRST 40 YEARS 1960-2000



INCLUDING A BRIEF HISTORY OF PENNSYLVANIA GRASSLAND AGRICULTURE

"PFGC — The First 40 Years" will premier at Wayne Harpster's farm during Ag Progress.

PFGC — A Time To Celebrate!

your first opportunity to see this publication Wednesday evening, Aug. 16 (during Ag Progress Days), when the council celebrates its 40 years of service to Pennsylvania's forage/livestock industry at our annual picnic at Wayne Harpster's retreat along the majestic Spruce Creek near Seven Stars, 7½ miles west of the Ag Progress Days site.

In addition to a brief look back into the early history of grassland agriculture in our state, this 120-page book highlights many of the great projects undertaken by the council over the past 40 years, which have contributed much to our forage/livestock industries. These include our educational hay and silage programs, forage and Ag Progress days, in-depth forage workshops, our nationally recognized alfalfa growers program, and our outstanding grassland farmers program plus many others.

One of the goals of the council from its beginning has been to identify and recognize individuals — producers, scientists, teachers and others— who have made outstanding contributions to some aspect of forge and grassland improvement in the state. In our publication we've identified about 200 individuals, mainly producers, who have been recognized, and this does not include the hundreds of outstanding hay and silage producers recognized in the past 40 years at our many statewide and regional hay and silage shows! We've also included about 140 photos to help highlight some of the activities and people over the years. Even so, we know we have missed many who deserve to be recognized. For this we apologize.

We'd like to have as many as possible of our award winners, and former as well as present PFGC members, join us on Aug. 16. It will be a great time to greet old friends and enjoy the fellowship. Information on the event, including a registration form, is included elsewhere in this issue of Foraging Around. Advanced registrations are necessary for what promises to be a great meal and program.

Every paid up member of the council will receive a complimentary copy of the history either at or following the celebration. Additional copies can be purchased after the Aug. 16 event for $6 each, which includes postage and handling. Contact Dick Hann, PFGC Headquarters, P.O. Box 355, Hershey, PA 17033.

Incidentally, if for some reason you are not now a paid up member of PFGC, why not sign up? You can include your membership dues when you send in your reservation for our celebration. Or send in your membership dues separately if you prefer.

It's a great way to get a complimentary copy of our history. Furthermore, the council urges and needs the active support of every grasslander in Pennsylvania.

See you in August.

Alfalfa Trials Offer Farmers Unbiased Information

Todd works closely with and under the direction of Scott Harkcom, agronomy research farm manager, and Dr. Marvin Hall, forage extension specialist.

"The purpose of the trials is to see how the varieties perform under different growing conditions," said Harkcom. "The yearly report is a real benefit to the seed industry and producers."

Both trial locations feature well-drained Hagerstown silt loam soils. With the Landisville location's slightly longer growing season and higher temperatures, Todd is able to harvest alfalfa five times per season compared to four cuttings at Rockspring. Testing at two sites allows variety evaluations that are more applicable to various parts of Pennsylvania. Harkcom would like to eventually establish another test site in the state.

"Marvin Hall and I oversee the program. Dick makes the program go. He crunches the numbers and puts the report together. Because it's a yield trial, we manage the trials intensively for no weeds or insects," Harkcom said.

"Each variety is replicated four times in three-foot x 15-foot plots," Todd said. "Fertilizer is applied according to soil test recommendations. All alfalfa varieties are harvested on the same day. Cutting dates are based on maturity and proper cutting interval."

The alfalfa trials were first established at Rockspring in early 1980s. The first forage grass trials were planted in the late 1980s because of a growing interest in hay production and rotational grazing.

Also, some soils in Pennsylvania are not suited for alfalfa production. Forage grass trails are conducted only at Rockspring, but they hope to establish another forage grass trail at another location in the state.

"The orchardgrass, timothy, tall fescue, ryegrass, and reed canarygrass plots require more management on Dick's part because maturity varies per variety. They're harvested at different times so that forage yields are measured at comparable stages."

"The alfalfa and forage grass tests are only part of the variety-testing programs," Harkcom said. "We conduct similar evaluations for corn, small grains, and soybeans. Although these are primarily yield trials, we are conducting separate trials on those crops that have specialty traits, such as potato leafhopper resistance."

Farmers and alfalfa producers deciding which varieties would best suit their situation are invited to visit the test plots during Ag Progress Days. Although the test information is available between Thanksgiving and Christmas, the published "Forage Trials Report" becomes available by Christmas, and farmers are encouraged to pick up their copy at the Farm Show in Harrisburg.

The "Forage Trials Report" charts yield performance per variety for the current growing season, previous harvests, and average yields over the life of the stand. It includes precipitation statistics, leafhopper trials, red clover variety trials, and cool-season grass variety trials at both locations.

Pa. GLFCC Sets State Dairy Grazing Day

MIDDLEBURG (Snyder Co.) — On Aug. 23, the Pennsylvania Grazing Lands Forage Conservation Coalition (GLFCC) will sponsor a statewide dairy grazing field day here at Mabarbil Farm operated by Tim and Denise Wetzel.

The farm is located near Middleburg in Snyder County. Tim and Denise milk 85 Holstein cows in a swing parlor. They practice intensive grazing on 242 acres with a good fence and water system.

The morning will feature the following speakers: Karen Sullivan, animal scientist with NRCS in New York; Donald Wild, western New York grazing land specialist with NRCS; and Alan Rotz, agricultural engineer with the USDA ARS Pasture Lab.

Sullivan will discuss feeding programs to optimize milk production on pasture. Wild will discuss water systems for grazing systems. Rotz will discuss the economics of storing feeds for winter feeding programs.

The afternoon will feature a pasture walk on the Wetzel Farm. The pasture walk should end by 2:30 p.m.

Lunch will be provided, but reservations are required by Aug. 16. For reservations, call the Snyder County Conservation District at 570-837-0007 ext. 102.

The Pennsylvania GLFCC, the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), and the Snyder County Conservation District are sponsoring this event.

Alfalfa Intensive Training Seminar Oct. 24-26

WOOSTER, Ohio — The internationally recognized Alfalfa Intensive Training Seminar is scheduled here Oct. 24-26.

This seminar has been taught around the U.S., but hasn't been in the eastern part of the U.S. since 1994.

The proximity of this opportunity provides a great chance for people from Pennsylvania to attend without the added expense of air travel.

The Alfalfa Intensive Training Seminar was developed by the Alfalfa Council and is taught by leading alfalfa experts from across the county. Its primarily target audiences are persons marketing alfalfa seed or auxiliary alfalfa products and farmers wishing to optimize their alfalfa production/utilization.

This seminar will offer intensive training in many areas of alfalfa, including growth and development, establishment and management, fertilization, pests and pest management, hay and silage making, harvesting and harvesting losses, forage quality, marketing, and utilization.

Class size is limited, so early registration is suggested. Contact the Alfalfa Council, 816-891-0579 for more information about the seminar or to register. Registration fee is $500 per person.

❖ INDUSTRY CORNER ❖

SPRING 2000
ALFALFA STANDS
Mike Brubaker
Brubaker Consulting Group

New seeding alfalfa stands across the Mid-Atlantic were very variable this year. The primary cause of the variability was weather related.

Alfalfa growers that prepared a proper tilled seedbed seeded and then received heavy, pounding rains, ended up with tight compacted soils that made it very difficult for the alfalfa seedlings to emerge. Most of these stands have acceptable populations of alfalfa because of the frequent rains that kept the soil from crusting. The alfalfa stands in these fields are still not growing as productively as possible, but improvements are visible each week.

In addition to the pounding rain, some alfalfa fields received lack of sunshine that also invited leaf disease to prosper and grow. Numerous alfalfa leaf and stem diseases were observed (downy mildew), causing some stands to appear chloritic and lack vigor. As the sunshine increased, the leaf diseases subsided.

And finally, numerous acres across the Mid-Atlantic reported hail damage to alfalfa and other crops. This damage was very localized and temporary.

Be sure to inspect your fields closely for potato leafhoppers. With all the stress alfalfa has received this spring, it will be important to keep the leafhopper in check.

❖ PRESIDENT'S CORNER ❖

square dancing, dairy animal shows, equipment displays were all part of the program.

Looking back on our 40-year history, I'm sure that you will agree that we have come a long way, not only as an organization, but also as an industry. I hope you will join me in commemorating the PFGC's tradition of excellence by attending the 40th Anniversary Celebration Wednesday, Aug. 16, at the "covered bridge" of Wayne Harpster's Evergreen Farms near Seven Stars. Order your tickets now!

We are expecting more than 350 members and key forage producers to attend our anniversary celebration. Several forage leaders will present the history of the PFGC "by decade" as the "40-Year History of the PFGC," a book written by Dr. John Baylor and Richard Hann, is scheduled to be released that day. The president of the American Forage and Grassland Council, other keynote speakers, and PFGC past-presidents will also be there.

Meanwhile, on the national front, the American Forage and Grassland Council is conducting its annual conference, July 16-18, in Madison, Wis. The conference program includes a hay show, the national photo contest, a forage spokesperson contest, and an international panel discussion on the future of alfalfa as a grazing crop.

Roman Stoltzfus, Kinzers, will be representing the PFGC in the forage spokesperson contest. We wish him well!

One final note: a plot of cool season grasses and alfalfa variety trials are ongoing at Penn State's Rockspring Research Farm. A group of us from P.L. Rohrer toured the plots. I believe you would find a visit to the farm very interesting. If you would like to see the plots, contact your county agent.

As always, I welcome your input. If you would like additional information or have questions, contact me by phone (717) 299-2571 or by e-mail at PL-Rohrer @compuserve.com.

I look forward to seeing you at the 40th Anniversary Celebration!

STOP RAINING ON THE ANIMALS

It has been raining on animals since a horse plowed the first furrow. Condensation forming under the roofs of farm buildings is the reason. And that's because there's never been a perfect insulation product for farm buildings. Until now. Introducing Thermax® AG Therm™ Insulation/Finish Board from Celotex. AG Therm stops the rain and stops the elements.

AG for agriculture. Therm for thermal. It works for all kinds of buildings.

No matter who's in it or what's in it. Install it in new buildings or improve old ones. Celotex made it for you. The animals will thank you. For information where to purchase AG Therm, call Celotex at 1-800-556-4215.
